CONGRESS GETS ROOSEVELT PLAN ON FARM LOANS

Calls for Two Billion Bond Issue.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—Democratic leaders prepared tonight to rush through congress this week a stupendous program to lift the farmers out of the trough of the depression.

It embraces the two billion dollar farm mortgage refinancing bill, which the President submitted to congress today in a special message, and the farm commodities bill, designed to restore pre-war prices of agricultural products by means of a tax yielding several billions to be paid by consumers.

Tariff Agreement Plan.

In the offing there is a third measure which Mr. Roosevelt in his message referred to as legislation by which he will seek "to initiate practical reciprocal tariff agreements to break through trade barriers and establish foreign markets for farm and industrial products."

The President also said he presently would ask legislation for the refinancing of city and village home owners' mortgages along the same lines as the farm mortgage refinancing measure.

The senate committee on agriculture, to which the farm mortgage bill was referred, will decide tomorrow whether to attach this measure to the farm commodities bill. The committee is ready to report the latter measure to the senate virtually in the form it was passed by the house.

Includes Price Fixing Plan.

It voted today to include in the bill as an additional and discretionary means of farm relief the price fixing plan of John A. Simpson, president of the National Farmers' union, which is designed to guarantee farmers the cost of production.

Three house committees—agriculture, ways and means, and banking and currency—quarreled over possession of the farm mortgage bill, and Speaker Rainey ruled that the house would determine the reference after hearing the claims tomorrow.

The bonds to be issued up to two billion dollars for refinancing farm mortgages are not to be government obligations, but bonds of the federal land banks. The government, under the terms of the bill, will guarantee payment of the interest but not the principal. If, however, payment of the principal should be defaulted pressure would be brought to bear on congress to make good the deficit.

Requires Advance by U. S.

The federal treasury would be required to furnish at once 65 millions to cover losses to the federal land banks incurred through reduction of the farm mortgage interest rate to a maximum of 4½ per cent. Furthermore, the Reconstruction Finance corporation is authorized to advance 300 millions to carry out purposes of the bill.

Under the plan envisaged by its authors, Henry Morgenthau Jr., governor of the new farm credit administration, and professional adviser, farm mortgage indebtedness would be scaled down in two ways.

A mortgagee, willing to settle at 70 or 80 per cent of the principal, could exchange the mortgage on that basis for land bank bonds. The bank then would refinance the farmer at 4½ per cent. Or a farmer making a composition with his creditor could borrow the funds for settlement from the land bank.

Boon for Insurance Companies.

One-third of the farm mortgage indebtedness is held by insurance companies which have pressed for the legislation, eager to exchange their frozen mortgages for bonds with interest guaranteed by the government. Mr. Morgenthau said today, however, that "the little fellow, the farmer, the village bank, the forgotten man, will be taken care of first, the corporations afterward."

Opposition to the legislation revolves around two arguments. One is that it will be an inducement to farmers to default in the payments on their present mortgages in order to persuade mortgagees to settle at less than face value. The other is that such a vast flotation of four per cent bonds would tend to demoralize the bond market and react unfavorably on banks and insurance companies with large bond portfolios. The maturity of the bonds is to be fixed by the land banks and probably will be 30 or 40 years.

How long the credit of the government will endure the multiplying strains placed upon it is also another

Madman Kills Himself as Policemen Reach Him

Holding a revolver in his hand, Carol Prusse, 48 years old, a former inmate of the Elgin state hospital, confronted three policemen in his home last night. They had been sent to arrest him because he had threatened his wife. "If you try to take me, I'll kill myself," he threatened, ignoring the pleas of police to surrender quietly. As the bluecoats closed in on him, Prusse fired a shot into his brain, killing himself.

DIRIGIBLE FALLS INTO SEA; FOUR SAVED BY SHIP

Admiral Moffett Is Among Missing.

BULLETIN.

New York, April 4 (Tuesday.)—(Special.) — Shortly after 4 o'clock this morning the master of the Phoebus in a copyrighted message to the Associated Press, reported:

"Phoebus still searching. Exact details later. Four men saved.

"Capt. Dalldorf."

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., April 4.—(AP)—The navy department intercepted a radio message shortly after 5 a. m.—said to have originated in the Atlantic City coast guard station—which said "most of the survivors of the Akron" had been picked up. Pending more certain information, however, high naval officials said they did not place "much credence" in the report.

New York, April 4 (Tuesday).—(Special.)—With 77 officers and men aboard, the U. S. S. Akron, newest and largest dirigible airship in the world, crashed off the Barnegat lightship on the New Jersey coast during a severe thunderstorm early this morning.

Fragmentary and conflicting reports received up to 4 a. m. indicated that the hulk of the great craft was still afloat off the New Jersey shore but that the loss of life may have been heavy. There was slight hope that the ship itself could be salvaged.

Report Four Survivors.

Four survivors, including Lieutenant Commander Herbert Victor Wiley, executive officer of the Akron, and three seamen, had been picked up by the German tanker Phoebus, which first reported the disaster at 1:46 a. m. The tanker was standing by, seeking to rescue other survivors.

More than three hours after the Phoebus had dispatched first tidings of the disaster a radio message from the tanker to the navy department said the airship Akron had crashed at 12:30 a. m. "in a widespread thunderstorm" and that many men were in the water when the Phoebus had last seen the dirigible.

Admiral Moffett Aboard.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy's bureau of aernonautics and an enthusiastic proponent of lighter-than-air craft was among those aboard, a Washington dispatch to the Associated Press reported.

The Akron had left her base at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., yesterday afternoon for a practice flight. Eight hours later fragmentary reports picked up from the German tanker indicated the great airship might be a total loss. The Akron is 785 feet long with a cubic capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet and cost $5,375,000 to build. The bulletins about the disaster indicated that the Phoebus was having difficulty in getting alongside the floating airship.

Storm Raging Off Coast.

An unusually severe thunderstorm, with violent displays of lightning and heavy rain squalls, was raging in the region in which the Akron was reported down, reports from other ships to the coast guard indicated. Blustery

GERMAN CAPTAIN TELLS OF RESCUE

By CAPT. DALLDORF.
Master of German Tanker Phoebus.
[Copyrighted by the Associated Press.]

S. S. Phoebus at sea, 20 miles off Barnegat light, April 4.—About 12:30 o'clock this morning, during a thunderstorm and heavy rains, I saw aircraft lights flashing as my ship ploughed its way toward Tampico from New York.

Shortly afterward I saw lights flashing on the water.

I changed my course to approach the lights and soon heard men hailing from the water.

I stopped the ship, turned on all lights, lowered boats and put lifeboats over the side.

I saw mattresses and wreckage, and pulled one mat over the side of the boat. We got three men. (Previous reports said four.—Ed.) I saw some men sink before we could get them.

After this, no more men were found.

I am still searching and will continue until after daylight, or when relieved by coast guard.

Wiley Radios a Report.

Washington, D. C., April 4 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Herbert V. Wiley of New London, Conn., lieutenant commander and executive officer of the airship Akron, radioed the navy department through the steamship Phoebus today:

"The Akron crashed 20 miles east of Barnegat. Searching for survivors. Lieutenant Commander Wiley and three men on board suffering from immersion and shock. Further details later. (Signed) Wiley."

A second message intercepted by the Mackay radio station and relayed to the department from the Phoebus at 3:40 a. m. said:

Admiral Moffett Heads 77 Officers and Men on Akron

Washington, D. C., April 4.—(AP)—The following is a list—telephoned by the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., to the navy department early today—of the names from the records there of those who took off aboard the airship Akron last night:

WILSON MIZNER, SPORTSMAN AND AUTHOR, IS DEAD

Los Angeles, Cal., April 3.—[Special.]—Wilson Mizner, noted playwright, sportsman, and adventurer, died here late tonight of heart disease which followed an illness of more than six months. He was 58 years old. His death came shortly after that of his brother, Addison, with whom he had been associated in million dollar enterprises in the Florida land boom.

Mizner joined the gold rush to Alaska in the winter of 1896. There he opened a trading post. He and the late Tex Rickard were two of the first five white men to live in Nome. Following the Klondike gold rush, Mizner left Alaska for the white lights of Broadway. He was associated with the management of Stanley Ketchel in that pugilist's career. While in New York he wrote most of his plays, among them being "The Only Law," "The Deep Purple," and "Alias Jimmy Valentine." He married the widow of Charles Yerkes, Chicago traction magnate.

Hitler Orders Nazis to Halt Jewish Boycott

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 3.—Chancellor Hitler's Nazis will not resume the boycott against German Jewry on Wednesday as scheduled. The government today put a stop to the boycott for two reasons—economic and diplomatic.

In the first place Count Lutz von Schwerin-Krosigk, minister of finance, warned the government that resumption of the boycott would further cripple the business life of the nation. He told the cabinet the high cost of maintaining the Nazi auxiliary police has greatly increased the treasury's deficit.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, followed this announcement by stating that the financial situation "is serious."

Object to Boycott.

In the second place two leading members of the government strenuously objected to the boycott. One was Baron Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister, and the other Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, minister of economics and agriculture. When it appeared that a split in the cabinet was imminent the Nazis were instructed to desist.

Julius Streicher, head of the central anti-Jewish boycott committee, thereupon issued the following statement:

"The battle [boycott] will not be further taken up on Wednesday. This will prove a disappointment to millions of Germans, but discipline must be observed in any event. It was not easy to yield, but Adolf Hitler can only proceed one step at a time."

The boycott generalissimo added that "the time is not far distant when by law it will be forbidden for a gentile to marry a Jewess or a Jew to marry a gentile girl."

Max Reinhardt a Victim.

Berlin was amazed today when the Nazi hatred of Jews and its "purging of art temples" struck at Max Reinhardt, the nation's leading theatrical producer. He was ousted as producer-manager of the Deutsches theater, with which he has been indentified for a quarter of a century, upon the order of the Nazi commissioner for the Prussian ministry of education, art and science.

A communique announcing that his contract with the theater was terminated said that Reinhardt's real name was Goldman. The new management announced that its productions would take full cognizance of the requirements of German "kultur."

Reinhardt is best known for his production of "The Miracle," which has been played in several of the larger American cities and throughout Europe.

Four Jews End Lives.

Thus, the repression of German Jews goes marching on. Four suicides were attributed to Nazi persecutions today. In the town of Alfeld, Dr. Casper, a prominent Jewish judge, ended his life after 23 years' service on the bench. He had been ousted from office.

In Frankfort-on-Oder three persons killed themselves. One was a Jewish business man named Barbec. A Jewish owner of a drug store, named Meyer, and his wife were the other two.

Hans Heymann, manager of a Tietz branch store, and his wife attempted suicide at Gladbach-Rheydt. Both are in a critical condition. The Tietz stores were closed during Saturday's boycott.

The Nazis, deprived of their anti-

RECOMMENDATIONS OF M. V. L. ON CANDIDATES FOR 5 COUNCIL SEATS

The recommendations of the Municipal Voters' league on candidates for aldermen in today's run-off election in five wards are as follows:

6. Ald. John F. Healy.
9. Vote for Beck or Lindell.
18. Ald. Walter W. Morris.
41. Oliver W. Holmes.
47. Ald. John J. Hoellen.

In these five wards no candidate received a majority of all the votes cast for alderman, necessitating the run-off elections between the two candidates who received the highest and the next highest number of votes.

MICHIGAN VOTES REPEAL OF U. S. PROHIBITION ACT

Convention Will Act Next Monday.

BULLETIN.

Detroit, April 4.—(AP)—Five hundred out of 883 Detroit precincts on prohibition repeal gave: for repeal, 128,162; against repeal, 14,735. The balloting was for 17 delegates to the repeal convention.

The repeal trend of nearly ten to one shown in Wayne county (Detroit) early returns thus seems to be maintained as later reports come in.

BULLETIN.

Detroit, Mich., April 3.—(Special.)—Returns at midnight indicated that at least 75 of the 100 delegates named were pledged for ratification at Monday's convention in Lansing. The majority may mount still higher.

Detroit, Mich., April 3.—[Special.]—The voters of Michigan apparently have made their once bone dry state the first of the thirty-six states needed to knock out the federal prohibition amendment.

In the state's referendum voting today eleven districts, officially counted, have chosen wet delegates to the state convention to be held next Monday to ratify the 21st amendment to the federal constitution. That amendment's purpose is to take the 18th or prohibition amendment out of the constitution.

In the state-wide election today thirty other districts went so heavily wet in the early returns that they can almost be counted in the wet lineup.

Drys' Vote Is Small.

Only three of the forty-four districts reporting in early returns showed the drys in the lead. The returns in these three districts were not complete.

With forty-one districts seemingly safe for abrogating the 18th amendment, the wets have to win only ten more to make sure of victory next Monday. There will be altogether 100 delegates in the convention and a bare majority or 51 votes is needed to ratify the federal action.

The twenty-one delegates from Wayne county—Detroit—are not included in the returns received thus far. These twenty-one are admitted even by the drys to be wet.

On these early returns the wets are counting the state in the bag.

Vote Counts by Districts.

Toward midnight returns had been tabulated from 857 of the state's 3,417 precincts. The aggregate vote at that time stood 207,669 in favor of repeal and 84,931 against it.

The total vote had no bearing on the choosing of the convention delegates, the election being by state representative districts.

The vote was tremendous, surprising both wet and dry leaders. The victories in most of the districts were so large they surpassed even the hopes of the repealists.

It now is expected that the total will be far ahead of that cast in November, when Michigan repealed its state bone dry laws by a margin of 1,022,568 to 475,265.

The state laws were so stringent and their enforcement so harsh that they brought revolt by the people. It was the "life for a pint" and similar statutes that spelled doom for the whole code.

How Referendum Worked.

The delegates selected in today's referendum for the state repeal convention, which meets April 10, are allocated numerically according to the number of legislators in the lower house at Lansing. Michigan has 100 state representatives, hence there will be 100 convention delegates.

The state constitution provides that a city cannot be divided into legislative districts. Detroit, therefore, on a population basis elects 17 state representatives at large. Other cities follow the same plan. Grand Rapids, for example, elects three representatives at large. The result is that Detroit today elected 17 delegates at large to the repeal convention. Grand Rapids and other cities having similar status elected their delegates at large. Small cities and rural areas elected their delegates according to the way their legislative district lines are drawn.

Vote Binds Convention.

The candidates for delegates were placed on the ballots by county committees composed of the Probate judge and two other officials. In each district one candidate was pledged wet, another dry.

On the ballot in Wayne county [Detroit] were two columns of M names each. It was not a partisan ballot and therefore no circle appeared at the head of the column. Each voter marked 17 crosses down the list.

Speed Beer Bill in Assembly.

Following closely upon the referendum vote, Gov. William A. Comstock expected to have introduced in the state legislature at Lansing today a bill to legalize the sale in Michigan of 3.2 beer. Under the governor's plans, if the measure carries, beer would go on sale in about a fortnight. He explained that he purposely had withheld the measure until after the referendum so that no confusion might be caused to the voters.

Gov. Comstock, who took a leading part in writing the repeal plank into the Democratic national platform at the Chicago convention last summer, pushed the referendum plan through the legislature and set the date for the ratification convention at April 10, with the hope that Michigan would be the first state to vote for repeal of the national prohibition law.

WISCONSIN VOTES TODAY

Milwaukee, Wis., April 3.—(AP)—On the basis of past performances, many observers predicted Wisconsin tomorrow will vote for repeal of the 18th amendment. One of the chief arguments is that Wisconsin was one of the first states to repeal its own prohibition law. It was repealed four years ago by referendum, 350,337 to 196,402.

The Rev. Warren Jones of Madison, head of the state Anti-Saloon league, conceded tonight the repealists will win.

Fifteen delegates are to be elected at large to the constitutional convention to be held at Madison April 25. There are 15 wet and 15 dry candidates, none of whom are identified with any political faction. Each is committed as to how he will vote in the convention. The mandate of the people will be revealed when tomorrow's votes are counted.

Other issues to be settled in tomorrow's election include candidates for the State Supreme court, municipal offices, judgeships, and school boards.

California to Vote June 6.

Sacramento, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—A bill setting up machinery for a convention of delegates to vote on repeal of the 18th amendment passed the legislature today. It takes effect immediately.

A senate committee has set June 6 as the date for a special election to choose the delegates.

North Carolina House Votes.

Raleigh, N. C., April 3.—(AP)—A bill to legalize the sale of 3.2 per cent beer in North Carolina was approved by the North Carolina house of representatives tonight by a vote of 72 to 25.

The vote came on second reading. Since the measure carries a revenue provision, it wil require a third reading tomorow and, barring an unlikely reversal of the house's attitude, it will become law upon ratification, since the measure already has passed the senate.

ACT THIS WEEK ON CONVENTION FOR DRY REPEAL

Action setting up the machinery for a convention in Illinois to act upon ratification of the 21st amendment, which repeals the 18th amendment, is expected at Springfield this week. Senator Harold G. Ward, chairman of the committee having the bill in charge, is to confer with Gov. Horner today.

As affairs stand, it is proposed to provide for the election of fifty delegates and to elect them in the state at large instead of by congressional districts. The proposal is with a view of enabling the naming of a slate of twenty-five Republicans and twenty-five Democrats as a "repeal ticket."

One proposal is to turn over the repeal campaign to the Crusaders, militant anti-prohibitionists, with a view of keeping partisan politics out of it. The "anti-repeal ticket" is expected to be prepared by the Anti-Saloon league and kindred organizations.

Slates are to be nominated by petition, 25,000 signatures being at present favored. Some of the legislators are for holding the election of delegates to the ratification convention, June 5, at the time of the judicial elections, but judges who are up for reelection are said to be opposed to this.

Roosevelt O.K.'s Promotion of Doctor at Great Lakes

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—Lieut. Com. Martin Donelsen, in charge of the United States naval hospital at great lakes, Illinois, is one of the 23 officers in the medical corps whose promotion to the rank of commander has been approved by President Roosevelt.

COURTNEY LAYS DOWN LAW; NO BEER RACKETS

Tells Brewers He Will Fight Gangs.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday laid down the rule that there must be ethics in the new beer business and that hoodlums shall not enter it. The 3.2 brew that will become legitimate at midnight Thursday must be kept legitimate and so must those engaged in the manufacture, delivery, and sale of it, the prosecutor declared. He gave his views to a group of brewery representatives gathered in his office.

Mr. Courtney summoned the brewers to conference because of reports concerning independent sales agencies. The activities of Leonard Boltz, 1135 Fair Oaks avenue, Oak Park, had been reported to him. Boltz, according to the police, was once a member of a bootleg beer syndicate on the northwest side. He was indicted in the slot machine scandal of a few years ago.

Gets 12 State Charters.

Last November Boltz and three others got charters from the secretary of state for twelve brewing companies, using names of Chicago breweries which had allowed their articles of incorporation to lapse with the coming of prohibition. Boltz and his associates were given charters for corporations to be known as Schoenhofen Brewing company, Seipps Brewing company, Miller Brewing company, and nine other concerns whose names were similar to those of old time brewing companies.

Thus, it was pointed out, if Boltz and his allies could get permits to operate breweries, the old Schoenhofen Company, Inc., which produced Edelweiss beer, would have a competitor of almost similar name. Also the Miller High Life beer, and the Conrad Seipp brewery would have a rival of almost the same name.

Hoodlums Refused Permits.

But E. C. Yellowley, in charge of the federal permit division here, declared he would give no hoodlums permits. So far, he said, none of Boltz's companies have applied for a federal permit to make legal beer. It became known, however, that some bootleggers have been telling their present speakeasy customers to buy a certain beer suspected of being a Boltz product.

Last week Boltz was arrested. He said he had rented a warehouse on the west side and intended to act as agent and distributor for a Wisconsin brewery.

It was reported that Boltz had sought to sell to legitimate companies the brewery names given in his charters. Failing in this, he is said to have tried to trade the names for the agencies of out of town brewing companies. It was because of these reports and rumors concerning the activities of other bootleg beer gangsters that State's Attorney Courtney called the brewers to conference.

Courtney Is Emphatic.

Mr. Courtney expressed himself emphatically at the meeting. Those who attended were George A. Laadt, representing the Atlas Brewing company; H. F. Ernst of the Prima company, Irving Soloman of Schoenhofen company, I. H. Stone of the United States Brewing company, State Senator Frank McDermott of the McDermott Brewing company, and R. Schoessling and C. Allis, officials of the brewery drivers' union.

"There have been rumors that racketeers are presenting a serious threat to the millions of dollars invested in our industry," said one of the brewery representatives.

"The state's attorney has full power to keep the racketeers out of your business and intends to use it," Mr. Courtney replied. "I want to tell you right now that if I have any reasonable suspicion that racketeers are creeping into the legitimate breweries your permit is gone.

"Another power resting in this office is that of indicting under the conspiracy sections of the criminal code for any boycotting or price fixing. Any gangsters endeavoring to establish a boycott against a brewery in any territory or to stabilize prices by threats will be indicted, as will those who conspire with them."

"Well," said one brewer, "my salesmen have reported that in a number of places they were preceded by well known racketeers who threatened to throw bombs if they didn't get the beer business."

"You tell your retailers to come to this office, or to phone Capt. Dan Gilbert [chief investigator for the state's attorney] or notify Police Commissioner Allman whenever such a threat is made," Courtney replied. "I insist on your cooperation."

Crusaders Appeal to Horner.

Meanwhile the question of whether there will be a wide-spread midnight celebration of beer's return in hotels, restaurants and cabarets remained in a state of indecision. Col. Ira L. Reeves, director of the Crusaders, appealed to Gov. Horner to prevent a wild Thursday night by prohibiting the sale of beer until 7 a. m. Friday. The Crusaders, who are fighting for repeal, feel that a too violent reception of the new beer would be a setback to their cause, Col. Reeves said.

The brewers, however, in spite of the protests of hotel men who have urged delaying beer deliveries until after daylight Friday, indicated that truckloads of beer would start rolling toward consumers the moment the legal restriction is lifted. One of the hotel managers' chief objections to night deliveries, it was explained, was their fear that beer trucks would be hijacked by gangsters. There was a promise of police protection, however, against hijackers.

WHITE HOUSE GUESTS TO BE SERVED BEER, MRS. ROOSEVELT SAYS

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—Beer at the White House. It's coming.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who does not drink a drop herself, but who wouldn't "dream of imposing my own conviction on any other person as long as they live up to the law of our land," today announced that when beer is legal for any government home it will certainly be "proper" to serve it at the White House.

Her statement, mimeographed and handed out to the newspaper women at today's conference, instantly thrust up two question marks: When, and how?

The "when" depends upon local legislation now pending in congress, providing for legal beer in the District of Columbia but carrying a rider against its use on government property put there by the senate. The house refused to concur. The congressional okay is expected soon, however.

"I hope very much," Mrs. Roosevelt's statement added, "that any change in legislation may tend to improve the present conditions and lead to greater temperance. There has been a great deal of bootlegging in beer and once it is legal this will be unprofitable, and I hope that a great many people who used stronger things will be content with legal beer so that the cause of temperance will be really served."

31 YEAR OLD HORSE DIES.

WOMAN KILLS HER SLEEPING MATE; SHOOTS SELF, BOY

Home then Set Ablaze in N. W. Side Tragedy.

Becoming suddenly crazed, a northwest side housewife early this morning shot and killed her sleeping husband in their home at 5024 North Kedvale avenue, shot her 11 year old son, then set fire to the house and shot herself. She and the boy are in critical condition at the Swedish Covenant hospital.

Principals in the family tragedy were William Peters, 38 years old, an unemployed milk wagon driver; Mrs. Doris Peters, 37, his wife, and William Jr., the son.

About 3:30 o'clock this morning, a neighbor, Edward Wemlinger, 5024 North Kedvale avenue, heard screams. From his window he saw Mrs. Peters leaning out the second floor front window of her home. The upper floor was afire. He and his brother, Carl, set up a ladder against her window and carried her down. Shortly afterward Fire Lieut. John Mulvell of Truck 28 entered the burning home and carried out the boy. The father was also carried out.

"I'm shot," William Jr. cried. Firemen and police until that moment had believed all victims of smoke. Then it was found that Peters was dead, his wife shot in the head, and the son in the abdomen. In the house was found a half filled can of benzine. Police believe that Mrs. Peters became crazed brooding over finances.

U. S. PROSECUTOR EASES UP ON DRY LAW VIOLATORS

Los Angeles, Cal., April 3.—[Special.]—With the United States District judges acquiescing, United States Attorney Gordon Layng today launched a campaign to rid the congestion of the court calendars of hundreds of cases of minor violations of the national prohibition act by offering moderate fines to those who pleaded guilty and saved the government the expense of jury trials.

Unted States District Judges W. P. James, Paul McCormick, George Cosgrave, and Harry Holtzer said they would impose any punishment suggested by the assistant United States attorney attached to their courts.

Assistant Federal Prohibition Administrator Peters and Prohibition Legal Adviser Rhoades also agreed to Layng's plans.

Stanley Brett, 54 years old, of 2164 North Clark street, was sobbing as if his heart would break last evening in the home of Mrs. Frank S. Hansen, 1634 Granville avenue, when Detectives John Fleming and Albert Lauderdale tiptoed up to him.

"Alas, poor Frank, my old pal," moaned Mr. Brett and he loosed another copious flood of tears.

Mrs. Hansen, 32 years old, a comely widow, looked on dourly. On the table beside her lay two bouquets which the weeper had brought as a belated expression of his sympathy over the recent death of her husband—his old pal. It was shortly after the death of Mr. Hansen that Mr. Brett had projected himself upon the domestic scene.

By letter and by phone he had told the young widow of his sorrow, that he and her husband were old friends and that he desired in every way possible to prove to her his undying friendship for her late husband.

However, Mrs. Hansen was wary. She had read a newspaper story telling how one Charles J. Blaine had similarly approached the widow of John A. Hough, formerly of 130 North Lotus avenue, married her, and disappeared shortly afterward with $3,000 of her insurance money.

Which was why, as Mr. Brett was sobbing heavily in Mrs. Hansen's home, Detectives Lauderdale and Fleming tiptoed up to him from another room. They laid their hands upon his shoulders, but they were arresting hands, not consoling ones.

Mr. Brett, wiping the tears from his eyes, was taken to the Rogers Park station, and questioned by Capt. Patrick Harding. Was he not "the old pal" who had defrauded the widow Hough? Mr. Brett nodded. Police said he apparently had victimized other widows, and had intended to fleece Mrs. Hansen.

In Mr. Brett's pockets were found a packet of letters from women throughout the country, also a list of names. These will be investigated. Brett is an ex-convict.

KENILWORTH TO HAVE ALL NEW BEER IT WANTS

Staid Kenilworth can have all the beer it wants to drink. The village board last night decided that, as the new 3.2 beer is nonintoxicating, drug stores and groceries may sell it without hindrance and without paying any special license fee.

The council also authorized the establishment of a brewery distributing station, with a capacity of 300 cases, if zoning laws are observed. However, the board's police committee was ordered to watch the effect of the brew on the residents and to take appropriate action if it makes them ill.

Lake Forest voted to permit the sale of beer in stores by the case, but barred sale for drinking in restaurants, soda fountains and stores. It will be decided later whether fashionable country clubs in the city limits can sell beer.

CHICAGO LEADERS OFF TO WOMEN'S WET CONFERENCE

Jubilation over the return of beer will not be permitted to eclipse the remainder of the program of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, which will hold its annual conference Wednesday and Thursday in Washington, it was said yesterday as Chicago representatives left for the capital. Mrs Leslie Wheeler, Mrs. William H. Mitchell and Mrs. William A. Sauer departed by the sedan, and Mrs. H. Lord Frank and Mrs Milton Goodman will leave to... Mrs. John Borden, who is visiting in Washington, will also attend as a Chicago delegate. The national officers will have their session today, preliminary to the opening of the general conference tomorrow.

PURSE SNATCHER CAPTURED.

Peter Pawlick, 18 years old, 681 West 64th street, was captured yesterday by Englewood police after he had snatched a purse containing $22 from Mrs Elnora Winters, 6807 Emerald avenue, in 68th street near Union avenue.

U. S. DROPS PLAN FOR MERGING OF RAILROAD LINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and a staff of government experts today began the task of working out the final draft of the administration program for rejuvenation of the American railroad system. Final conferences with spokesmen for the railway industry and investors were held today and an emergency act designed to carry out the wishes of President Roosevelt will go to the White House late this week.

While officials attending the conference said it was still too early to outline all details of the proposed railroad plan, it was learned definitely that all thought of adopting any program calling for drastic consolidation of the railroad lines has been abandoned. The Prince consolidation plan for separating the roads into seven regional group, each to be controlled by a leasing company, was discarded for the present.

U. S. Control Plea Made.

A plea advanced by Donald Richberg, as spokesman for the railway labor executives in behalf of complete government control of the railroads met with no favor at the hands of Secretary Roper and the Roosevelt experts.

As previously indicated the Roosevelt program will call for federal coördination of the American railroads with a national coördinator in general charge. The entire railway system will be grouped into a small number of units, probably three and certainly less than seven. The program will include a section for taking care of the thousands of employés whose jobs will be wiped out by elimination of duplicative and wasteful railway services.

Officials working on the emergency act asserted it would result in the saving of many millions of dollars through the scrapping of concessions now given by railroads to shippers in order to attract traffic. One official said that at the present time the roads are spending millions financing free services, such as warehousing, free freight yard service and free ferrying.

Assistants for Zones.

The chief coördinator would have charge over the whole system, with an assistant coördinator in each regional area. In each zone the federal coördinator will have authority to assign various types of traffic—passenger and freight to separate lines, thus avoiding the costly duplications of service blamed for the present plight of the roads.

One of the points still undetermined, so far as could be ascertained today, was that of just how much authority would be given the coördinator. The question of whether the coördinator would have to work through the interstate commerce commission was also to be determined. In many quarters the view was taken that the coördinator would have to have authority to go over the head of the I. C. C. if he was to be really effective.

Work on the final draft of the emergency act was begun after spokesmen for labor, the security holders, railway operators, and sponsors of consolidation and coördination plans had presented their views at a round table discussion in Secretary Roper's office. At this meeting those in attendance were encouraged to talk freely and to put all their cards on the table.

Seeks Job Assurance.

It was at a session of railroad and government officials that Mr. Richberg made his plea for outright government control. He asserted that no unification of railroad operations had been proposed which would not profoundly affect the employés by throwing large numbers out of work. He declared that if the government approved any consolidation or coördination program it must at the same time inaugurate a huge public works program for putting men to work, inaugurate a vast railway maintenance and rehabilitation construction program, and pave the way for industrial rehabilitation.

It was Mr. Richberg's contention that the capital obligations of the roads must be scaled down, interest rates cut, and reductions made in the fixed charges which now burden the roads. He asserted community interests served by railroads must be cared for and that employés must be allowed to participate in the formation of the unification plans.

Richberg Outlines Plan.

In making his plea Mr. Richberg said:

"If, as seems to be the fact, we are facing now a breakdown of railroad transportation service and the inability of the railroads to function as a whole adequately in the present crisis, we must face the further fact that there is no agency capable of bringing order out of chaos, of coördinating and unifying operations and maintaining the necessary credit and providing safe, adequate, and continuous transportation service throughout the nation except an agency created by and directly responsible to the federal government."

Mr. Richberg reiterated labor's opposition to any plan throwing men out of work. He asserted that the Prince plan would throw 300,000 men out of work and at the same time produce a "chaos of labor disputes."

Leasing Plan Proposed.

Mr. Prince proposes to effect the consolidations by leasing of all the class one railroads in each regional system to a regional operating company. The stock of the regional company would be distributed among the constituent railroads according to a formula based on their average earnings. Traffic would be routed in each system over the most economical lines.

It is understood the sponsors of the Prince plan have been instructed to continue their studies.

ROOSEVELT PICKS CLAUDE G. BOWERS ENVOY TO SPAIN

H. M. Durning Chosen N. Y. Port Collector.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—Caught up somewhat on his emergency legislative program, President Roosevelt today turned briefly to the absorbing subject of patronage. In a burst of nominations he forwarded to the senate the following names:

CLAUDE G. BOWERS, columnist, author, and keynoter of the Democratic convention at Houston, Tex., in 1928, to be ambassador to Spain. He was born in Hamilton county, Indiana.

JOSEPH W. WOODROUGH of Nebraska to be judge of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals. He is a federal district judge named to the bench by President Wilson.

HARRY M. DURNING of New York to be collecter of the port of New York. He is an intimate friend of Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Democratic leader, and Roosevelt supporter.

Warren Delano Robbins, chief of the protocol division of the state department, is under serious consideration by President Roosevelt for appointment as minister to Canada. Robbins is a cousin of the President. By virtue of his duties in the state department, he is the ceremonial officer in the capital.

Francis White, who has been an assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin-American affairs, appears slated for a high diplomatic post and has been mentioned as ambassador to Cuba.

THEY BREAKFAST, THEN ROB CAFE CASHIER OF $1,400

Three robbers took $1,400 from Miss Rose Paull, cashier in the Triangle restaurant at 171 West Madison street, after breakfasting in the place yesterday. The bandits drove away before 65 customers were aware of the robbery.

After eating a meal in the Union cafeteria, 557 Jackson boulevard, two bandits forced the cashier, Mrs. Winifred Federson, and a waitress to lie on the floor while they took $500 from a cash register. The owner, Miss Eleanor Swan, refused to lie down, but compromised by taking a chair behind the counter.

NEW YORK ASSURED IT WILL HAVE BEER FIRST DAY IT'S LEGAL

New York, April 3.—(AP)—Beer on Friday in New York seemed assured today when Mayor John P. O'Brien expressed the opinion that sale of the brew would be lawful so long as the sanitary code is complied with.

The mayor said he would ask the board of aldermen to enact a form of license in event the legislature adjourns without adopting a beer control measure so the city will not be deprived of tax revenue.

Mayor O'Brien's assertion that beer sales would be lawful on Friday followed upon a conference with Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly, who held that inasmuch as 3.2 per cent beer has been declared nonintoxicating by congress it could be sold where there is no state legislation to the contrary and where the regulations of the health department are observed.

GUNMAN TAKES PANTS FROM 2 TO BLOCK PURSUIT

A gunman held up Philip Levine, a collector for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, in the entrance of Levine's home at 3317 West 19th street, and robbed him of $130 last evening. Then he took Levine's trousers, to prevent pursuit.

Less than an hour later a man answering the same description entered the Hanover Shoe store at 139 West Madison street. He picked out a pair of house slippers shown him by Adolph E. Smith, assistant manager, who was alone in the store.

As Smith went to the cash register to ring up the purchase the man drew a gun and robbed him of $30. Then he took Smith's pants, but tossed them in a waste basket as he went out. Smith told police that the man wore size 9 shoes.

DIES OF INJURIES FROM FALL.

Injuries received in a fall on Feb. 22 caused the death yesterday in the county hospital of Michael Prendergast, 55 years old, 323 West 51st street.

MAYORAL CAMPS IN EVANSTON FIRE FINAL VOLLEYS

City Council Gets Charges Against Freeman.

Evanston continued to seethe with political activity last night as the forces of Mayor Charles H. Bartlett and Henry D. Penfield, his opponent for reëlection, sought to swing support for the election today.

A pamphlet brought out by the Penfield supporters, attacking the personal records and law enforcement activities of Mayor Bartlett and his chief of police, William O. Freeman, was presented at a city council meeting and was referred without delay to the police committee, where it will rest until after the election.

Ald. Edward Jourdain, colored, of the 5th ward, protested that the list of alleged speakeasies in the pamphlet showed most of them in sections occupied by colored residents, and claimed this was an effort to cast odium on the race. He deplored this action on the part of the Penfield cohorts.

Bring in Handwriting Experts.

Much of the activity in Evanston centered on an affidavit, supposedly made by one H. B. Weber, and notarized by Justice of the Peace Samuel Harrison. This affidavit contained serious charges against Chief of Police Freeman. The magistrate swore to a warrant charging Weber with forgery, but he was not apprehended yesterday.

While Harrison continued to deny he had ever seen the document, the Penfield supporters engaged the services of two handwriting experts, H. A. Rounds and Mrs. Katherine Keeler, who declared the notary signature was that of Harrison. Just the same, the justice of the peace stood firm in his denial.

Other Suburbs to Ballot.

Besides Evanston, several other Cook county cities and villages will have elections of officers and thirty townships will choose officials today. Among those voting on city or village officers are Oak Park, Berwyn, River Forest, Glencoe and Winnetka.

In Oak Park the incumbent trustees, headed by President Willis McFeely, are opposed by a ticket headed by G. W. Hales, grain dealer. A warm fight is also being waged on the question of having or not having a municipal court; also the selection of a judge if Oak Park is to have the court.

About a year ago the residents of the village held an election in which the court was approved. No election to the office has since been held and there is a proposition on the ballot to repeal the former action of approval. At the same time Thomas W. Barrett and Fred S. Loomis are striving to be elected municipal judge.

Three Cornered Fight in Berwyn.

In Berwyn a three cornered fight is being waged for the office of mayor. The incumbent, Frank Novotny, formerly a Democrat, is running on an independent coalition ticket and is opposed by Otto Pecha, Democratic nominee, and Anthony Fink, Republican.

Cicero is to elect only a city collector, one trustee and a police magistrate. In River Forest the village president, Charles F. Baumruck, running for reëlection, is opposed by Harvey L. Cavender. There are candidates on the same tickets for three trustee vacancies and for police magistrate.

President William B. Moulton of Winnetka is seeking the office again and is opposed by Stanley Rich, independent. Moulton heads the old caucus party. He and three caucus nominees for village trustees are linked with the forces which strive on Saturday to elect school trustees favorable to the advanced educational methods of Dr. Carleton Washburne. The independent forces wish to return to older methods of instruction.

Two Tickets in Glencoe.

The Glencoe caucus ticket, headed by Alfred B. Smith, is opposed by an "economy" ticket, of which August C. Babize is head.

None of the south side suburbs are to hold village elections, although township officials are to be chosen.

CONGRESS GIVEN ROOSEVELT PLAN FOR FARM LOANS

Calls for Bond Issue of 2 Billions.

question becoming acute. Impaired credit would be followed unquestionably by inflation, and many public men believe that inflation is "just around the corner."

The President asked the farm mortgage legislation "as an integral part of the broad plan to end the forced liquidation of property, to increase purchasing power and to broaden the credit structure for the benefit of both the producing and the consuming elements in our population."

"That many thousands of farmers in all parts of the country are unable to meet indebtedness incurred when their crop prices had a very different money value is well known to all of you," his message continued. "The legislation now pending, which seeks to raise agricultural commodity prices, is a definite step to enable farm debtors to pay their indebtedness in commodity terms more closely approximating those in which the indebtedness was incurred, but that is not enough.

Readjustment of Debts.

"In addition the federal government should provide for the refinancing of mortgage and other indebtedness so as to accomplish a more equitable readjustment of the principal of the debt, a reduction of interest rates, which in many instances are so unconscionably high as to be contrary to a sound public policy, and, by a temporary readjustment of amortization, to give sufficient time to farmers to restore to them the hope of ultimate free ownership of their own lands. I seek an end to the threatened loss of homes and productive capacity now faced by hundreds of thousands of American farm families.

"The legislation I suggest will not impose a heavy burden upon the national treasury. It will instead provide a means by which, through existing agencies of the government, the farm owners of the nation will be enabled to refinance themselves on reasonable terms, lighten their harassing burdens and give them a fair opportunity to return to sound conditions."

Joint Land Bank Obligation.

The bonds, authorized in the administration bill, are to be the joint obligation of the 12 federal land banks, which now have 1 billion 150 million dollars in bonds outstanding. The land banks will have authority to exchange these bonds for approved first mortgages on farm property or to purchase such mortgages, but the value of the bonds to be exchanged for, or the purchase price of any mortgage shall not exceed the face of the mortgage, nor shall it exceed 50 per cent of the normal value of the land mortgaged, plus 20 per cent of the value of the permanent insured improvements. The bill fixes a time limit of two years in which these interest-guaranteed bonds may be issued.

The interest rate on existing mortgage loans made through national loan associations by the federal land banks and those made within two years after the passage of the act shall not exceed 4½ per cent and provision is made for reducing payments on mortgages now held by the federal land bank to the same rate, but where loans are made directly by the federal land banks, and not through a farm loan association, it is to be one-half of 1 per cent greater.

U. S. Covers Land Bank Loss.

Fifteen million dollars is authorized to be appropriated to cover the loss to the federal land banks caused by reduction in the mortgage interest rate. The secretary of the treasury is authorized to subscribe 50 million dollars to the paid in surplus of the federal land banks, on approval of the farm loan commissioner, this sum constituting a loan which will permit the banks to defer for five years amortization payments and to decrease or postpone interest payment due from farmer borrowers who are unable to meet them.

"The effect of this provision is to permit a farmer to keep his federal land bank mortgage in good standing with total annual payments of only 4½ per cent as against present payments, including amortization, of an average of 6½ per cent, and to offer opportunity for further reductions in cases of extreme need," Mr. Morgenthau explained.

"It is hoped that other credit agencies holding farm mortgages will, as a result of the passage of the bill, offer similar lenient terms during the emergency to their farmer borrowers."

There is also provision for special loans to be made by the farm loan commissioner directly to farmers on the security of first or second mortgages on land, chattels, or crops. The amount of any such individual loan is not to exceed $5,000 and it must not amount to more than 75 per cent of the normal value of the property pledged as security. The interest rate on these individual loans is to be 5 per cent and they are to be amortized in ten years.

One of the purposes of this provision is to permit farmers to regain possession of farm homes lost through foreclosure within the last year. The Reconstruction Finance corporation is authorized to advance 200 million dollars to the farm loan commission for this purpose.

The bill contains provisions for the gradual liquidation of the joint stock land banks. After the date of the passage of the act they are forbidden to issue any tax exempt bonds or to make any farm loans except those incidental to refinancing existing loans or bond issues or to the sale of real estate.

Borrow 100 Million.

The joint stock land banks would be permitted, under the bill, to borrow up to a total of one hundred million dollars out of Reconstruction Finance corporation funds, to be placed at the disposal of the farm loan commissioner on the security of mortgages held by the joint stock banks, but the amount of any loan is not to exceed 60 per cent of the normal value of the farms covered by the mortgages so pledged.

A condition of such loans is that the joint stock land banks shall reduce to five per cent the interest on their mortgages, and a further condition is that they shall not foreclose any mortgage unless the property is abandoned or foreclosure is necessary for other reasons in the opinion of the farm loan commissioner.

There is an added provision in the bill for loans by the Reconstruction Finance corporation in an amount not to exceed 50 million dollars to drainage, levee, irrigation, and similar districts to permit them to refinance outstanding indebtedness.

Summary of Farm Loan Bill

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—The farm mortgage refinancing bill, sent to congress today by President Roosevelt, provides in brief as follows:

Within two years after enactment or until such time as land bank bonds sell readily at 4 per cent interest, the land banks may issue up to 2 billion dollars of 4 per cent bonds, interest to be guaranteed by the United States. The banks may exchange these bonds for first mortgages on farm property up to the face value of the mortgage but to not more than 50 per cent of the land value plus 20 per cent of the value of permanent insured improvements.

Interest on loans made through farm loan associations shall not exceed 4½ per cent; loans not so made shall not exceed 5 per cent. To cover the interest loss to land banks 11 million dollars is appropriated.

To permit the land banks to grant extensions and defer amortization payments for 5 years the treasury is to loan the banks 50 million dollars.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation is to loan the farm loan commissioner 200 million dollars so he may make loans of not more than $5,000 each to farmers on the security of first or second mortgages on land, chattels, or crops. Interest rate on these loans, designed to aid farmers in regaining homes lost in foreclosures during the last year, is to be 5 per cent and amortization in ten years is required.

Gradual liquidation of the joint stock land banks, the Reconstruction Finance corporation being required to lend the banks 100 million dollars to assist in this purpose.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation is authorized to loan 50 million dollars to help drainage, levee, and irrigation districts to refinance their indebtedness.

OLD LINE GRAIN OPERATORS BACK ROOSEVELT AIMS

Meeting Here Expresses Faith and Optimism.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The first indication that has reached the public that President Roosevelt has won over to his new farm relief measures the organized grain trade of the nation, including officers of the Chicago Board of Trade, was contained in remarks of Peter B. Carey, the exchange's president, in a Chicago meeting yesterday.

Carey addressed the opening of a six day convention of the Society of Grain Elevator Superintendents of North America, at the Sherman hotel. Veteran grain merchants in the audience declared it was the first time in their experience that a federal farm relief measure which might involve price fixing had met with the approval of the "old line grain operators."

Ready to Trust President.

Confidence in the administration of "any new laws governing agriculture" was voiced by Carey, who urged that, while the grain trade is apprehensive of the latest farm relief bill, Roosevelt has been "so sure of his actions in the past month" the grain tradesmen should trust him in administering the farm relief bill.

"I believe that in the administration of any new laws governing agriculture," Carey said, "the administration, fully alive to the mistakes of the farm board, will avoid price fixing and will keep the markets for farm products broad and liquid and free of crippling restrictions. This would mean that such markets may invite back the great investment and speculative support that once carried the surpluses from crop to crop at prices which meant farmer prosperity and which enabled markets to distribute these surpluses abroad expeditiously and profitably."

Time Now for Optimism.

Carey expressed the conviction that the bottom of the depression for the grain industry "has been plumbed," and that with the actions of the new administration in Washington grain merchants and the milling industry could "throw away pessimism and substitute optimism," with the assurance that they would be consulted in any contemplated federal actions.

"I believe the government will seek to protect business in every way possible, being fully alive to the fact that only a prosperous business can provide large scale employment."

JUDGE SETS APRIL 17 TO HEAR STEVENSES' PLEA ON INDICTMENTS

Judge Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday set April 17 for hearing arguments on the defense motion to quash the conspiracy indictments against Ernest J. Stevens and his father, James W. Stevens. The charges grew out of the collapse of the Illinois Life Insurance company.

Judge Sullivan also directed both state and defense to be prepared to argue the state motion that the father and son be tried separately. Prosecutor Grover C. Niemeyer held that too great a delay would result if the state awaited the recovery of the elder Stevens, who is ill at his home, 1260 Lake Shore drive, following a stroke of apoplexy.

Defense attorneys insisted that the elder Stevens and his son be tried at the same time. They argued that the father is without funds, and said that it would be an injustice to compel Ernest Stevens to shoulder the expense of two trials. Dr. William T. Harsha, called by the defense, said that the elder Stevens is in a dazed mental condition, and too ill to appear in court.

JOVIAL WAS THE SMITH, AND THIS IS THE REASON

Harry Covington, 52 years old, a convict at Joliet who is working as a prison blacksmith, recently complained about the condition of his forge and prison officials gave him permission to build a new one. The guards remarked that Covington, who was sentenced for robbery in Cook county four years ago, was happy with his new equipment, and sang at his work.

Recently the guards noticed an alcoholic odor. They made a search and found a movable plate near the bottom of Covington's new forge which concealed a hollow case. Inside the hollow bubbled a two gallon still.

Covington was placed in solitary confinement.

EXPECT COUNCIL TO GIVE CORR VALID ELECTION

Would Continue in Office as Temporary Mayor.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A possibility that Acting Mayor Frank J. Corr may be reëlected by the new city council, with the understanding that it would be a temporary matter, designed to remove all doubt as to the validity of Corr's signature as mayor, loomed above the horizon yesterday at Democratic headquarters.

The development followed discussions at the city hall about the over due pay rolls for teachers, firemen and other city employés. The question was raised as to how soon the mayor's signature will be needed on warrants and bonds now under negotiation. Controller M. S. Szymczak is expected back from Washington today with word as to when loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be available.

Seek Ruling on Signature.

The aldermen plan to request him to ask for a formal opinion from Chapman & Cutler, security experts, upon whom bankers rely for advice as to the validity of securities, as to whether any cloud remains on Acting Mayor Corr's signature.

Many lawyers in both political camps have held that the emergency act passed at Springfield last week empowering the city council to elect an alderman, or some one outside the city council, to be mayor for the rest of the Cermak vacancy which runs two years more, does not clothe Acting Mayor Corr with more powers than he already possessed. They pointed out that the clause in the constitution prohibiting ex post facto laws would prevent the new law from operating in connection with the election of Mr. Corr.

Council to Avoid Haste.

Democratic party leaders meanwhile propose not to act in haste in selecting a prominent "outsider" to be Century of Progress mayor of Chicago. The general opinion is that the election of a new mayor to fill the whole unexpired term would not be held by the city council until its next regular meeting April 17 and that it might be deferred until some time in May.

Yesterday the talk in organization circles was that if the bond experts hold the acting mayor has doubtful powers to sign documents and if signatures on warrants for pay roll purposes will be needed in the next week or two, the easiest way out would be for the city council to reëlect Mr. Corr on the tacit understanding that he would step aside when the organization fixes upon its choice for World's Fair mayor. It was argued that by this expedient Mr. Corr would be elected in conformity with the newly enacted emergency law, while so far he has not performed any acts requiring further validation.

Expect 40 Council Seats.

After today's run-off aldermanic election in five wards the Democrats expect to have at least 40 of the 50 members of the city council. The aldermen meet in caucus tomorrow to pick a committee on committees, and the next regular meeting is set for April 17.

Canvass of today's vote will require little time and by Thursday all credentials of new aldermen should be ready. Talk yesterday among organization men was that if necessary a special meeting could be held Thursday or Friday to reëlect Mr. Corr, if such a procedure should be held essential. This, it was held, will depend upon the outcome of conferences today with Controller Szymczak.

In yesterday's gossip the name of Sheldon W. Govier, clerk of the Appellate court, appeared among the dark horses. Among the committeemen there was considerable talk about Mr. Govier's record in the city council, where for some sixteen years he has been a diligent battler for economy in government and against raids on the treasury projected by the former city hall régime.

He is still an alderman for the 9th ward until his successor is chosen today and qualifies. As an instance of Govier's standing it was pointed out that in November he was one of the local Democrats who ran ahead of President Roosevelt and Governor Horner in Cook county.

The return of Patrick A. Nash, party leader, was the signal for the reopening of negotiations on coalition. Nothing definite was accomplished. Among the Democratic ward committeemen the prevalent idea seems to be that any coalition should be confined to an indorsement by the Democrats of the five Republican Circuit court judges indorsed by the bar association primaries. They hold that the Democratic party should put up its own candidates for the remaining fifteen Circuit judgeships.

The proposal from the Republicans that the Democrats should refrain from entering a candidate against Justice Frederic R. DeYoung of the Supreme court, in the 7th district, was followed by a declaration from many of the Democratic committeemen that this, in effect, would make the place on the Supreme court an appointive one at the will of the leaders of both parties. Friends of Judges Martin M. Gridley, John P. McGoorty, Denis E. Sullivan, and John M. O'Connor held that it would be a dangerous precedent.

$18,416,880 TAX LEVY VOTED BY COUNTY BOARD

The county commissioners yesterday passed the 1933 county tax levy of $18,416,880. This total is an increase of $554,505 over the 1932 tax levy of $17,862,375, despite a slash of $1,502,000 in the corporate fund and another $250,000 in the highway fund for 1933. The increase is accounted for by a $1,806,505 jump in the bond and interest fund for 1933 and the inclusion of $500,000 in employés' pension funds, for which no levy was made in 1932.

Commissioners said that the increase in the bond and interest fund requirements was occasioned by relief bond issues floated by the county. A table showing the levy by funds for 1933, as compared with 1932, follows:

Corporate fund.....	$10,514,000	$12,016,000
Bond and interest...	6,652,880	4,846,375
Highway	750,000	1,000,000
Employés' pension...	500,000	*.....

*No levy.

The board also approved the appointment by the finance committee of a subcommittee to investigate work of collecting delinquent real and personal property taxes done by the state's attorney's office. The subcommittee consists of Commissioners Amelia Sears, Grace Fleming, and George Miller.

KRENN SEVERS ALL DATO TIES; SETS UP TRUST

His Claims as Heir in New Hands.

Edwin D. Krenn, the architect who was bequeathed five-twelfths of the estate of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, cut himself loose yesterday from all legal and financial ties with his former partner, Edward A. Dato, in the real estate firm of Krenn & Dato.

EDWIN D. KRENN.

Ever since the revelation that Mrs. McCormick, in her will, had made Krenn an heir to her estate, once worth millions but now of problematical value, Dato has figured as sharing in Krenn's bequest. At one time Dato had an agreement with Krenn whereby the latter signed away his entire share of the estate to Dato in return for a guarantee of $24,000 a year income for life.

Makes Trust Agreement.

But in the trust deed filed for record yesterday, Krenn put all his claims to real estate and personal property of the estate, his rights under the provisions of the will, and all claims against the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust, into the hands of Maurice B. Rissman, real estate dealer, as trustee. The trust agreement was dated March 31, 1933.

Rissman is owner of a $109,000 judgment against Krenn & Dato as agents for the Sheridan-Brompton apartments. The judgment was obtained with Attorney Samuel E. Hirsch as counsel for Rissman. In yesterday's trust agreement, Attorney Hirsch appeared also as attorney for Krenn.

In other words, it was explained, Krenn has left his former partner, Dato, as a defendant to the judgment and has put all his claims on the McCormick estate in trust with Rissman, thus aligning himself with the others against Dato.

What Krenn will receive eventually from the estate will be subject to his responsibility for meeting that part of the $109,000 judgment which cannot be collected from Dato. But his action, lawyers say, has negatived the force of an agreement reported to have been entered by him and Dato several months ago under which the two were to split fifty-fifty all that was received from the estate.

The action, it is said, leaves Dato no hope of sharing any of what Krenn may receive from his five-twelfths of the estate. Dato, recently ousted with Krenn as trustee of the McCormick trust, now has only what claims he may present against the trust for moneys invested therein.

File Suit to Discover Assets.

In the Superior court yesterday the trustees of the Sheridan-Brompton apartments filed suit to discover assets of both Krenn and Dato. The bill also asks for an injunction to restrain them from concealing their assets.

This suit is based on the $109,000 judgment. The bill alleges that the sheriff has reported himself unable to collect it. The bill states that Krenn has his five-twelfths interest in the estate of Mrs. McCormick and charges that Dato has assigned his property to his wife, Minnie, in an effort to conceal it.

TWO DAYS' TAX PAYMENTS MAKE $3,081,979 TOTAL

County Treasurer McDonough reported last evening the collection of $3,081,979 in taxes for Saturday and yesterday. Of this total $2,933,396 was in payment of 1931 real estate taxes, the remainder being on delinquent 1928, 1929 and 1930 realty and personalty taxes. The treasurer said the payments covered 6,810 parcels of property. Tax anticipation warrants amounting to $978,568 were used in part payment of the tax bills.

DENEEN UPHOLDS ILLINOIS' DIRECT PRIMARY SYSTEM

Assails Proposals to Go Back to Conventions.

The direct primary system was upheld yesterday by Charles S. Deneen, former senator and former governor, who sat in the executive chair in Springfield from 1905 to 1913, the period during which direct primary legislation was being established on the statute books. Speaking before the round table conference of the Union League club, Mr. Deneen remarked that politicians who are striving to wipe direct primary laws from the books fail to remember the evils of the old convention and soapbox primary system. His address was not in criticism of the law passed last week giving the city council power to elect a mayor for the Cermak vacancy, but was directed at anti-primary bills.

"A new generation," he said, "has no knowledge of the old convention system. The convention system was tried and found wanting, and it was repudiated by both political parties and by the people.

Up to the People.

"The people have insisted on voting directly on the amendments to the federal and state constitutions, for the President, for the senators, and the state, county, and municipal officers.

"Having that power to vote for elective officers and constitutional amendments, it would seem difficult to persuade the voter that he could not be trusted to vote on the selection of candidates to represent his party.

"There is a movement, however, in Europe away from universal suffrage. It has succeeded in Italy and Germany, but has not made much progress in the United States."

Mr. Deneen analyzed the series of decisions in which the state Supreme court more than two decades ago knocked out the first four primary acts. He said that any plan to supplant the primary law with something else would have to conform to the Supreme court rulings. "No such substitute," he said, "has been offered to date."

Recalls Convention of 1904.

He dwelt upon the conditions in 1904 under which delegates were elected to the famous "deadlock" Republican convention at Springfield, at which he was nominated for governor.

"In that convention," he said, "eleven counties had double delegations, 112 delegates were unseated.

"In the Democratic convention that year 241 delegates were unseated. William J. Bryan called it the 'train robbers' convention.'

"So great was the fraud, violence, and chicanery that both Democratic and Republican parties declared for the revision of the laws. The matter of a primary law was submitted to the voters in 1904. The vote was 590,000 for and 76,400 against, or about 8 to 1, so that both political parties and the people in a referendum condemned the convention system."

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 93; recovered, 43; stripped, 8. [From police records for the twenty-four hour period ending at midnight Sunday.]

Court cases: George Ketina, sentenced to six months in the House of Correction, and Rocco Valendo, sentenced to sixty days, both for auto larceny. Dominick Sumnick and Michael Abramovitz, sentenced to one year each for similar offenses, motions to vacate being made after both sentences. Harold Campbell, put on probation for one year for auto larceny. All cases before Judge Gutknecht.

ONE SHOT, ONE SEIZED IN CHASE OF STOLEN AUTO

John Colandara, 21 years old, of 829 Gilpin place, was shot twice and his companion, Pasquale Amore, 22, of 1122 South Lincoln street, was captured with him after they were sighted in a stolen automobile by police and pursued. Sergt. Wilbur Franklin and Detective James Oakey, assigned to the stolen auto detail, saw the pair at Jackson boulevard and Halsted street and chased them to Pershing road and Morgan street, firing several shots. Colandara was wounded in the left thigh and right forearm.

Figures given out by police last night showed that 7,070 automobiles and motor trucks were stolen from city streets and parks during the first three months of the year. Thirty-nine motorcycles also were stolen. However, police kept virtual pace with the thieves, recovering 94 per cent of all vehicles stolen.

PREDICTS BOY WHO SHOT SELF WILL RECOVER

Three bullets were removed yesterday at the Franklin Boulevard hospital from the body of Robert Haskins, 16 years old, 3112 Fulton street, high school student who shot himself Friday evening in a hallway of the home of Geraldine Papke, 14 years old, 341 North Kedzie avenue.

Dr. N. R. Snell, who performed the operation, said that the boy probably will recover.

No motive has been discovered for his act. Robert told Dr. Snell yesterday that he had not quarreled with Geraldine.

This is Last No. 1 of the famous M. W. Locke SHOES for MEN

Unusual shoes are required to correct and provide comfort for unusual feet, especially when the forces of nature, because of congested bone, muscle and nerve formations, cannot function normally.

Last No. 1 is the first step for severe cases of foot disorder. Notice in the diagram how wide the tread of the shoe is—it was designed that way to insure proper distribution of weight, naturally—and yet, the style of the shoe itself is designed not to attract any unusual attention.

For genuine comfort we suggest you come in today; our own staff is perfectly trained to advise you as to the type of shoes you may need.

PURNEA, India, April 3.—(AP)—Two airplanes flew across the summit of Mount Everest today and for the first time in history men looked down upon the highest mountain in the world.

The feat was accomplished by the marquis of Clydesdale, accompanied by Lieut. Col. L. V. Stewart Blacker and by Flight Lieutenant D. F. McIntyre, who had with him S. R. Bonnett, an expert photographer.

The photographer succeeded in taking a number of pictures which, it is hoped, would provide an authentic record of the conquest of the 29,002 foot mountain, on the sides of which numerous men have perished attempting by old fashioned methods to gain the honor of being the first to reach the top.

Reach Altitude of 35,000 Feet.

The two airplanes flew to an altitude of 35,000 feet [about 6.6 miles] in 90 minutes. At the peak they found a wind velocity of 60 miles an hour.

Lieut. McIntyre apparently suffered considerably from frost bite. But Lord Clydesdale was fit and cheerful when he landed after the momentous journey.

Although exhaustive preparations had been made for the flight over Mount Everest, the actual carrying out of the feat was in a measure accidental. When the two ships went up the purpose of the flyers was only to make a test. But they found conditions so ideal that they turned the test into the real business.

The ships took off this morning as soon as the flyers learned that the wind in the upper atmosphere had lost considerable of its high velocity. This was determined by sending up a weather balloon which reached an altitude of 33,000 feet, where it recorded a velocity of 69 miles.

Flight Lasts 3½ Hours.

When this data had been obtained the flyers left Purnea, which is about 160 miles from Mount Everest, and went to Laibalu, seven miles to the north, where their planes were waiting for them, loaded with full equipment necessary for a flight into the thin air thousands of feet above the surface of the earth.

Lord Clydesdale and Blacker were the first to leave the field, taking off at 8:15 a. m. A minute later McIntyre followed them. A reserve pilot, Flying Officer R. C. W. Ellison, went along to escort them to the foothills of the Everest group, flying in a small ship.

The flight over the tallest peak in the world required three and a half hours. Lord Clydesdale's plane was the first to reappear, followed in a few moments by the ship containing McIntyre and the photographer.

LOOK DOWN ON GODS.

In the eyes of natives living in the Himalayas the airmen who flew over Mount Everest looked down on the very gods. The great mountains in this section of the world are the objects of prayer and sacrifice and religious restrictions have prevented scientific examination of rock formation in order that the deities of these great peaks may not be angered and take their vengeance on the people who daily look up at them.

The funds for the Clydesdale expedition were furnished by Lady Houston, England's "Lady Bountiful," and the purpose was to demonstrate to the world what the Briton can do. Among the members of the expedition besides the four men who flew over Everest are Air Commander P. F. M. Fellowes and Col. E. P. Etherton.

"The objects of the expedition," Lord Clydesdale said before leaving England, "are first and foremost to foster and promote British prestige in the world and especially in India.

"Americans have flown over the north pole and the south pole, the Pacific ocean has been crossed by air, and the Atlantic has been frequently flown. There is only one original flight really worth while now. That is the flight over Mount Everest.

"The success of this flight will have a great psychological effect in India. It will do much to dispel the fallacy that this country is undergoing a phase of degeneration, but rather instill the truth that Britain is ready to pass through a process of regeneration. It will show India that we are still a virile and active race, and can overcome difficulties with energy and vigor, both for ourselves and India."

An attempt is also being made at present to scale Mount Everest by foot. This expedition is headed by Hugh Ruttledge, a retired officer of the Indian civil service.

The flyers who scaled the peak today hope to drop films which will be of assistance to the men toiling up the rugged slopes.

Faced Bitter Cold.

Flying over Everest is not the same thing as flying over other mountains. The men who carry the mail across the Rockies, and even the Frenchmen who fly regularly across the south Atlantic encounter no such barriers as nature has placed about this towering Himalayan peak.

Always Everest is shrouded in fog and mist. The howling winds of the upper atmosphere shriek about its crags. Nowhere else between the poles is the cold so intense.

The first real attempt to scale Everest was in 1921 by an expedition led by Col. C. K. Howard-Bury. That party reached 22,990 feet.

In 1922 Brig. Gen. C. C. Bruce got to 27,000 feet. An avalanche carried away and killed seven porters. Gen. Bruce tried again in 1924 but his health failed and he surrendered the leadership of the expedition to Col. E. F. Norton. The weather defeated them when the temperature fell to 21 degrees below zero, but on another attempt Norton and a companion reached 28,000 feet.

They were close to the goal, but the short distance still to go was too much for them. Norton, temporarily blinded, was carried back to the base.

Then G. H. L. Mallory, who had been on the two previous expeditions, and A. C. Irvine, made a dash for the summit. They never were seen again.

Congratulated By U. S. Rival.

New York, April 3.—(AP)—The airplane crossing of Mount Everest by a British expedition today brought congratulations from Capt. Ashley C. McKinley, aerial photographer of the Byrd Antarctic expedition.

More than a year ago Capt. McKinley charged that the British expedition had appropriated his own plans, and said that Lieut. Col. L. V. Stewart Blacker, one of the airmen who crossed the mountain, had been designated by him as his representative in London.

"I am very glad that they were successful and I offer them my heartiest congratulations," Capt. McKinley said today.

OBSCENE FILM EXHIBITOR FINED, ORDERED TO JAIL

Roy Lessing, 32 years old, 615 Belden avenue, was fined $400 and given two concurrent sentences of six months in the Bridewell yesterday by Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden on the charge of possessing obscene literature.

Lessing appeared in court with his face swathed in bandages, the result of a mysterious attack suffered at the hands of an acid thrower who invaded his home.

Some weeks ago Lessing was giving a private showing of some motion pictures in his home when Samuel Eisenberg, 6043 Champlain avenue, invaded the place, represented himself as a policeman, and threatened to arrest Lessing for showing obscene pictures.

Lessing gave him $20 to drop the charge, but later found that Eisenberg was not a policeman and caused his arrest. Eisenberg was fined $500 and sentenced to six months in the Bridewell. The acid attack on Lessing took place shortly afterward. He did not see his assailant.

SAFE ROBBERS ACTIVE.

Rock Island, Ill., April 3.—[Special.]—Offices of the Cleaveland agency, operated by H. H. Cleaveland, former Illinois director of public works, were entered by burglars last night and $350 in cash stolen. The Rock Island Title and Abstract company offices were also entered and over $900 was stolen.

CALLS GOVERNORS TO MEETING ON DAIRY PROBLEMS

Gov. A. G. Schmedeman of Wisconsin, who passed through Chicago yesterday en route to Washington, announced that he had invited the governors of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Iowa to confer with him in Chicago next Thursday and Friday. He hopes to be able to draft a program for the stabilization of dairy markets in the central west.

The Wisconsin governor said in his invitation that "Wisconsin recently faced a milk strike which might have proved very serious." He said it was his belief that a conference of governors of central states "would be helpful in working out a program beneficial to the farmers."

Action of the state executives would hinge on the operations of the new federal farm relief measure, it was pointed out. While in Washington Gov. Schmedeman plans to become familiar with the program of the administration for stabilizing the dairy industry.

3 ROBBERS TAKE $5,000 IN HOLDUP OF CLOSED BANK

Three bandits, the leader carrying a shotgun, took an estimated $5,000 yesterday in a robbery of the closed Peoples State bank of East Chicago, Ind. John Bochnowski, liquidating agent and former president of the bank, three employés and three customers were forced to lie on the floor. The bandits went through the cages, scooped up all the money in sight, and escaped in an automobile.

SIX SHOTS ROUT BURGLARS.

Yrigoyen Fights Finger Prints—for His Passport

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 3.—Former President Yrigoyen may leave Argentine territory for the first time in his life if he consents to pass the winter in Brazil, as he has been advised to do by his physicians. Preparations for his departure have been hindered because Yrigoyen objects to having his finger prints taken for his passport. He said such a formality should not be exacted "from a president of the nation."

SLOW STOMACH

DIETING WON'T HELP—THIS WILL

Most "indigestion" has been found imaginary! The pains and gas and all that misery are real, of course. But nine times in ten they are symptoms only of slow stomach.

Did you know you can regulate your stomach to empty in six hours, as it should? That this is as easy as moving the bowels?

One box of Pape's Diapepsin will test your stomach and correct your digestion time in a couple of days—at a cost of twenty-five cents!

Each tablet of diapepsin saves the stomach half an hour's labor. If your stomach is an hour slow, two tablets will remedy the trouble. Then eat anything. Baked beans every noon if you like them. Lobster at midnight suppers. These will digest like crackers and milk in a six-hour stomach!

Pape's Diapepsin stimulates the gastric flow. Use it freely until the stomach is working right without any help. When it slows down, take diapepsin again for a day or two. This helps coffee drinkers and hard smokers, too.

GENERAL ELECTRIC PRESENTS

an entirely different kind of automatic heating!

Not just another oil burner, but a complete oil furnace that burns oil in an entirely new way—saves astonishing amounts in fuel bills—used for heating with hot water, steam, vapor or warm air—thousands now in use.

The G-E Oil Furnace is used with steam, vapor or hot water heating systems. With the G-E Air Conditioning System it circulates warm, humidified, filtered air.

WITH the General Electric Oil Furnace, heating a house is now as simple as keeping time with an electric clock. G-E engineers were given the job of developing the best way to burn fuel oil. They did not have to design an oil burner that could be attached to existing furnaces.

The result of their labors is this complete, co-ordinated heating unit—boiler, burner and controls designed by G-E, made by G-E. It works without any attention—even oils itself with the oil it burns. Supplies heat and hot water in winter, and hot water alone all summer—automatically.

All controls are built in as standard equipment, not sold as "extras." The oil is burned in a unique way—downward from the top, instead of upward from the bottom of the furnace, the usual method. Cheaper oil is used and more heat derived from it, because it is atomized into a microscopic mist by an entirely new method called "impact-expansion atomization." This oil mist burns downward through the refractory-brick-lined firebox. As it nears the bottom it is met by a column of air that comes upward through an air-nozzle, mixing more oxygen with the flame which now goes upward along the firebox walls. Next the hot gases are forced to pass around heat-absorbing water-filled tubes.

The furnace has its chimney connection at the bottom. This is part of the ingenious design to make the heat pass three times through the furnace before waste gases reach the flue—and to trap and retain accumulated heat when burner is shut down.

Combustion is complete. There is no soot, or smoke, or odor. The refractory-brick firebox lining gets red hot. No carbon can form, as it must in ordinary boilers where the flame touches boiler metal that can get but little hotter than the water on the other side of it. The oil flame ranges around 2,400 degrees Fahrenheit. Water boils at 212 degrees. You can see for yourself that the action in the ordinary boiler, when hot flame tips touch comparatively "cold" metal, is like the flame of an oil lamp touching the chimney—soot can't help forming. But none can form on red hot refractory brick.

The boiler of this furnace (also made by G-E) is of long-lasting, arc-welded steel construction.

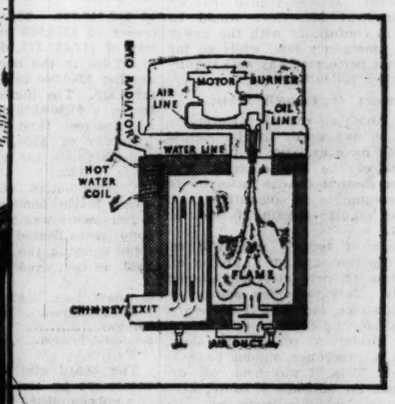
The entire unit is insulated with aircell asbestos, has a beautifully lacquered chromium-trimmed outer shell. No parts protrude. Everything is covered.

With the G-E Oil Furnace, night and day temperatures in your home are regulated automatically without attention. The G-E Thermal Control has a Telechron electric clock movement, requires no winding.

The operation of this furnace is quiet. Users tell us they can't tell from upstairs whether it's on or off. And present owners find they save from 14% to 53% on their fuel bills! Remember this is an all-year-round saving—on hot water as well as heat.

Why not start to enjoy the comfort, the savings of this wonderful furnace right now? And remember—a small down payment now—the rest in convenient monthly payments. Have inexpensive hot water all summer.

The coupon will bring you complete information, FREE.



Illustrating the unique principle of the General Electric Oil Furnace. The fine oil mist burns downward, meets a column of secondary air that rises through an air nozzle at the bottom of the fireboz. The flame then rises, and the hot gases finally pass downward around heat-absorbing tubes. Thus the heat makes three trips through the furnace before the waste gases can escape through the chimney connection at the bottom. And accumulated heat is trapped, rises into the furnace, not up the flue, when the burner is shut down.

CITIES GROWING FEMININE, SAYS SOCIAL EXPERT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—[Special.]—America's big cities are going feminine, according to a monograph by Dr. Roderick D. McKenzie, head of the department of sociology at the University of Michigan. It was made public today by the research committee on social trends, appointed by Herbert Hoover.

The monograph, entitled "The Metropolitan Community," says that in 65 of the 93 cities with populations of 100,000 or more there were in 1930 more women than men. Ten years earlier, in 1930, there were only 43 large cities in which females outnumbered males.

Change in Trend.

"The ratio of males in the population to 100 females in 1900 was 98.6; in 1910, 101.7; in 1920, 100.4, dropping to 98.1 in 1930, or lower than at the beginning of the century," the report says. "The city ratio of white males, native and foreign born, to 100 females was 99 in 1900; 102.1 in 1910; 100.5 in 1920. Receding further in 1930 to 98.4, native white males in cities in 1900 were 96.9 per 100 females; in 1910, 97.3; in 1920, 96.9, dropping to 96 in 1930."

"It will be observed," writes Dr. McKenzie, "that the proportion of males to females in the total urban population and in each of its several classes is on the decline. The influence of the large influx of foreign immigrants during the first decade of the century, a high proportion of whom were males, is indicated in the rise in the sex ratio in 1910 over 1900. The effect of this migration, however, had disappeared by 1930, when the proportion of males dropped to less than in 1900.

Cities More Feminine.

"The extensive migration to cities of native women of native parentage is indicated by the decline in the urban sex ratio [males per 100 females] of this group in the last decade, a decline from 98.6 to 97.3.

Notwithstanding the high proportion of adult foreign males in American cities, the sex ratio of the urban population, twenty-one years and over, was 98.2 in 1930, only slightly higher than the sex ratio for the total urban population, which was 98.1.

"The general tendency in the larger cities is toward greater femininity; only twenty-eight of the ninety-three cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more in 1930 contained more males than females, as compared with forty-three of the same cities in 1920."

Boy's Ball Causes $30,000 Suit; Defendant Winner

A jury in Circuit Judge George Fred Rush's court returned a verdict yesterday in favor of the defendant, Otto Wahler, 823 Wrightwood avenue, in a suit brought by his next door neighbor, Cosker Quillin, for $30,000 for personal injuries. Wahler shot Quillin in the face with a fountain pen tear gas gun when Quillin went to the Wahler home and protested against Wahler's retaining a ball batted into his yard by James Quillin, 9 years old. In his defense, Wahler testified that when Quillin called he was armed with a club, and that he used the tear gas in self-defense.

Chicago Woman Ends Life In California Desert Town

Riverside, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—Coroner Ben F. White said tonight that Mrs. Frances M. Barron, 42 years old, formerly of Chicago, committed suicide today at her home in Palm Springs, fashionable desert resort, by shooting herself in the head with a revolver. Financial and marital troubles were believed to have led her to take her life, White said. She was married last December to Al F. Barron, a cowboy at Palm Springs. Mrs. Barron, it was said, was formerly the wife of a Chicago physician named Baker, from whom she was divorced.

MRS. VALLEE'S DAD ON HIS WAY EAST AS A 'PEACEMAKER'

Santa Monica, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—A statement that Chief of Police Clarence E. Webb of Santa Monica was on his way to New York to serve as peacemaker in "some little difficulty" between his son-in-law and daughter, Rudy Vallee and Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee, was made tonight by Mrs. Webb.

Last September Webb accompanied Mrs. Vallee to Reno when she contemplated a divorce action, but the entertainer and his wife became reconciled.

"I don't know what the trouble is—just some little difficulty," Mrs. Webb said. "I can't tell whether my daughter will come home with her father. I'll know more when Mr. Webb arrives in New York."

SCHOOLS TO PAY OFF $4,000,000 IN TAX WARRANTS

Board of education tax warrants for 1931 in the sum of approximately $4,000,000 will be redeemed in the next few days, Howard P. Savage, business manager of the board, said yesterday. A ruling that Mayor Corr's signature on the checks is legal will be necessary before the payments can be made, he said. The redemption will be in two groups, $2,100,000 on April 5 and $1,868,350 on April 10. Before any warrants held by teachers are paid off, Mr. Savage said, the board will have to redeem $7,000,000 worth of 1931 warrants now outstanding.

SARGENT HOME HOPEFUL OF LOAN TO PAY TEACHERS

After spending several days in Washington endeavoring to obtain a loan of $22,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation with which to pay Chicago school teachers, Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, returned yesterday with the statement that "it looks as if we ought to accomplish something."

Teachers Delay Salary Appeals to Roosevelt

A direct appeal to President Roosevelt on behalf of Chicago's school teachers whose salaries are long overdue, was postponed yesterday when the delegation of six teachers who had planned to go to Washington were informed that the press of legislation at the present time would prevent their seeing the President. Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, in a telephone message, told William Page, president of the Chicago division of the Illinois State Teachers' association, that an interview with teachers' representatives would be granted by the President soon.

MUNCIE PASTOR IS ACQUITTED OF GIRL'S CHARGES

Jury of Farmers Gives Verdict.

Muncie, Ind., April 3.—(AP)—The Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, suspended pastor of the Madison Street Methodist Episcopal church here, was acquitted by a Circuit court jury tonight of a charge of attempting to rape Miss Helen Huffman, 18 year old Sunday school teacher, during an automobile ride last Dec. 20.

G. LEMUEL CONWAY.

A jury of ten farmers, a salesman, and a school teacher reached its verdict after a little more than two hours' deliberation, but then went to dinner while Judge L. A. Guthrie was called back to receive its report.

The verdict, clearing the 51 year old minister of one of two criminal charges brought against him, was read in court at 6:55 p. m.

Faces Battery Charge.

The Rev. Mr. Conway still faces a charge of assault and battery contained in an indictment which alleges he knocked Willard Aurand, choir master at the church, over the chancel rail at Sunday evening services last January. Aurand had denied he was active in pressing the Huffman girl's charges against the minister.

Mr. Conway was suspended from his pastorate for a year by a church jury a few weeks ago, which convicted him of imprudent ministerial conduct. At the conclusion of his ecclesiastical trial Mr. Conway said he believed verdict was based principally on the Aurand incident.

Did Not Take Stand.

Mr. Conway did not appear as a defense witness in his trial, but his counsel, Rollin Tennington, drew from several persons testimony that the pastor was one of a group that met in a plumbing shop to discuss a hunting and fishing trip during the hours named by Miss Huffman as those occupied by the automobile ride.

Prayers by His Friends.

Before the jury's decision was announced a group of members of the Madison Street church congregation had gathered in an anteroom, where they held a prayer service.

A round of applause followed the reading of the verdict, and the Rev. Mr. Conway, weeping, walked over to the jurors to express his appreciation.

The minister indicated tonight he contemplated an appeal from the verdict of the ecclesiastical court. His church trial was presided over by Bishop Edgar Blake of Detroit.

REHEARING GRANTED TO PALM, MICHIGAN'S LIFE FOR PINT VICTIM

Lansing, Mich., April 3.—[Special.]—As Michigan voters were passing judgment today on national prohibition, announcement came from officials of the pardon and paroles department that the state's outstanding victim of prohibition zealotry, Fred Palm, is to be given his chance this week to prove his right to freedom.

Palm, erstwhile "life for a pint law" victim, who has two years of a commuted sentence yet to serve in Jackson prison unless executive clemency is extended, is on the list of prisoners to be accorded hearings at Jackson later in the week by W. Alfred Debo, commissioner of pardons and paroles.

WORKING WIFE SUES HUSBAND WHO KEEPS HOUSE

Her husband became a "marital gigolo" and undertook to do the housework while she went out to earn the family living, Mrs. Zelma M. Pritchett, 6340 Stewart avenue, declared yesterday in a divorce bill filed in the Superior court against James E. Pritchett, 903 East 46th street.

However, Mrs. Pritchett says in her bill, drawn by Attorney Harry X. Cole, that her husband was a poor housekeeper. He used to spend the household money taking out other women, she charges, and then would rush home just before she arrived, put on his apron, and tell her that he had had a headache and had been unable to prepare dinner.

The bill charges Pritchett with cruelty and also states that he left his wife last May, taking all his clothing except a derby hat and pair of spats which he told her, Mrs. Pritchett alleges, that he was leaving her as a "sentimental reminder of their marital joys."

O'HARA MURDER CASE CONTINUED UNTIL APRIL 10

CRIMINAL COURT.

Henry Spranza and Carl Nicoletti, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years each in Pontiac reformatory; Robert Mullen, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; Jack Lavalo, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Murder charges against Ralph O'Hara, organizer of the Moving Picture Operators' union, who shot and killed Fred Oser, a rebel union member, were continued to April 10 when O'Hara was arraigned yesterday before Judge Mathew D. Hartigan in Felony court. Thomas E. Maloy, business agent of the union, was released from his $5,000 bond when he appeared before Chief Justice John Prystalski. Maloy had been held as a witness.

Michael Ahern, defense attorney, insisted that O'Hara be tried immediately, pointing out that a coroner's jury had returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the Oser shooting.

"The state knows this case will have to be dropped," Attorney Ahern said. "The matter should be disposed of today." Attorneys for the state told the court additional evidence was being prepared and asked for the continuance. O'Hara is at liberty in bonds of $10,000.

JEWISH CHARITY LEADERS WILL HONOR HORNER

A reception will be given for Gov. Horner next Sunday night by the citizens' committee of the Jewish Charities of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman. The committee, of which Albert D. Lasker is chairman, has extended invitations to 2,500 Chicagoans to meet the governor, who has for many years been active in the charity organization.

Addresses will be given by Mr. Lasker, Samuel A. Goldsmith, executive director of the charities, and Benjamin J. Rosenthal, who will tell of the work of the charities which supports 21 philanthropic and social service agencies serving 75,000 needy persons. On April 10 a campaign will be opened to raise $1,605,000 to maintain the charities.

PREHISTORIC ZOO STRUCTURE RISES AT FAIR GROUNDS

The steel framework of a dome shaped structure near the 23d street concourse at A Century of Progress where a concession project presenting "The World a Million Years Ago" will be housed, was complete yesterday. The proposed exhibit, created by Messmore and Damon, Inc., New York, will show animated mechanical monsters of the prehistoric era such as dinosaurs, platybelodons, ground sloths, giant gorillas, hairy mammoths and saber toothed tigers. From the interior the dome will appear as a natural sky, with cloud and star effects. The building will be 85 feet high. The dinosaurs and so on will not only wag their tails and snap their jaws, but will howl in realistic manner through the use of sound effects from a control room in which four operatives will work.

JIMMY WALKER AND ACTRESS GET MARRIAGE DATA

Visit License Bureau in France; No Date Set.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANNES, France, April 3.- Jimmy Walker, former mayor of New York, took his girl shopping for information on French marriage regulations this sunny afternoon.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent accidentally found him and Betty Compton, the actress, and their American lawyer, Alfred Sharon, at the city license bureau sitting on a bench while a minor clerk in frock coat explained how it is done in France. When Jimmy gets his divorce papers from Florida, where his former wife recently obtained an uncontested decree, he will have to make a formal application to wed and then the banns must be published ten days before the wedding takes place.

But Jimmy and Betty were only shopping this afternoon and did not ask for a date to be set. None of the trio, after being shown what kind of red tape is required, had anything to say.

Both Married Before.

New York, April 3.—[Special.]—The marriage of Betty Compton and James J. Walker would be her third and his second, and the result of a friendship of at least five years old.

It was in 1928 that Walker, then mayor of New York, and Miss Compton, then a popular player in Broadway musical comedies, began going places together. They were seen at dances, in night clubs, at theaters, and elsewhere.

Although common report had linked the names of Walker and Miss Compton for a long time, it was not until the mayor was called to the witness stand before the Hofstadter committee and Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor, in removal proceedings that the association became a matter of record.

Woman Received Money.

Questioning the mayor about the accounts of Russell T. Sherwood, Attorney Samuel Seabury, who called Sherwood Walker's financial agent, referred to "an unnamed person" as the recipient of $7,000 from those accounts. The unnamed one was Betty Compton. She later said the money was in payment of a bet.

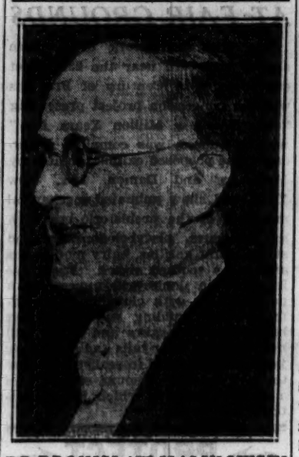
After resigning as mayor, Walker sailed for Europe. On the same ship was Miss Compton, accompanied by her mother. On arriving at Europe they all went to Cannes, where they took rooms at the same hotel.

There was an interlude in the Walker-Compton friendship due to the actress's second marriage, which took place on Feb. 19, 1931, and ended in a Mexican divorce on March 21 of the same year. The husband was Edward Duryea Dowling, a motion picture dialogue director. Her first husband was C. S. Riches of Toronto, whom she divorced in 1926.

HOLD UP BUILDING SOCIETY.

Three youthful bandits took $90 yesterday in a robbery of the Avondale Building and Loan association, 3003 North Central Park avenue.

SPEAKER AT N. U.



DR. BRONISLAW MALINOWSKI

Underprivileged persons over the world are rallying around communism as around a religion, according to Bronislaw Malinowski, noted professor of anthropology in the University of London. He spoke last night in Harris hall, Northwestern university, in the first of a series of three lectures.

Prof. Malinowski, an authority on primitive peoples, distinguished between them and underprivileged peoples. The latter, not the former, tend to the communistic, he asserted. Communism and bolshevism are living issues to the underprivileged, he said. In general, his argument was strongly against communism.

"The main dogma of communism is that the only remedy for our evils is complete destruction of our present system," said Prof. Malinowski. "I have studied the inner literature of bolshevism and in it I have never been able to discover a second step beyond destruction, nor a single constructive plan. What can communism really expect from the destruction of our present system? My conclusion is that it cannot construct anything at all."

HITLER ORDERS NAZIS TO HALT JEW BOYCOTT

Drive "Too Costly," Cabinet Is Warned.

Jewish boycott, renewed their drive against political opponents with great vigor. Friedrich Ebert, son of the first president of the German republic and local Socialist leader, was beaten by Nazis in Brandenburg. He was attacked when Socialist members of the new municipal council refused to stand while the Nazi anthem was being sung. All the Socialist members were ejected from the hall.

Elswhere there were wholesale arrests. Prof. Gustav Gassner, rector of Brunswick university, was jailed in connection with last week's clash between Nazi storm troops and Steel Helmet [monarchist] war veterans. Prof. Wilhelm Gerloff, rector of the University of Frankfort, center of Jewish culture, was placed under "protective arrest."

Arthur Lauinger, financial editor of the Frankfurter Zeitung, was arrested as he attempted to enter the stock exchange. Karl Schreck, Socialist member of the Brunswick diet, was arrested on a charge of high treason. He is ill in a hospital. Police are guarding him.

At Heppenheim, near Worms, 22 Reichsbannermen [republican war veterans] were jailed. Numerous arrests of Socialists and communists were reported at Ruebeland and Erfurt.

Flight of Jews Halted.

The government tonight halted the flight of Jews from Germany. It was announced that after midnight no German citizens may leave German soil unless special permission has been stamped on his passport by the police. No explanation was given for the action. This measure does not affect foreigners.

A train was halted by the police near Dresden today "to prevent an exodus of Jews to Czechoslovakia." The police confiscated large sums of money, but Jewish passengers were permitted to return to their homes in Germany.

A former secretary of Prof. Albert Einstein was prevented from leaving Germany. Fifteen Jews were taken from a train at Beuthen. Police said they were fleeing to Poland. Authorities are preparing a law to deprive Germans, who have fled the country, of their citizenship.

In order to increase the government's strength to prevent uprisings, Hitler has created a new political police force in the state of Bavaria.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, April 3.—A protest against the burning of a Hitler effigy in the market place of Kattowice was made today by the German consul general to the governor of Polish Upper Silesia. The effigy was burned yesterday by Polish students and was set on fire with German newspapers and magazines confiscated from shops.

The Polish public is being requested to boycott German newspapers, while Polish newspapers are not admitted to Germany. The boycott has spread rapidly. Non-Jews also are joining it.

Business men here have received circular letters from Germany denying Jewish persecution. Many Jews have been informed by letters from relatives in Germany that all stories of persecution are exaggerated, but were immediately followed by letters in other languages stating they were compelled to write such denials.

George Morris, Gardener for Millionaires, Ends Life

George Morris, 47 years old, gardener for the last three years on the Lake Forest estate of Mrs. John Crerar, ended his life late yesterday by swallowing two ounces of insect poison. He was found in the basement of his home, on the estate, by his wife, Elizabeth. He had been despondent over illness, she said. Morris had worked for several north shore millionaires.

Baldness Starts at These Three Points

HEED THESE WARNINGS

When your hair begins to recede at the (1) temples, (2) crown, or (3) frontal, Nature is painlessly warning you that some serious scalp ailment is attacking your hair, and baldness is surely approaching. Heed these positive warnings and let The Thomas' save your hair with their reliable proved scalp treatment.

BALDNESS is not caused by sleeping in short beds or damp churches. Nor is it inherited. More than 85% of all cases of baldness are caused by one or more of the 14 local scalp disorders which come within the scope of Thomas treatment. Therefore, there is really no reason why you should become bald or remain bald.

Thomas treatment effectively overcomes the causes of baldness, ends dandruff, stops abnormal hairfall and promotes hair growth quickly and inexpensively. You have nothing to do at home, nothing to worry about. A Thomas expert determines exactly which scalp disorders are attacking your hair-growing structure, eliminates them, and stimulates hair growth. Call today at a Thomas office for a complete scalp examination. It costs you nothing and you are not obligated in any way.

HOUSE VOTES BAR ON REVEALING JAP CODE MESSAGES

Tokio Would Consider It Unfriendly Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—Imminent publication of secret code messages which passed between the Japanese government and its ambassador in this country and which were intercepted and decoded by experts of the state department led today to the hasty enactment of a virtual censorship bill by the house of representatives.

At a secret hearing before the house judiciary committee state department officials pleaded that disclosure of the messages would be regarded by Japan as an unfriendly act.

Reveals Japan's Reactions.

The messages in question, it was understood, had to do with the Manchurian crisis and revealed Japan's reactions to the intervention of the United States on the side of the league.

The impending publication of the Japanese messages was understood to have been prepared by the author of the "American Black Chamber," which appeared about a year ago and dealt with similar decoding practices by this government during the war. The volume also contained several messages which passed between the Japanese government and its delegates to the Washington disarmament conference.

The manuscript of the new book was reported seized by United States Attorney George Medalie in New York to prevent its publication.

Denies Attempt to Muzzle.

Passage of the bill by the house brought an immediate storm of protest on the ground that it would in effect clamp a complete consorship on all information obtained from government sources. The state department denied that the measure was intended to muzzle government news.

"The bill," it was said, "is in no wise intended as a muzzle or censorship of the press. Section 2 was suggested by the department of state for the purpose of protecting our diplomatic codes and to make possible the prosecution of any person guilty of tampering with them."

Earlier Representative Hatton W. Summers [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, announced that he will seek to have the measure altered in the senate to eliminate any possibility that it could be used to prevent publication of governmental news of a legitimate nature. Members of the committee said that the bill had been presented to them in utmost secrecy by the department with the declaration that its passage was necessary to prevent a serious misunderstanding with Japan.

Where Did Leak Come From?

The bill passed the house by a vote of 259 to 29, on the assurance of members of the committee that it was absolutely necessary in view of the "circumstances which prompted it."

As it passed the house the bill would impose a rigid censorship on all information the publication of which was not approved by an undefined "competent authority." It specifically provides that the mere act of publication of any unapproved information shall be construed as "prima facie evidence of a purpose prejudicial to the safety or interest of the United States."

Its second section read in part as follows:

"Whoever shall willfully, without authorization of competent authority, publish or furnish to another any matter prepared in an official code; or whoever shall, for any purpose prejudicial to the safety or interest of the United States, willfully publish or furnish to another any matter obtained without authorization of competent authority from the custody of any officer or employé of the United States . . . shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than 10 years, or both."

How the author of the "American Black Chamber," formerly in possession of his source of material as a member of the state department staff, obtained copies of the later messages was a subject of considerable speculation. One report had it that disciplinary measures had been taken against a state department employé in connection with an alleged leak.

ALICE JOYCE WEDS; HER NEW HUSBAND IS FILM DIRECTOR

Hollywood, Cal., April 3.—[Special]—In statements she gave out in Reno and San Francisco, Alice Joyce joshed her inquirers by telling them she intended to marry her manager, but today she came back to Hollywood and startled her friends by introducing a brand new husband who is no manager at all, but is Clarence Brown, noted American film director.

The pair were secretly married in the "ghost mine town" of Virginia City, Nev., last Wednesday by Justice Sylvester Crocker with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Bulmer, a gold mine operator and his wife, as only witnesses. The Bulmers are friends of the bride.

Miss Joyce returns to Hollywood, which is the scene within recent years of her successful appearances as leading woman with George Arliss in "Green Goddess" with John McCormack in "Song of My Heart" and in "He Knew Women," with her mind definitely made up to retire from the screen.

It is the third marriage for each, Miss Joyce having been wed to Tom Moore, and to James B. Regan, whom she divorced in Reno last January.

YOUTH STRIVES FOR NEW CHINA, EDUCATOR SAYS

The making of a new China will be assured if the idealism of the Chinese youth and their enthusiasm for Nationalism can be nourished, Dr. J. Leighton Stuart declared yesterday at a convocation at Northwestern university. Dr. Stuart is president of Yenching university, Peiping, China.

He said that a new China as he outlined would "not be a temptation for armed aggression." In this connection he discussed Japan's military program in the far east. Japan's plea of self-defense for her acts was a "shallow pretext," he asserted.

"The league of nations had an opportunity in the early months to bring pressure on Japan," continued Dr. Stuart. "If it had done so, most of what has followed could have been averted. But public opinion in Japan is now so crystallized, so inflamed, that any attempt by the league to apply sanctions would precipitate a dangerous crisis, in the opinion of those familiar with conditions there."

MAINTAIN PEACE, DIPLOMAT ASKS U. S. AND JAPAN

Delegate Who Quit League Defends Policies.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Yosuke Matsuoka, who as chief delegate from Japan led his nation's vigorous struggle at Geneva before the withdrawal from the league of nations, gave a solemn warning yesterday both to Japanese and Americans against engaging in acts or criticism which might endanger the peace between these two countries.

He appeared as pleader for the Japanese action in Manchuria before a big assembly of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at the Palmer house. He is a former vice president of the South Manchurian railroad, a member of parliament, and is returning to Tokio to report on what went on behind the scenes at Geneva, and on the sentiment that he is finding in his tour across the United States. This latter he interpreted as a matter of the heart which would eventually be ruled by the sound business head of America.

Puts Chinese Salvation First.

"The greatest question before us," he said, tossing aside his prepared manuscript, "one that will take the best brains of Japan, the United States, Great Britain, France, all who have great interests in the far east, is to devise means to save China. This may not be accomplished in one hundred years. No nation is as anxious to save China as Japan is. So we save ourselves, and have more trade.

"The Manchurian question is only a phase of a condition of chaos. What do you see in China? You saw the Boxer trouble of 1900. You see Chinese children now being taught to hate foreigners. If we let that go on who can be assured that ten years from now the world will be facing a Boxer trouble on a scale ten times as great? Is it a sound, good thing for China? Is it good for America to encourage Chinese in anti-Japanese and anti-foreign sentiment?

"It is our firm conviction that both America and Japan have a great mission to perform in building the coming Pacific civilization. I feel that every Japanese or American who says anything that would lead America and Japan to go to war commits a crime against humanity and against God."

Answers Query on Mandate.

When a question was put to the fiery little delegate as to the attitude of Japan toward the Pacific mandate islands, in view of the withdrawal from the league, Mr. Matsuoka said:

"Why do Americans keep asking that question and just at this time? I was never asked that in Europe. It is true we govern under mandates under terms of the covenant of the league, but it is not required that a nation be a member.

"If Americans continue to put that question, many leaders of Japan will wonder why America is so interested. Do they want them?

"I deeply regret," he said, "that my country, through our errors as well as the league's, has felt compelled to withdraw from that organization. Nobody hated it more than I did. But from the beginning of the controversy, as I see it now, there was little hope that we could reconcile our differences. There seemed to be a fixed idea. The league at least at the begining had little understanding of China.

"That China needs reorganization, we entirely agree. But we know better than to think that the task of bringing order out of chaos, in a country larger than all Europe, can be accomplished by any means within the scope and power of the League of Nations as it is constituted today. Force, and only force, can bring such a project to fruition.

"Right Thing" in Manchuria.

"Japan could not and would not countenance any internationalization of Manchuria. The solution we have found is a better one. Americans should give Japan credit for a little intelligence, for doing the right thing in the Far East. We are there and can't get away and you are 5,000 miles away. To give China the control of Manchuria would be to give her something she never possessed.

"The National government of China is a name and an aspiration, not an existing controlling authority. The communist hordes control a greater extent of territory, about six times the size of Japan proper. China is not a nation in the sense that you and I understand that word. The spread of communism in China is a cause of anxiety to Japan. You have kept at least two armed men in China for every merchant you have there. On the other hand you do more business with Japan annually than with any other country except the British empire.

U. S. Is Japan's Best Customer.

"Have we closed the door to you in Japan? No. You are the best customer we have in any part of the world. The silk trade alone decides the fate of one-half our people. Your sympathy for China has gone so far that it has led your government into policies that you have refused to adopt for any European state.

"And I am sorry to say you have asumed a special position with regard to Japan, a position of somewhat contrary nature. You criticized, but did not object to the acquisition by Germany of a harbor railway, mining and other rights in Shantung. When we took over these rights, however, you objected. And for what reason?

"You criticized tzarist Russia's entry into Manchuria, but you never spoke of war with Russia over that question. It was Japan that dared that. You hardly took notice of the annexation of Outer Mongolia to the soviet union. But you have proclaimed a new doctrine, the Stimson doctrine, over Manchuria, Japan asks why.

"Japan has taken an action in Manchuria that was both logical and justified. The action came suddenly upon her government and the developments forced their hands. Taken unaware and not foreseeing the development fully, our government failed to inform the League of Nations as soon, as fully, and as properly as they should have done. For that reason the league has deemed it proper to condemn Japan. But the action we have taken will be a blessing to humanity and to the promotion of peace in the far east."

THE SPRING 1933 FASHION REVIEW

WHAT'S the mode for Spring, 1933? What are the new fashions like—and where can you see them? What's the style in hats, shoes, frocks, gowns, suits, furs, lingerie, gloves, hosiery, perfume, cosmetics, the ensemble?

Get the complete story in tomorrow's Chicago Tribune!

Practically the entire women's staff of this newspaper, in co-operation with Rhea Seeger, Tribune fashion authority, has been intently absorbed in preparing a complete and authentic report of Spring fashions.

They have had special showings of the new offerings of Chicago merchants. They have spent hours in the department stores and women's specialty shops studying the latest models, colors, and fabrics.

Tomorrow, in fascinating text, illustrated with photos and drawings, they will tell you the exciting story of what they found. In the same pages Chicago merchants will describe and picture their latest offerings. Don't miss this interesting issue. Look for it tomorrow!

THREE TELL OF RITUAL KILLING AS INQUIRY ENDS

Kentucky Grand Jury Will Report Today.

Inez, Ky., April 3.—(AP)—After hearing only three witnesses, the Martin county grand jury late today concluded its investigation of the slaying of Mrs. Lucinda Mills during a strange mountain religious ceremony. It will present its report to Circuit Judge J. F. Bailey tomorrow.

The investigation included charges of murder, conspiracy to murder, and aiding and abetting the choking to death of the mountain woman whose body was found bound in chains in the home of Tommie Boyd, a son-in-law, near Tomahawk, a Martin county village. She was more than 60 years old.

The witnesses were Mrs. Rhoda Hatfield Mills, wife of a cousin of the victim, and Nellie and Louella Boyd, young daughters of Tommie Boyd.

Goes to Feed Children.

Mrs. Rhoda Mills, a relative of the famous Anse Hatfield, told the grand jury that the woman was slain during several days of religious orgy of a small cult. She said she went to the house to get some of the children, because the members of the cult were praying and shouting for such long hours that she knew the children were hungry.

At the first investigation of the woman's death officers were told the slaying followed a long religious rite in which "the unknown tongue" was used, and resulted from a misinterpretation of a divine message telling how to demonstrate "the death of sin."

Others first had chosen for the sacrifice, Commonwealth Attorney J. B. Clark was told, but all resisted when the final test came and proved their "unfitness to die."

The victim herself, others said, was willing to make the sacrifice in the belief it would help free her son, Leonard, who was sent to an insane asylum a year ago. Still others asserted she would have been brought to life three days after her death. Neighbors of the accused termed them "Bible crazy."

Investigate Burial Alive.

Martinez, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—Filipino witnesses fearing death, authorities said, were brought before a special grand jury summoned today to investigate the burial alive of a young Filipino woman, allegedly by members of a secret cult who condemned her for unfaithfulness to her sick husband.

The victim, Mrs. Celine Novarro, sheriff's deputies said, was tried before a jury of women in Stockton the night of Nov. 19, sentenced to die by being buried alive, and was taken, bound, gagged, and blindfolded, to the grave prepared for her, pushed in, and covered with earth. A fire was built atop the fresh grave, ending the ceremony and hiding the fresh turned earth.

Sheriff's deputies who exhumed the body found it lying face downward in the shallow hole by the water's edge where, they were told, the rites prescribed that the grave should be so situated that the water might wash away the blood, if any were spilled.

Sixteen Under Arrest.

District Attorney James F. Hoey declared he had sixteen men and women under arrest and that he expected the grand jury to return seven or eight indictments.

He said that, in addition to the cult investigation, he had been advised that Mrs. Novarro had been a witness in Merced, Cal., against four Filipinos believed cult members who were convicted on kidnaping charges and sentenced to San Quentin prison.

The high priest of the cult, known as the Kalaya-an-Marie-Clara, Leon Kantinello, is one of those under arrest. Authorities said he confessed the cult tried Mrs. Novarro for being unfaithful to her husband, who since has died.

Tank Falls Off Truck; Its Gas Overcomes 2 Children

Gas escaping from a tank of sulphur dioxide which had apparently fallen from a passing truck yesterday overcame two school children who were examining the tank at Leavitt and Canton streets. The children, Jennie Szajko, 12 years old, 2142 Canton street, and Joseph Rasinski, 12 years old, 2355 North Leavitt street, were revived by a fire department squad.

CONTINUE CASES OF 17 ARRESTED IN LOAN RAIDS

Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan yesterday expressed the hope that he could "free the slaves of usury" by burning the records seized in raids on eight loan companies last Saturday. Charges of violating the small loans act, by exaction of excessive interest payments, were made against 17 officials of the companies raided. These charges were continued until April 17 by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan to allow time for examination of the companies' records. Prosecutor Moynihan said that he probably would go before the grand jury late this week.

UPHOLD KILLING OF PROWLER.

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned yesterday by the coroner's jury in the death of Andrew Gacki, 45 years old, 4739 Throop street, who was shot by Michael McCarron, a watchman in the Armour & Co. yard at 44th street and Racine avenue.

HORNER WARNS STATE MAY MAKE ITS OWN CEMENT

Mills Defend 16 Identical Bids Raising Price.

BY HAL FOUST.

A pamphlet obtained from a cement manufacturer yesterday purports to explain and to justify the uniformity of sixteen identical bids received by the state to sell the highway department 3,300,000 barrels of cement at $1.62 a barrel, 68 cents higher than the average price paid by the state in 1932. A difference of 68 cents applied to 3,300,000 barrels aggregates $2,244,000.

"The shocking thing," said Gov. Horner in ordering the department to advertise for new bids, "is the unanimity of the prices shown by the cement companies. We may have to start cement mills of our own in order that the state may get a fair price."

How Prices Are Fixed.

The pamphlet, reproducing an editorial from Roads and Streets magazine, sets up that the published mill price of the closest plant to a given market is the guide for other manufacturers in determining their bid price in this market. The bid of the closest manufacturer will be his mill price plus freight. The more distant manufacturers, having to pay a higher freight, will reduce their mill prices for that market to compensate for the additional freight charge. The result is that the bids are identical.

This was the system used by the cement industry prior to 1931. The United States department of commerce statistics show that for the district of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Kentucky the average price per barrel by years prior to 1931 was as follows: 1930, $1.38; 1929, $1.47; 1928, $1.57; 1927, $1.62.

In 1931 some of the manufacturers deviated from the established practice. The average price at the mill slipped to 97 cents in 1931 and to 91 cents in 1932, according to the government's figures. Cement companies lost money, according to their published financial statements.

Maker Denies Collusion.

In 1933 the manufacturers are again using their friendly arithmetic method of determining their bids. The bids are based on average mill prices of between $1.20 and $1.25.

"There is no collusion in these prices," said one of the largest manufacturers, declining to authorize the use of his name. "We have merely stopped fighting. Collusion is a violation of the state law that requires open competition. There might also be complications with the federal trade commission. If we were in collusion we might submit dummy bids of various prices to give an appearance of heated competition. As it is, we arrive at identical prices by an open and above board method."

Two jurors were tentatively accepted yesterday in Judge Rudolph F. Desort's court for the trial of Frank Nitti, once powerful in the Capone syndicate, on a charge of assault to kill Detective Sergeant Harry Lang. The gangster and the detective were both wounded in a raid by the police on Nitti's loop headquarters on Dec. 19.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty questioned the prospective jurors carefully as to their willingness to believe the testimony of policemen. The state case is built on the testimony of Sergt. Lang and the members of his squad who made the raid. Defense Attorneys Ben J. Short and Rocco De Stefano questioned the veniremen to guard against a prejudice against Italians among the jurors.

Humphreys Wins Review of Gun Case Sentence

Murray Humphreys, public enemy No. 1, was granted a writ of supersedeas yesterday by Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court. The high court agreed to review Humphreys' sentence of one year on a charge of gun carrying.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CONTROL OF PUBLIC EXPENDITURES IN COOK COUNTY.

Prof. Merriam is unquestionably right when he says that unless the pressure of the present acute emergency is taken advantage of there will be no reform of our existing complicated structure of taxing and spending agencies. Mere general protest against the pains of heavy taxation is not getting us far. Concentrated pressure of public opinion on behalf of definite reform plans is essential and must be applied without delay. The vested interests of politics and the spending agencies will resist all reductions and reorganizations and resist successfully unless the public demand for relief takes a form that is definite and imperative.

Prof. Merriam offers practical suggestions, notably his proposal for a board of budgetary control of Chicago's government expenditures. Undoubtedly some such coördinating agency is essential to their reduction. There are, as he points out, no less than 27 taxing bodies within the limits of Chicago, including the sanitary board, the county board and the forest preserve, the city government, the board of education, and three major park boards. There can never be consistent and properly distributed taxation without some central control, some agency able to survey the whole field and make advised allotment. Until it exists taxation will be excessive and inequitable. We agree that the creation of a supervisory agency is the first step toward tax relief.

Prof. Merriam refers to the fear of the power proposed to be vested in a single agency—in this instance the mayor, the president of the county board, and a third member, presumably an expert in taxation, to be named by the other two. But the thing to be feared is the thing we have now. As Prof. Merriam says, "power that is clear-cut and openly responsible" is not what is to be feared, but "the impotence of divided authority in the presence of emergency—a dozen generals commanding one army."

The system which has grown up naturally at haphazard puts a multiplicity of taxing and spending agencies into competition with one another without responsibility for the ultimate result or the aggregate burden placed upon the taxpayer. It is a system inevitably extravagant and impossible to control. Indeed, it is not a system at all. It is more like chaos and insures perpetual waste and inordinate taxation. If we cannot correct it now while its consequences have been brought home to us in their most destructive form we are not likely ever to be released from its penalties. The proposal of a board of budgetary control is a step toward reform and relief, toward responsibility and equity in taxation, toward necessary economy. The campaign for tax relief should take it up at once.

THE AMBASSADOR TO SPAIN.

President Roosevelt has selected Claude Bowers for the United States ambassadorship in Spain. The honor is one which Mr. Bowers has earned by his services to his party. Mr. Bowers has been unwavering in his Democratic faith.

His faith expressed itself forcefully in the two books upon which his literary reputation is based, the one a pro-Jeffersonian interpretation of the Hamilton-Jefferson controversy, the other an essay on the sins of the Republicans in the era of reconstruction which followed the civil war. Both books, but especially the second, were powerful partisan tracts. It is impossible, of course, to estimate accurately the effect which these books may have had upon the political trend of late, but no doubt the influence was considerable. Elmer Davis recently observed that the Republican party is the established church of the majority of Americans, and if so Mr. Bowers is entitled to a good deal of credit for such proselyting as has taken place. It remains to be seen, of course, whether the conversions will stick.

His party recognized Mr. Bowers' powers as a propagandist, to use the word for once in its true meaning, and called upon him frequently as keynoter, Jefferson and Jackson day orator, and spellbinder for historic occasions. He seldom disappointed. He spoke from passionate conviction. His style, flavored by the tradition of Democratic oratory, may have seemed a little hifalutin to some and viperish to others, but by and large it was good oratory, and those who didn't like it could probably trace their dislike to the fact that it was oratory.

Mr. Bowers' prominence in his party's counsels is an assurance that he will be truly representative of his government abroad. His Jeffersonianism should make him a welcome guest in republican Spain, now engaged in the rediscovery of the common man, but it may be taken for granted that Mr. Bowers, whatever his feelings of sympathy with the Spaniards may be, will never forget that he is not the ambassador of the Spanish republic to the United States but the representative of the United States in Spain.

Mr. Bowers' devotion to the interests of his government is of the sort which is expected of the diplomatic representatives of foreign powers, but has frequently been lacking in our diplomacy. The foreign offices of other countries are intensely nationalistic, but our professional diplomats, chameleonlike, tend to assume the color of the post to which they are sent and to sympathize with the power to which they are accredited at the expense of the one that employs them. The appointment of such men as Bowers is therefore heartening. In Madrid we shall have a representative who will represent us.

CLEARING AWAY THE VOLSTEAD DEBRIS.

Congress has amended the Volstead act to remove all restrictions on medicinal liquor prescriptions. So far as the federal government is concerned the American physician is no longer told what dosage he may give a patient. A dictate of an era besotted in its intolerance has been expunged. This is another of the interim measures which congress has taken up for the correction of Volstead atrocities, pending action upon the eighteenth amendment, by the authority of which they were undertaken.

There remain some other features of prohibition legislation, enacted when Bishop James Cannon Jr., Dr. Clarence True Wilson, Scott McBride, and others in their group were rulers of the country, which must be taken out of federal law regardless of what may be done to the amendment. One is the Jones 5 and 10 act, providing the excessive penalties with which the prohibitionists in their floodtide of authority were undertaking to jail half the citizenship. Other prohibition practices in need of immediate correction relate to such offenses against decency as were represented by wire tapping and entrapment, such offenses against property rights as were contained in federal injunctions confiscating the use of land and buildings and such outrages against liberty as trial without jury for contempt of court and double jeopardy. All the unconstitutional eccentricities of zealotry should be taken out of the judicial processes of the United States.

The congressman whose name is attached to the repeal of any one of the iniquities will have a more notable and a pleasanter spot in the records of his country than will be occupied by the men used by the prohibition dragoons to put the iniquities in the law.

THE TOPEKA CRISIS.

Topeka, Kas., holds an election today. The paramount issue is flowers versus dogs. Even Topeka, although manifestly blest with the fruits of a clear conscience, does not escape all human perplexities. The world is full of them. Countries totter to their doom and peoples sit in the ashes with the sackcloth over their heads. Topeka can understand much of this knowing that most of the world is given to sin and knowing also what coin its wages are paid in. In a rocking world Topeka is a voice singing in the storm. It lives the good life and will be found on Ararat when other things are no more.

There are perplexities in Topeka, but their very nature shows that the estimable town is in a sunny spot in a cloister of its virtues. The winds of adversity will not get it. The Topeka problem, the happy town's greatest dilemma in a storm wrecked age of man, lies between the lovers of flowers and the lovers of dogs, gentle passions, both of them, and a credit to their addicts.

It is known that if dogs get into a flower bed they may, pursuant to their nature, or as an incident to it, hoist the earth with rapid and energetic movements of their hind feet. Neighboring trees may then be found full of the flower lovers' geraniums, nasturtiums, petunias, cannas and pansies. In this Topeka found an issue and the city commissioners passed an ordinance prohibiting dogs from running at large, the prohibition to be effective only after its adoption by the qualified voters.

The electoral decision will be known later. The friends of flowers and the friends of dogs went into the campaign with their spirit up and their destiny at stake. The paramount issue is to be decided. The decision, however important, is not so important as the very nature of the crisis itself. Topeka is America's favorite town. Every bone in its head is loved.

Editorial of the Day

A PROPAGANDA TRIAL.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

The granting of another trial for Tom Mooney, convicted sixteen years ago of the Preparedness day bombing in San Francisco, is without question one of the most farcical acts in the history of American jurisprudence. Regardless of Mooney's guilt or innocence, a new trial at this time can have for its purpose no motive of finding out the truth. It will be little but a sounding board for propaganda.

Prosecution witnesses have been scattered, some of them are dead and others probably could not be reached. There can be no adequate prosecution now. The defense, on the other hand, will be able to bring in testimony against the character and veracity of those who testified sixteen years ago, but without an opportunity for those witnesses to refute the charges. The accumulation of years of propaganda will be spread before the court.

Even if witnesses in the original trial were available, their testimony would be weakened by the passage of years. Memory of facts and identification of characters is inevitably dimmed by time.

Furthermore, it will be impossible to obtain a jury that had not formed an opinion on the case, unless it is a jury of morons. Even if the counsel accepts a jury of intelligent individuals who are willing to weigh the merits of the testimony presented regardless of previous views, the character of the testimony must be of such a nature that it will be almost impossible to render an honest decision.

The only fair and impartial method of reviewing the Mooney conviction is through the presentation of evidence before the Supreme court or before other judicial minds lifted to separate propaganda from fact and who will give as much weight to the original proceedings as to new testimony that may be admissible. This already has been done on numerous occasions both before the California Supreme court and before four different governors of that state.

The new trial, of course, will not free Mooney. Ten persons were killed in the bombing. Mooney was convicted on only one indictment. The new trial will be on an old indictment for the death of some other victim. It is held that acquittal under another indictment would be a strong influence toward obtaining a pardon on the original conviction. This trial, therefore, is quite frankly merely another propaganda device. And that is all it could be under the circumstances.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Here to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"ART OF DRAWING BEER Occupies Young Barkeeps."—La Trib. And it is indeed a very fine art, as the new barkeeps will discover. If there is too much foam in the glass, or collar as it is quaintly called, the customer will say with great asperity, "Would you mind putting a little beer in with the foam?" And if the barkeep strives to keep the collar down to the smallest size possible he is liable to be spoken to quietly but harshly by the owner in these words, "What's the big idea? Trying ter put me in the poorhouse?" Ah, yes, the drawing of beer is indeed an art.

AND THE ART of the bartender doesn't end with the drawing of the amber fluid into the steins. He has to assume an interested expression when a customer comes in and says, "Say, Joe, I heard a good un yesterday." And Joe has to say, "O, didja? Spring it." And then when the story is told he has to rock with mirth although he's heard the same a thousand times before away back before the Volstead law and he's going to hear it a thousand times more as the seasons roll.

HUNGER.

What is more positive
Than hunger when it lies
Riveted in you,
Refusing compromise?

What else can so possess
Each part of you until,
Absorbed by it, you are
Stripped of mind and will?

What else can tear your heart
From you as hunger can
And make of you a stranger,
Who is less a man?

What pain is there more pressing,
What pain more vicious? Yet
Once we are fed, how soon,
How quickly we forget. . . .

FERRY ADAMS.

THE BLACK SHIRTS are increasing rapidly in England under the leadership of young Mr. Mosely. We hesitate to comment until we find out whether the king will knight Mr. Mosely and confer on him the title of Earl Blackshirt or whether the government will hurl Mr. Mosely into the deepest cell in the Tower of London. They're queer that way in England; you can never tell whether they're going to give one of their loyal subjects a title or the bum's rush.

INGENIOUS PROFESSOR, BUT ALL WRONG.

Sir: In one of the current newsreels a scene in a pretzel factory is shown, followed by a speech by the girl pretzel bender, who turns out to be the champion, and makes a speech saying she twisted her first pretzel in such-and-such a year, has since twisted so many million pretzels, etc., and then adds quite seriously, "But I have not got a swelled head about it."

Pretzels are a fascinating form of food, and I doubt if many nowadays know the pretzel is an old Aztec custom.

In the old Aztec days the warriors fought with spears, which, unfortunately, were not as hard as modern steel, and so during an engagement frequently bent into a curious shape. The warrior whose spear bent into the funniest shape was considered the winner, and the ultimate champion of all the Aztecs was a warrior named Quetzalcoatl, who was later deified. Hence the old Aztec song:

"Quetzalcoatl, Quetzalcoatl,
Bring me a pretzel and I'll do battle."

The frequent reference, in the history of beer, to a mysterious patroness named Adeline may also now be divulged. "My Adeline," clearly, refers to the same original person as the French "Madelon" and the German "Magdelein." As a matter of fact, she probably was really a Swiss named Madli, who accidentally rediscovered the principle of the pretzel when kneading bread during an avalanche. The avalance, coming up, or rather down, suddenly from the Alps, carried Madli kersmack into a Bavarian brauhaus, where four gnomes were trying to see if they could tell light from dark brew after sunset. Seeing the girl arrive with the first European pretzel, they burst, with what seemed like one accord, into four-part song in which Madli (German "Magdelein," French "Madelon," Anglo-Saxon "My Adeline") was acclaimed the darling of my heart to the extent of 3.2 by weight, or four by volume. RIQ.

(We take the position that Professor Riq is all wet, as we have heard hundreds, yea thousands, of gentlemen singing "Sweet Adeline" in the barrooms in the good old days. According to them Adeline was not of Swiss origin. Oh, not at all. Adeline was distinctly Swedish, as the singers invariably sang, "Oh, Adeline, Swede Adeline," etc. Quite conclusively proving the lady's nationality.)

IN PROTEST.

The radio shrieks, the traffic booms,
Men about me shout,
The siren of progress is open wide,
Confusion is all about;
Where does one go to be quiet
Down these noisy years?
This is an age of bedlam;
How can one think, with ears?

EILEEN QUINLAN.

"AMERICAN AMBASSADOR AT LARGE Fixes Date for Economic Parley."—Headline. Which is perfectly all right, but we always shudder when we read about American ambassadors running at large. American ambassadors get along very nicely giving dinners at the embassy and shaking up cocktails for the guests and fixing up dates for debutantes to be received by the king at Buckingham. But when they are reported as around at large we always shudder; they're so liable to get things all mussed up.

THE NAZIS ask their storm troops not to keep the Jews running continually; they don't get time to write letters saying they're being persecuted.

WORRY AND STOMACH ULCER.

WORRY, anxiety, and other emotions of that group are the principal underlying causes of ulcer of the stomach. The same holds true for those located in the small intestine.

In treatment by means of diet and medicine the ulcers will not heal if the bad emotional habits are continued. Operation is useless unless the worry habit is broken. The ulcers come right back.

Dr. F. Alexander, in his "Medical Value of Psychoanalysis," advocates the above opinions, giving very ably the Freudian explanation of the relationship between the mind and the emotions on the one hand and ulcers of the stomach and duodenum on the other. He cites a case, going into considerable detail, and establishing such a connection. He also quotes Dr. Harvey Cushing of Harvard as reporting perforation of the stomach following operation on the brain. Dr. Cushing thought the irritation of a certain zone in the brain had caused perforating ulcer of the stomach. Acting on the suggestion, Dr. R. N. Light had a drug injected into the veins of experimental animals and caused stomach ulcer. The drug acted on the nervous system and this brought about the ulcers.

The same general attitude is taken by Dr. B. Russ. He thinks gastric ulcers result from emotional strain, overwork, and causes of that kind. The part played by tobacco, alcohol, and diet is secondary.

There are many symptoms of indigestion of different kinds, but back of the indigestion lies the emotional disturbance. The indigestion may be, and often is, a contributing cause to the ulcer. We must not forget that indigestion is an effect and that anxiety may be its cause.

Dr. Russ makes another contribution and that along a related line. People of a certain type rarely have ulcers of the stomach or intestine. The characteristics of the type are broad people with large, pendulous, relaxed abdomens. Such persons are prone to be constipated and to have attacks of headache and acidosis. They are subject to lassitude. While they are occasionally melancholic, they are not noisy, nervous, nor excitable. As a rule, dirt farmers and people who live in the country are not ulcer subject. On the other hand, the narrow and lean in build, the worriers, the excitable, the emotional are very prone to it.

SCARED STIFF.

Mrs. A. B. L. writes: Several years ago you wrote that flashes of light and floating specks might mean epilepsy as one of a list of possible causes. Until then I had thought that epilepsy was always accompanied by convulsions. I had flashes and specks, and what you wrote scared me stiff. I was terrified and, while I can now be philosophical, I am still scared.

I found that in my case the symptoms were due to neuritis involving my eyes. I had some teeth drawn, and another trouble I had, colitis, was cured. The symptoms disappeared. I have since learned that acidosis can cause these symptoms and alkalis will cure the acidosis and stop the symptoms.

In answering questions about specks and flashes why not say nothing about epilepsy? Nothing can be done for that, whereas the other causes are curable. You may be right, but why scare others as you did me?

REPLY.

You may be right. It takes lots of folks and of many minds to make a world. But don't be too harsh on epileptics. Many are curable. Many have been cured.

A STATE OF MIND.

H. W. writes: What is the best food to eat for nervousness? Can this trouble be caused by bad teeth? I often have indigestion. Could this be caused by bad teeth? When I take medicine for indigestion it seems to make it worse.

REPLY.

Nervousness is a state of mind, a way of taking things. The cure consists in training. People who have learned the advantage of equanimity and who practice the art never suffer from nervousness. The diet, the general health, the teeth are all minor factors when they have any relation to the case.

FENCES.

Chicago, March 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Has a property owner the right to put up a single wire low fence at the curbing? Some time ago I had occasion to cross the parkway late at night and fell over the wire into the street. 2. If this is against the city ordinance, where should one report it?

F. W.

1. Revised Chicago code (1931), section 1074, reads as follows: "It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to erect or construct any fence within the city limits without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner of buildings. No wooden fence shall be constructed of greater height than eight feet above the sidewalk grade or eight feet above the surface of the ground where no grade is established. The fee to be charged for permits for the erection or construction of fences shall be one dollar for each one hundred lineal feet of fence."

DIVIDING ESTATE.

Chicago, March 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—An estate in Wisconsin is left without a will to be divided between the children, two of whom are in Chicago. The lawyer for the estate mailed a quitclaim to each for them to sign. On returning same the son who is on the farm will send second mortgage notes for three years to each for their share. He is also taking out a first mortgage to pay outstanding debts. 1. If we sign, can they refuse to send the note? 2. Can we collect at the end of three years without his paying the first mortgage? A. N.

1. Of course, it is possible for any party to refuse to carry out an agreement. If you do not consider the word of the party in question good, then you should insist on your deed being held in escrow until you receive what is coming to you.

2. In general, a second mortgage cannot be enforced unless the holder is prepared to take up the first mortgage.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PATROLMEN.

Chicago, March 29.—[Friend of the People.]—Could you inform me as to the total number of men the city intends to appoint as patrolmen from the present list?

E. C. D.

The number of persons to be appointed from the list of patrolmen will depend upon the number of vacancies caused by resignation, discharge, death, etc., and the number provided for in the annual appropriation bill now under consideration by the city council.

JAMES S. OSBORNE,
Secretary, Civil Service Commission.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 4, 1917.

BERLIN. — The press report of President Wilson's "state of war" message reached Berlin yesterday morning. It is declared here that there would be no change in the German attitude even if congress adopted President Wilson's views. Germany will not declare war nor take any step to wage war against the United States. The submarine war will be continued as it has been conducted since Feb. 1, but this, declare the officials, is not directed more against the United States than any other neutral.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—War, in complete harmony with the allies, for the sole purpose of crushing the German autocracy, is now the guiding principle of President Wilson's military program. One of the first steps taken to assure the most effective participation of the United States in the conflict will be the institution of a conference between the American government and the entente allies to map out a detailed plan of concerted action. For this purpose an American commission probably will be sent to London and Paris to attend a grand conference of representatives of the allied governments on the new joint program. Other developments of the day in the war situation were: The navy department announced that, immediately upon the declaration of war by congress, it is prepared to cooperate with the allied navies on a program already partly drawn; the war department completed plans to call for 450,000 volunteers to the regular army and National Guard "for the duration of the war," and to raise an additional army of 500,000 men by the universal service system, thus bringing the land forces up to a total strength of 1,200,000 men; the German merchantmen now warbound in American harbors may be seized and the question of compensating their owners after the war left to future determination in the light of American liability under treaty rights and international law.

CHICAGO.—Prohibitionists won important victories in local option elections in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. Springfield, capital of Illinois, and Madison, capital of Wisconsin, voted to banish saloons. Duluth, Minn., also went into the "dry" column. In Illinois the "drys" won over ten townships, in addition to Springfield, and retained eleven townships already "dry," according to reports received.

WASHINGTON. — Pronouncing President Wilson's war message one of the greatest documents in American history and offering to lead a fighting army division to Europe, Col. Theodore Roosevelt called at the White House, but missed the President. "The President's message," Col. Roosevelt said, "is a great state paper. It will rank in history among the state papers of which Americans in years to come will be proud. The question now rests with the people to see that we put into practice the policy the President has outlined and we should strike as hard, as soon, and as effectively as possible in an aggressive war against the government of Germany."

LONDON.—President Wilson's message aligning the United States with the nations fighting Germany was warmly welcomed and unanimously acclaimed by the British people.

MR. JUSTICE WICKHEM'S RECORD.

Chicago, April 2.—The political controversy that is now raging in Wisconsin over the selection of an associate justice to the Supreme court has aroused more than state-wide interest because of the principle announced by the leading opponent of Mr. Justice John D. Wickhem, who is seeking to be returned to office. That principle is that the courts should not have the power to declare legislative acts unconstitutional.

It is a little strange that such an issue should be made in a state which has always had such a liberal Supreme court and in a campaign against a judge who is truly representative of the finest traditions of that court.

Politically Mr. Justice Wickhem is a Democrat. He was appointed to the bench three years ago by a Republican governor, Kohler. He has brought to the bench a considerable knowledge of practice and a rare fund of learning gained during his ten years on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin law school. Members of the court have commented upon his profound scholarship.

Two of Judge Wickhem's opinions have attracted nation-wide interest. The "Rules of Court Case" [204 Wis., 501] sustained the power of the legislature to confer upon the Supreme court the right to promulgate rules and regulations involving the whole field of procedure in all Wisconsin courts. As the result of this decision comprehensive procedure reforms were made possible. A still more recent opinion of his has attracted even wider attention. In February last Judge Wickhem held that an equity court should not confirm a mortgage foreclosure sale at which the mortgagee purchased the property at an inadequate price and below the amount of the mortgage, unless the mortgagee give up his right to a deficiency judgment. In other words, the mortgagee could not have both the mortgagor's property and a large part of his mortgage claim against him too. This decision has been hailed as one of the most enlightening and humane yet reported. It is designed to give relief to the oppressed home owner and farmer.

It has been the traditional policy of the state to reelect sitting judges who have given evidence of their fairness and ability. These qualities are possessed by Judge Wickhem in a high degree. In the entire history of the state only two sitting judges failed of election. That fine record should not be marred again.

HARRIET GLACE.

ECONOMY AND THE G. A. R.

Chicago, March 24.—My attention has been directed to a bill before the committee on appropriations at Springfield which seeks to do away with the G. A. R. headquarters, involving an expense of $6,500 a year.

I know I voice the opinion of many when I say, let us not be unpatriotic in our economy program. There are only about fifteen of these veterans left. Why deny them this pleasure?

MARY MEADE SHEEHAN.

PERSECUTIONS COMPARED.

Kenilworth, Ill., March 28.—If what these ministers and rabbis now leading public protest meetings are really protesting against is Hitler's persecution of Jews because of their religion, then when, consistently, will they also hold the first protest meeting against the communist soviet government, which continues its years of wholesale persecution, murder and banishment of Russian Christians and their ministers?

One like myself, opposed to persecution of Jew or Christian for religious reasons, would be more convinced of the sincerity and consistency of anti-Hitler protests if so many of the leaders were not also prominent in signing petitions urging the recognition of the atheist, religion persecuting soviet government—the minority now enslaving the Russian people.

MRS. A. W. DILLING.

SPREADING HATRED.

Chicago, March 26.—Since the appointment of Hitler to the post of reichskanzler cartoons have been appearing on your front page revealing an appalling lack of intelligent comprehension and genuine knowledge of the facts with regard to the political situation in Germany and the attitude of the German government.

It is difficult to understand just what your object is in spreading hatred and false information, thereby reverting to the propaganda tactics of the war period, so disastrous in their consequences.

The sometimes rather puerile attempts to supply you with correct information on the part of your correspondents in Germany may be partly responsible for these tendencious and malicious cartoons.

However, the incompetence of some of your foreign correspondents is too generally known to require any comment. ROBERT ZIMMERMAN.

HITLER'S PROMISE REALIZED.

Chicago, March 30.—In July, 1932, as I was walking along the downtown section of Cologne, Germany, a pamphlet was thrust into my hand by a man. This circular demanded votes for Hitler because of what he would do to the Jews when elected.

And yet that man and his henchmen have the colossal nerve to say that the Jews in Germany, out of a clear sky, I suppose, started a campaign of lies against their country. He has deliberately aroused the lowest type of mob spirit—that of race prejudice. May it prove a boomerang!

FATHER COUGHLIN'S INVESTMENTS.

Westville, Ind., March 31.—Why shouldn't the Rev. Charles Coughlin buy stocks and bonds if he wants to, and if he bought them and lost as we all did, why shouldn't he denounce the methods that have made paupers of so many of us? Why don't the accused face the issue? Ninety per cent of the people who listen to the Rev. Charles Coughlin are for him and not for the officials of mismanaged banks who are trying to get the minds of the people off themselves by bringing up the investments of the Rev. Mr. Coughlin. But we have their number. We are glad there's at least one man in the U. S. A. who is unafraid to tell the truth to all of the people. J. F. STRALEY.

WOMAN CLASHES WITH ATTORNEY IN ATTACK CASE

Repeats Her Story in Alabama Court.

Decatur, Ala., April 3.—(AP)—Under vigorous cross-examination, Mrs. Victoria Price, 23, of Huntsville, Ala. today clung to her story that six Negroes attacked her aboard a freight train two years ago, and that Heywood Patterson, one of nine indicted in the "Scottsboro Case," was one of the six.

The chief defendant, flanked by National Guardsmen, sat stolidly behind the counsel table. His life is at stake.

Objects to Lawyer's Tactics.

Samuel S. Leibowitz, of New York, chief of counsel supplied by the International Labor defense to defend the Negroes, questioned the woman on a maze of details covering three days prior to the alleged attack. Mrs. Price frequently showed flashes of temper in reply to Leibowitz' questions. He said he would show the witness had been convicted of "lewdness."

"That's some of Ruby's dope," said Mrs. Price, as Leibowitz read a long question concerning her activity the night before she left for Chattanooga and two days before her return trip aboard a train on which the alleged attacks occurred.

"Ruby who," asked Leibowitz.

Thereupon Attorney General Thomas E. Knight jumped up and shouted: "Ruby Bates. And where is she?"

The Bates girl also was a victim of the alleged attack and has been missing for six weeks.

On direct examination Mrs. Price had said she and Ruby Bates had gone to Chattanooga aboard a freight train to seek work but, failing to find it, had begun the return journey the following day, also on a freight.

Identifies Defendant.

As the train pulled away from the water tank at Stevenson, Ala., she said, seven white youths climbed into the opposite end of the gondola car in which she and her companion were riding.

"Five or ten minutes" out of Stevenson, she said, 12 Negroes came running over the boxcars and jumped into the gondola.

"Heywood Patterson was one of them and he carried a pistol which he fired over the top once or twice," she testified. In a fight that followed, she said, six of the seven white boys were knocked from the car.

"They stripped my overalls from me and one held a knife at my throat," she said when questioned by Solicitor H. G. Ailey, who prosecuted in the first trials two years ago.

When the train halted at Paint Rock, where nine of the 12 Negroes were taken into custody, Mrs. Price said she climbed from the gondola, but became unconscious as she reached the ground.

"Didn't you concoct this story after the Negroes were arrested in Paint Rock because you feared you would be arrested for vagrancy?" Leibowitz asked her suddenly near the end of his examination. The witness was not permitted to reply.

OPEN INQUIRY INTO SLASHES IN WOMEN'S PAY

Feminine Group Hears of Low Factory Scales.

An investigation of wage conditions was opened yesterday by a group of clubwomen and others interested in feminine welfare.

The inquiry is not directed against those employers who have been compeller to reduce wages because of withering business. This class, it is found, pays its employés three and four times the amount of money that the group singled out for investigation pays its workers for the same services.

The meeting was held at 203 North Wabash avenue, and was the initial step in organizing the women attending into the Illinois Joint Committee on Industrial Standards.

Agnes Nestor Is Co Chairman.

Miss Hazel Kyrk, associate professor of economics at the University of Chicago, and Miss Agnes Nestor, president of the Women's Trade Union league, were named co-chairmen. Miss Nestor presided. Miss Caroline Wolfe submitted documentary data which were recorded by Miss Gertrude Wilson, secretary.

Miss Wolfe produced several pay envelopes of women employed in various factories. One, from a member of the millinery union which Miss Wolfe heads, indicated that the worker has drawn weekly wages in the last seven weeks ranging from $1.62 to $3. Another exhibit, this from a hat factory, showed that "Number 86" received daily earnings of from 45 cents to $1.50. A Lake street apron factory, Miss Wolfe declared, pays its workers 7 cents per dozen aprons, the girls' daily earnings being 25 to 35 cents each.

Earnings Cut from $25 to $6.

Other evidence was given by a disabled war veteran who said that his wife, once earning $25 a week, now earns about $6. Also a letter sent to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins by a Chicago woman and forwarded to the committee by Miss Perkin was read. The letter charged an unjustified wage slash.

The joint committee will gather additional evidence on conditions and then seek state legislative action, it was announced.

Lindbergh Takes Lessons on Radio Landing Beam

New York, April 3.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was at Newark airport today learning from James H. Kinney, test pilot of the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, how to use the curved radio landing beam which enables a pilot to land a plane safely in fog. Mr. Kinney took up Col. Lindbergh in a Bellanca Cabin monoplane, in which the pilot may use his blind flying instruments and also have complete vision. Col. Lindbergh later practiced a number of landings by instruments in this plane.

BOBBY, AT SIX MONTHS, HELPS HUNGRY PUPILS

When Bobby Harkness Jr. gets a little older perhaps his mother will tell him that gifts sent in his name to the Hungry School Children's Fund did much to make other children happy before he was a year old. Yesterday a second gift came in Bobby's name to mark the occasion of his sixth month in the world. The first donation was made when he was very small. Bobby's most recent gift of $3 will provide 60 needy school children with hot noonday lunches.

The day's gifts in full, totaling $48.08, pushed the fund over the $26,000 mark. They are acknowledged as follows:

$31.58—N. P. Severin, A. N. Severin, and W. A. Park.
$5—Mrs. S. G. Templeton, Joseph Asher, and Rex Wilk.
$3—Bobby Harkness Jr.
$1.50—M. E. Carlton.
$1—O. Justin C. Faymonville.

Total	$ 48.08

$3,725,000 GRANTED ILLINOIS BY R. F. C. FOR APRIL RELIEF

Illinois yesterday was granted $3,725,000 by the Reconstruction Finance corporation for emergency needs during the first half of April. It was half the total that had been requested by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Another loan of a similar amount will be needed, officials said, to cover the needs of the state during the latter half of the month, and before the proceeds of the state sales tax become available.

IN FIELD'S STORE-WIDE PROGRAM OF MODERN IMPROVEMENTS

Our beautiful new room for moderately-priced hats opens today on the Fifth Floor, Middle, State. Exquisite in its modern simplicity, its brilliant suffused indirect light, its delightful background of malafro satinwood, this new room is truly a triumph in modern store architecture and decoration—a fit setting for everything that's new in hats. You are cordially invited to see it.

Busy-Ness Builds Business

Action is the order of the day. The world realizes that the best way to be busy is to get busy.

If you want to know how we "feel about things," just visit this store; not necessarily to buy something, but just to see a state of mind.

Everywhere you'll see new fixtures, new lighting, new decorations—new, modern settings for new and modern merchandise. You'll see hundreds of workmen, still busy with hammers and saws, brushes and paint.

This same spirit of cheerful optimism is visible in the merchandise. It's new and modern; a store full of remarkable values. There's a joyful Spring-fever of putting on fashionable new Spring clothes.

Marshall Field & Company is "betting" many thousands of dollars that better times are at hand. It's an investment based on optimism; on a belief that Chicago's magnificent Century of Progress will be a wholesome stimulant to Chicago's busy-ness.

One thing has not changed—because you would not want it changed; because we will not change it—the earnest sense of responsibility to this community which is in every phase and fibre of this business; fair prices, value leadership, and always quality.

DIRIGIBLE AKRON IS DOWN AT SEA; 77 ARE ABOARD

German Vessel Reports 4 Men Rescued.

weather had prevailed all night and was believed a possibly contributing factor to the forced landing of the dirigible.

Twenty-four coast guard vessels, all those available from Allenhurst south along the New Jersey coast, were immediately ordered to the scene as soon as the first flash was picked up by the coast guard here at 1:46 o'clock this morning. In addition all coast guard life saving details along the coast were called out.

Commanders on Ship.

Besieged by calls and heavy hearted at the disaster which had overcome its pride, the naval air station at Lakehurst was almost without information an hour after the first report had come in to commercial wireless stations. It was reported, however, through the Associated Press that Commander H. B. Cecil and Commander F. T. Berry of the air station, and Col. A. F. Masury of the ordnance reserve U. S. army, were passengers on the flight.

Sailed Away at Sunset.

The Akron took off just at sundown last night, it was said, for a flight intended to last until tomorrow. The great airship was to have flown along the southern New England coast testing its radio compass. The Akron returned only ten days ago from a successful flight to the Canal zone, Miami, and back.

The coast guard cutter Mojave radioed the base here that she was proceeding at full speed to the scene of the disaster but she was eighty miles away and would require about 5 hours to reach there. The MacDougal, an old navy destroyer now in coast guard service, and the coast guard destroyer Hunt were also proceeding under forced draft to the scene. Three power boats at their stations along the New Jersey coast were pressed into service for the emergency.

The first message picked up from the Phoebus was received by the Radiomarine Corporation of America, reading:

"Airship Akron, with seventy-seven men afloat off Barnegat lightship. Picked up some. Chief officer and three men. Cannot save all. 45 miles south of entrance to New York harbor. 10 to 15 miles off shore."

Almost an hour after the first flash reporting the disaster, radio operators of the Mackay company succeeded in renewing contact with the Phoebus and picked up a message which clearly indicated that the fate of most of the crew was still uncertain. The message read:

"Akron crashed twenty miles east of Barnegat. Searching for survivors. Lieut. Wiley and three men on board suffering submersion and shock."

"All Well" at 8 P. M.

The last earlier direct radio communication with the Akron had been at 8 p. m., the Lakehurst naval air station reported. It was all right then. While no anxiety had been felt there at the failure to hear further from the airship, the long interval was taken to mean that the Akron might have been down several hours before the first report was received here.

The airship was believed to have been under command of Commander Frank McCord, who became skipper of the dirigible only in January, when he succeeded Commander Alger H. Dresser, detached to take command of the Akron's sister ship, the Macon, which is still under construction. Commander McCord was formerly executive officer of the Akron.

Strong northwest winds with a velocity of 40 to 45 miles an hour were prevailing in the neighborhood of the Akron, coast guard officials said. They estimated that these would tend to drive the floating airship off shore at the rate of about 12 miles an hour.

They pointed out that this was more favorable, for rescue purposes, than a wind driving the Akron toward the coast, where it might be battered to pieces. Salvage of the ship would be extremely difficult, however, because of her great size, it was pointed out.

The Phoebus is listed in Lloyd's register as a steel twin screw steamer of 9,226 tons, built in 1923 at Kiel, Germany. She is 498 feet long, 64 feet wide, and 31 feet 7 inches deep. Her home port is Hamburg.

LARGEST AIRSHIP IN WORLD.

The U. S. S. Akron — or airship scouting cruiser—was the world's largest airship, 15 feet longer than the famous Graf Zeppelin, and almost three times the size of the Los Angeles. It was built about four years ago at Akron, O., by the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation, and christened on Aug. 8, 1931, by Mrs. Herbert Hoover. On Oct. 17, 1931, the Akron flew over Chicago, thrilling the city.

Hundreds of figures, comparative and otherwise, attest to the colossal size of the air giant. An idea of its immensity is gleaned from the fact that two city blocks of ten story buildings could be shoved into it, with room to spare. Standing on stern it would reach to the roof of an ordinary fifteen story building, or standing horizontally it would cover two good sized city blocks, or three ordinary ones.

Considered Finest Aircraft.

The Akron was built at a cost of $5,375,000 and it was considered by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett and other aeronautical engineers as the finest airship afloat.

The Akron's capacity was 6,500,000 cubic feet of helium, nonexplosive gas, twice that of its nearest rival, the German Graf. It weighed 221,000 pounds and had a lifting power of 403,000 pounds.

Driven by eight massive engines of 560 horse power, the Arkon had a maximum speed of 72.8 knots per hour at 3,000 foot altitude, or 80 miles per hour land speed. It was estimated that the ship could cruise over 10,500 miles on one fueling. The normal gasoline supply was about 124,000 pounds, stored in 110 aluminum tanks of 120 gallon capacity each.

Its one fueling cruising capacity could have carried it from the United States to Europe, above most of the continental capitals, and back to America without a stop.

At fighting strength the Akron could have carried nearly a dozen tiny airships, sixteen extra-size machine guns, a large supply of heavy aerial bombs, and a crew of more than 100 men.

Its radio equipment, costing $25,000, was considered the last word in radio. The ship also carried an 18-instrument telephone system, operated on a master switchboard, providing easy intercommunication.

Living accommodations are concentrated near amidships, abreast the airplane hangar compartment. On the port side is a crew's lavatory and seven rooms, each with a floor area of about 8 by 10 feet, and each having four bunks.

NAVY MUSTERS ALL RESOURCES TO AKRON'S AID

Planes and Ships Ordered to Rescue.

Washington, D. C., April 4 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The navy early today mustered all its resources to rush aid to the giant dirigible Akron, down at sea off the New Jersey coast.

Admiral William V. Pratt, highest ranking officer, at 3:05 a. m. ordered all possible assistance to be sent from shore stations near the scene.

Commanders were authorized to take any and all steps deemed necessary.

Then, as coast guard ships steamed through the waters of the Atlantic, navy officials waited anxiously for definite word as to the fate of the airship and the men on board.

With earphones clamped tightly over their heads, their faces tense and drawn, the full force of naval communications men at the navy department sat by through the early morning hours for word.

Dim lights burned over the silent instruments as all sending apparatus was quieted so no possible word from the stricken ship might be missed.

In an adjoining room several of the staff answered telephone calls of naval and civilian personnel when word of the disaster began spreading through the capital.

Rout Officers from Bed.

The navy's ranking officers were routed from bed and advised of the early press reports and the scattering reports which came to the department.

Those whose duty it was to issue orders which would send assistance, immediately directed that their orders go forward, personally dictated them to communications officers.

President Roosevelt's aids, informed of the Akron incident, were anxious, but pending definite reports did not disturb the executive to inform him of the happening.

It was said that it was known definitely that Commander Frank C. McCord, commanding officer of the Akron, and Commander Fred T. Berry were on board.

Naval commanders at New York, Philadelphia, Boston, the naval academy at Annapolis, and the navy air station at Anacostia were ordered by Admiral Pratt, at 3:30 a. m., to have airplanes and seaplanes ready at daynight to take off and go to the aid of the Akron.

Destroyer Speeds to Rescue.

New York, April 4.—(AP)—The naval destroyer Cole and the cruiser Portland sped out of this port under full steam early today under orders to give any assistance possible to the airship Akron.

AIRSHIP DISASTERS

Several major disasters have spotted the science of lighter than air aeronautics since Count Zeppelin first flew his semi-rigid balloon in 1859. Two of these crashes occurred in the United States. The list follows:

The British dirigible ZR-2, awarded from the German fleet at the end of the war, was destroyed over the Humber river in England in August, 1921. Forty-four British and American officers and men aboard perished. Five others were saved.

Crash Near Hampton Roads.

The Roma, Italian built, crashed near Hampton Roads, Va., in February, 1922. The entire crew, thirty-four officers and men, died. The ship had been flying but 49 minutes when its rudder cable snapped. The ship dived to the ground.

The Shenandoah, United States naval ship, broke in half on Sept. 3, 1925, when it was caught in a 70 mile an hour gale near Caldwell, O. Fourteen members of the crew, including Lieut. Com. Zachary Lansdowne were killed. Two were hurt and twenty-seven escaped unhurt. The ship crashed 7,000 feet to ground.

Italia Blows Up.

The Italian dirigible, Italia, blew up in the arctic wastes on May 25, 1928, killing most of the crew. The survivors, including Gen. Umberto Nobile, spent weeks on the ice before rescuers found them. Dr. Finn Malmgren, Swedish scientist, was among the lost. Gen. Nobile was rescued. Roald Amundsen died in searching for the explorers.

The British R-101 crashed into a hillside in France while flying through a low hanging fog on the morning of Oct. 5, 1930. Only five out of the fifty-three persons abroad lived to tell of that disaster.

The Zeppelin Dixmude was lost in an ill fated flight somewhere in the Mediterranean in December, 1923. Fifty French sailors perished. The only clew to her fate was the finding of the commander's body, a sailor's jacket, and part of a seabag, all washed ashore on the coast of Sicily.

Some other balloon disasters were:

The British airship NS-11 fell into the North sea on July 15, the same year, after being struck by lightning. Twelve persons died.

The Zeppelin L-2 exploded over the Johanisthal airdrome in September, 1913. Twenty-eight lives were lost.

CAREER OF THE AKRON; FOUGHT MANY STORMS; SEEN ALL OVER U. S. A.

The U. S. S. Akron has been flown in virtually all sections of the United States so that the people might get a personal glimpse of the largest airship in the world. In its less than two years of actual flying existence the Akron rode through many storms. On one occasion it was the scene of a dramatic tragedy.

Thousands of Chicagoans remember the silver giant as it floated slowly, 500 feet up, above the city's loop on the morning of Oct. 17, 1931.

A number of mishaps marked the ship's career, but none which seriously affected its service.

Among some of the severest storms that it passed through safely were one over the Caribbean in March this year and over Texas in May last year. On Feb. 22, 1932, two members of the ground crew at Lakehurst, N. J., were injured when the ship snapped its stern cable and bumped along the ground.

Last May 11 tragedy marred the Akron's flight when, at Camp Kearney, San Diego, Cal., two sailors of the mooring crew were dashed to death when the ship surged aloft, the two men still holding on to the guy ropes. They released their holds and fell to the ground. A third sailor, Bud Cowart, hung on tenaciously, dangling on a 300 foot rope until the crew in the ship's compartment drew him up to safety.

The Akron first was commanded by Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl. Last July Commander Rosendahl was ordered to sea and was succeeded by Commandar Alger H. Dresel, former commander of the Los Angeles.

He was succeeded by F. C. McCord as commander and he was in charge of the giant craft when it went down.

"We believe the Akron to be the best airship in the world," he told the house naval committee on Jan. 26, 1932. The house was investigating charges that inferior materials had been used in the ship's construction. "The Akron has flown hundreds of hours under all sorts of conditions and has proven itself."

AIR RACE CHIEF ENROLLS 4 SPEED AND STUNT ACES

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Four of the country's leading racing and aerobatic pilots have made definite arrangements to participate in the American air races to be staged at Chicago Municipal airport on July 1, 2, 3, and 4 under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. This was announced yesterday by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, director of events for the races.

John Livingston, who has won more races than any other pilot in the United States, will be one of the feature performers at the four day spectacle, Maj. Schroeder said. He has placed in the money in his small yellow monocoupe (Warner motor) in more than 90 per cent of the races in which he has started. He lives in Aurora, Ill.

One of Smoothest Stunt Pilots.

In addition to his racing ability Livingston is one of the smoothest stunt pilots in the world, with a touch on the stick as delicate as the fingering of a fencer, which is reflected in the remarkable ease with which he executes the most difficult of maneuvers. His forte is the twisting vertical climb, followed by a twisting vertical dive.

Arthur J. Davis of East Lansing, Mich., another consistent winner of air races in recent years, plans to better his sensational performance of last year when he won the mile high race for the White Eagle trophy by climbing his tapered wing Waco biplane (Wright motor) from a standing start to 5,280 feet, and then diving back to earth in a total time of 3 minutes 11 seconds.

Killips will participate in the American air races as the third man in the formation stunt team and also will give a solo performance. His specialty is flying the distance of a mile in a true vertical position, with seemingly no lift on the wings, very close to the ground.

John Miller, the only American pilot capable of or willing to loop an autogiro, plans to exceed that feat with a new and startling act he has devised with his flying windmill. He lives in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Miller is a former army pilot whose unusual aerobatics in the autogiro have never been duplicated.

Two of the best known racing planes in the country, Mike and Ike, the two small white low wing racers built by Ben O. Howard of Kansas City, have been entered in the American air races by their designer. Flying their predecessor, Pete, Howard was the sensation of the Chicago air races in 1930, earning the title "pylon polisher" by his excellent racing form.

Exceed 200 Miles an Hour.

Howard has informed Maj. Schroeder that his two racers will be at the starting line at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of July 1 with two well known racing pilots at the controls. Both the planes are faster than 200 miles an hour with the throttle wide open.

"These four pilots, whose definite entries have been accepted by the American air races, represent just a few of the many applications we have received in the last few weeks," Maj. Schroeder said. "We expect to act on more of the applications in the early future.

"Substantial cash prizes will be offered to the winners of the various races. The amount of prizes will be announced thirty days before the racing meet opens and the money will then be placed in escrow."

ADMIRAL MOFFETT NOTABLE FIGURE IN NAVY AIR SERVICE

Forty per cent of the enlisted men in the war strength navy were trained under Admiral Moffett's supervision while he was in command of the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh naval districts. Great Lakes, where he made his headquarters, turned out 250,000 of the seamen.

Admiral Moffett was born in Charleston, S. C., Oct. 31, 1869. He was appointed to the United States Naval academy in 1886, and following his graduation was commissioned an ensign in 1892. He participated in the capture of Manila while an officer on the U. S. S. Charleston.

During American intervention in Mexico, he was in command of the U. S. S. Chester, taking part in the capture of Vera Cruz. For this service he was cited for bravery in action and received a medal of honor.

He was assigned to Great Lakes in 1914, and following the armistice was placed in command of the battleship Mississippi. In 1920 he received his appointment as head of the navy air bureau.

The Akron was his favorite navy hobby. Frequently a passenger on its exhibition flights, he even used the planes she carried to leave the ship in midair.

EXPECT 25,000 ON FOREST JOBS BY END OF WEEK

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—By the end of the week 25,000 idle men are expected to be on their way into the country's forests to engage in jobs under the administration's reforestation bill, it was announced at the White House today.

Projects on which work will begin will be selected tomorrow. Telegrams have been sent to the governors of the various states asking them to send representatives to Washington to confer next Thuraday concerning forest work in their areas.

Following a meeting of officials in charge of the forest program, it was announced that President Roosevelt had selected Robert Fechner, vice president of the International Association of Machinists, to be director of the work under the new act. Mr. Fechner has been connected with labor organizations for thirty-five years.

BONDING FIRM MUST PAY BANK'S RECEIVER $54,000

A jury in Superior Judge Walter T. Stanton's court yesterday awarded Charles Bainbridge, as receiver for the North Town State bank, a verdict of $54,000 against the U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty company. The company wrote a blanket bond on all employés of the bank, which failed April 13, 1931.

The receiver's claim was for alleged fraudulent withdrawals from the bank by its president, Olaf A. Christensen. Under fictitious names, it was charged, Christensen borrowed $70,000 which he used in connection with operations of other banks which he headed. Judge Stanton instructed the jury that Attorney J. L. Fox, for the receiver, had submitted proof of withdrawals of $50,000, and the verdict was for that amount, plus interest.

Christensen and Walter T. Larsen, who was cashier of the North Town State bank, on Devon avenue, near Western, were indicted for embezzlement but after a trial without a jury before Judge Philip L. Sullivan, were acquitted last December.

Reduce Fat. Wear Smaller Dresses, Prettier Styles. Throw Away Uncomfortable Corsets and Girdles. Look Years Younger. Start Taking BonKora Today.

Reduced Hips 8 Inches!

Her Photographs Show How Heaviest Parts Reduce First

"I lost 23 lbs. in 6 weeks taking BonKora. I lost fat just where I wanted to. It seemed that the heaviest parts reduced first. I reduced my bust 5 inches, waist 6 inches, hips 8 inches. Now weigh 125 lbs.

"I used to hate to wear a bathing suit. Now I look well in one and I am sending a photo just taken in a bathing suit and one taken in a dress when I was stout, so you can see the difference.

"I feel fine, too. BonKora is evidently a good tonic as well as a weight reducer. I got rid of indigestion, gas, dizzy spells, constipation and nervousness. I sleep fine now. And instead of the old tired feeling, I am full of energy. I feel younger and look younger.

"I didn't starve either. I like to eat and with BonKora, I can eat plenty and still lose fat."

Mrs H. H. Hallock Jr.

1105 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md.

MITCHELL TRIAL ON TAX CHARGES SET FOR APRIL 17

National City Company Is Facing Bond Suit.

New York, April 3. — [Special.] — The trial of Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, on the indictment charging him with attempting to evade the income tax law in 1929, was set for April 17 by Judge John C. Knox today in United States District court.

Mr. Mitchell's counsel, Max D. Steuer, apparently waived the right to argue any motions preliminary to the opening of the trial. The case had been set down on the calendar today for the hearing of such motions, but Mr. Steuer did not appear in court.

Loses Fight for Delay.

United States Attorney George Z. Medalie offered the motion fixing the date upon which Judge Knox acted. Irving J. Levy of Mr. Steuer's office was present to oppose setting the trial that early, but was unsuccessful.

The indictment, returned March 24, four days after Mr. Mitchell was arrested at his home on a federal warrant, charges the former banker with evading $573,812.81 in income taxes for 1929.

Sues National City.

Carter G. Osburn of Baltimore filed suit today in Supreme court against the National City company and the brokerage house of J. & W. Seligman & Co. for $6,020 which represents the difference between the cost price and the present value of seven $1,000 Peruvian bonds which he bought from the defendants through their agent on Dec. 14, 1928.

The defendants "falsely and fraudulently" represented that the bonds were sound investments, "well knowing that the republic of Peru was in an improverished and weak financial condition and its previous record in meeting public indebtedness was poor," Mr. Osburn alleged.

GIRL, 9, INJURED BY POLICEMAN CHASING AUTOIST

Dorothy Speltzer, 9 years old, 9041 Commercial avenue, was critically injured last evening at 91st street and Commercial avenue, by a motorcycle ridden by Policeman Melbourne Johnson who struck her while chasing a speedster. She was knocked unconscious and received a possible skull fracture and internal injuries, it was discovered at the South Chicago hospital.

An unidentified man about 55 years old who was struck by an automobile Sunday night at 159th street and Cicero avenue, died yesterday in the Oak Forest infirmary. The driver, Fred Roesner, who works on the infirmary farm, was not held.

This death increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 216.

MRS. ANNA FRAZIN DIES; LEADER IN AIDING CHILDREN

Mrs. Anna Frazin, active worker for unfortunate children, died yesterday in her home at 6129 South Green street. She was 76 years old. Mrs. Frazin came to Chicago from Russia 50 years ago. She was an honorary member of the Englewood Resthaven, honorary president of the Belle Kenopsky Auxiliary aid, and honorary vice president of the Consumptive Aid society, of the Englewood Hebrew school, and the Daughters of Jacob South Side Day nursery. Mrs. Frazin is survived by her husband, Abe; five sons, and four daughters. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home, with burial in Oakwoods cemetery.

THIRD CHILD OF FAMILY DIES; 7 ARE IN HOSPITAL

Dorothy Frapasella, 3 years old, 4925 South Dearborn street, died yesterday in the county hospital, the third member of her family to succumb to an illnes scaused by eating infected pork. The other two who died were Dorothy's brothers, James, 9 years old, and Anthony, 8. Seven other members of the family are in the hospital. They are the father, John Frapasella, 51 years old; the mother, Josephine, also 51, and the following children: Joseph, Jr., 20 years old; Jennie, 14; Conrad, 16; Francis, 12, and Theresa, 4. All were stricken on March 19.

Laurence A. Carton's Will Gives Two Sons $500,000

The will of Laurence A. Carton, treasurer of Swift & Co., who died Jan. 24, was filed yesterday before Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Taylor. It names his sons, Laurence R. Carton of Baltimore and Alfred T. Carton, 6 East Laurel, avenue, Lake Forest, as the principal legatees to an estate consisting of $500,000 in personal property and $15,000 in real estate. Additional bequests of $20,000 each were made to Mr. Carton's two daughters-in-law and to five grandchildren, Catherine, Eugenia, William, Robert, and Laurence A. Carton III.

J. J. Ruebell, Descendant of Napoleonic General, Dies

Brother of Senator Borah Is Dead in New Orleans

New Orleans, La., April 3.—(AP)—Charles Frank Borah, 65, prominent local attorney, father of Federal District Judge Wayne G. Borah and a brother of United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, died today.

WOMAN DIES AFTER FALL.

Mrs. Mildred Whitlow, 20 years old, 10828 Prairie avenue, died yesterday in the South town hospital of injuries suffered several days ago in a fall down stairs at 335 Englewood avenue.

WM. EASTMAN, 64, DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART ATTACK

William Eastman, president of the high school board of Evanston, died of a heart attack yesterday in the medical infirmary of the Evanston Township High school, where he had gone to attend a meeting. He was 64 years old and lived at 900 Greenwood street, Evanston.

Mr. Eastman became ill while alighting from his car in front of the school. He was helped inside and then taken to the infirmary, where he died a few minutes later.

Mr. Eastman was vice president of the Blakely Printing company, president of the Master Printers' federation, vice president of the Traffic Service corporation, and treasurer of the Blakely-Osgood Building corporation. He moved to Evanston in 1906. In 1912 he was elected to the Evanston city council, serving until 1916. Three years later he was elected to the high school board and was named president in 1926.

Surviving are his widow, Anna, and two children, Donald V. and Winifred. Private funeral services will be held.

Hairdresser to First Ladies Tells Styles

Washington Expert Speaks at Convention.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Emile Beauvais settled it once and for all yesterday. Bobbed hair is back and back to stay.

In fact, says Mr. Beauvais, every woman between the age of 18 and 80 will display shorn locks this year or she'll fall out of step with the dictates of Dame Fashion's hairdressing helpers.

Back in Washington, D. C., where he has dressed the hair of the wives of Presidents and diplomats since Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt was in the White House, he is known as "Emile." But yesterday, in the capacity of president of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association, he was Mr. Beauvais to thousands of hairdressers from throughout the country who flocked to the opening of the tenth annual Mid-West Beauty Industry show in Hotel Sherman. The show is sponsored by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers association.

"Back in 1906 when I used to dress Mrs. Roosevelt's hair the fashions were all puffs and pompadours," Mr. Beauvais revealed. "We built up the hair like castles—high on the head. It was a lot of work. It's a lot different now with rolls of curls—lots of them—and the new short hair.

"In diplomatic circles now many of the wives are wearing the short hair. Mrs. Homer Cummings, wife of the attorney general, wears her hair bobbed, as do the daughters of Madame Claudel, wife of the retiring French ambassador. The new ambassador's wife, Madame Andre de la Boulaye, wore her hair bobbed six years ago when her husband was secretary of the embassy."

Mr. Beauvais named Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the former secretary of war, as the "smartest woman that has been in the cabinet in the last ten years." She has adopted the new coiffure, he said, her blonde hair fashioned in roll after roll of curls all the way down the back, and the head topped with a perky little hat.

"Long hair is passé," spoke the hairdresser emphatically. "There need be no question in any one's mind as to the style—it will be bobbed. Of course there will be some stubborn husbands who will like bobbed hair on every woman except their wives, but they'll be few.

"For the school girl of 18 to the woman of 35 to 40, the latest styles of coiffures call for hair bobbed about two inches below the usual hairline. The hair will be cut short so that there may be five or six rolls of curls close to the head, not longer than two inches each.

"For women over 40, I would suggest the shorter bob which will make 10 to 15 years vanish in a twinkling, regardless of whether the hair is grey or its natural color. The hair may be worn off the face, with ears showing, or partly showing."

Bangs are still worn, he said, but not so much as before. They belong to the woman with a high forehead who wishes to remain individual. Bandeaux for afternoon or evening wear will be popular for all bobs and may be of rhinestone, gold or silver metal, or a color. These are very narrow, about a quarter to a half inch in width.

Makeup, Mr. Beauvais said, will not be so exaggerated this year. As much lipstick will be used, but little or no rouge. Eye shadow is more important than ever, he said, serving as a balance for the red lips.

In the exhibition hall the latest equipment is on display. Among this is an electric driven eye-brow arching machine that is said to be absolutely painless; an electric manicure machine, and a net hat with a mica brim that is intended to shade milady's eyes and keep her unruffled on the beach.

Despite short hair, statisticians get busy to prove that 1,200,000 pounds of wire pins were sold last year which if placed end to end would encircle the globe twelve times. This allows each of the 40,000,000 women using hairpins 210 a year. One company reported it had voted dividends of 3 per cent last year.

This evening the national golden trophy will be awarded for the creation of a new style bob to be called the World's Fair bob.

Large Crowds Set Record at Garden Show

BY PAUL POTTER.

Setting a new record in attendance for the first three days, the seventh annual garden and flower show of the Garden Club of Illinois on Navy pier yesterday continued to attract hosts of visitors from Chicago and outlying points in the central west. The show closes Saturday at 10 p. m.

Interest was being focused in the balloting by spectators on the special type gardens produced by various garden clubs and on the period table settings denoting changes during the last 100 years.

Speculation was rife as to the winner in the popular acclaim method of judging. Between the extreme types of a Chinese garden produced by Ravinians and a winter landscape by the garden club of Glen Ellyn are the Dutch garden from Villa Park, another with an inverted tree stump in it from Joliet, and other of singular attractiveness.

The garden club of La Grange Park, small in membership, has produced an outstanding exhibit as well as winning the special award for fruit pictures. Winners in the contest for original flower pictures, with pink predominating, were announced yesterday as follows: First, Kenilworth Junior Garden club; second, Joliet Floral and Garden club; third, Park Ridge Garden club.

Stories of the sacrifices which hundreds of enthusiastic gardeners have made to produce their part of the assembled exposition were coming to light yesterday. The Mokena Garden club's funds accumulated to stage their garden were tied up in a closed bank, as were those of the Freeport, Ravinia, and other clubs.

The women made last minute changes in designs, collected materials from every available source, and produced effects comparable with many less handicapped.

Not only are the increased attendance records denoting renewed interest in gardening this spring but many exhibitors record sales of seeds, bulbs, and gardening materials far above those of last season or other shows. Cactus plants, tropical fish, plant foods, and even expensive seeds of unusual plants are in demand, the dealers report.

Special medals awarded last night by Carl Cropp of Vaughn's Seed store were won by the following exhibitors: Silver floral medal for the best 20 by 60 foot house and garden project, Garden Club of Evanston; bronze medal for best boy's playhouse, Greenwood school of Blue Island; bronze medal for best girl's playhouse, Cary Gypsy Maidens; bronze medal for most outstanding plant exhibit by an amateur, Mrs. Alexander Reichmann of Barrington, on begonias. Judges from Wisconsin and Iowa made these selections.

Lovely Voice of Pons Thrills Big Audience

Proves Coloratura Singing Is Lively Art.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Just about the time that one is able to establish a comfortable feeling of lofty scorn over the art of the coloratura soprano as one of the pretentious and outmoded observances of a past generation along comes a person like Lily Pons to prove all over again that it is one of the lively and thrilling arts. All of which is pleasant to the musical perceptions, deflating to the sense of superiority, and altogether good for the soul.

Her appearance at the Auditorium last night, her first within the corporate limits of Chicago, was sponsored by the Women's Faculty club of the Northwestern university medical school. One inferred from the size of the audience that it thus had its financial values, but it needed no inference to know that plenty of musical values were there as well.

Hers is the kind of singing that makes one wonder what she could do if she were not a member of the Metropolitan Opera. The guess might be hazarded that she might use her voice as a substitute for the first violin of an orchestra. She needs no words. The vowel sound "ah" and a melody are all that are required. One of her encores was a tarantelle by an unknown composer done in this fashion, and about as tricky, blithe, and intricate a bit of execution as any violinist would care to play. And just before this, in "Una voce poco fa" from "The Barber of Seville," she displayed a range that took her to the high F above the staff.

She is a coloratura singer to touch the imagination. A good part of her program consisted, as might be expected, of arias that for many years have been in public favor, sometimes with the assistance of Henry Bové's flute, sometimes without. But one goes for years without hearing them sung as well as she sang them. Her gracious, lovely voice juggled the many stunts as easily as the average person handles a ballad. It is perhaps more to the purpose that in addition to being a vocal juggler she is also a musician.

One need not, therefore, dwell on the fact that in the beginning a few of her notes threatened to go slightly flat. It was only a tweak on the pitch, anyway, and rather curiously occurred in easy rather than difficult passages. But she found and transmitted the aristocracy of Pergolesi's "Se to m'ami" and the charm of Rimsky Korsakoff's "The Rose and the Nightingale" as persuasively as the fireworks of "Caro nome" from "Rigoletto" and the Mad Scene from "Lucia."

Mr. Bové was likewise well applauded for his group of flute solos and Giuseppe Bamboschek was an accompanist of the first grade. But Mme. Pons was the true persuader. Her arguments were unanswerable.

CLINIC BENEFIT

Wearing a mousseline de soie dress and canary slippers, Lily Pons had all the wistfulness and playfulness of a school girl yet all the poise of a mature artist in her benefit concert at the Auditorium last night.

In addition to the concert there was the satisfaction last night of contributing to a worthy cause for the Woman's Faculty club of the Northwestern University Medical school was sponsoring the concert and a goodly share of the proceeds is going to the support of the medical clinic that cares for some 135,000 patients annually.

Mrs. Loyal Davis, president of the Faculty club, striking in a gown of gray chiffon with matching gloves and two gardenias pinned at her neckline, occupied a box in the center of the lower tier. With Dr. Davis she was hostess to a party that included Dr. and Mrs. Mark Trude, Dr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Pollock, Mr. and Mrs. William Grunow, and President and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott.

Mrs. C. Barney Goodspeed was the only woman in the audience wearing a tiara. A thin strand of crystals, it matched the beads on her delicate blue gown. With her in a box were Mr. Goodspeed, President and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchings of the University of Chicago (Mrs. Hutchings in deep purple), and Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson.

Miss Lydia Swift was present in a party with Miss Mary Senior. And then there were Miss Margaret Chapman and Miss Nancy Traylor with handsome beaux, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, Mrs. Morris Leidy Johnston, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis with her daughter, Mrs. Nathaniel A. Owings, Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum with Col. George Voevodsky, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, Mrs. Jacob Baur and Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, Miss Emily Larned, Mrs. Archibald Freer, Mr. and Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Miss Anita Blair, and Miss Eleanor Jerrems escorted by Fielding Marshall.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Just what does a horse race mean to you?

Thrill? New shoes for baby? A chance to emerge from some sort of slough? The deep, throbbing satisfaction of seeing win the horse and jockey wearing your colors?

Thousands of reasons why people go to a Derby. "From Hell to Heaven" collects at an American race track some folks from various walks of life, and shows what occasions their presence.

Most of the action occurs at a fashionable hotel near the track. Here gather a young married couple, a pair who pose as such but are, in reality, unwed, and there for no good purposes; a pensive blonde and a blonde who is not so pensive; a race horse sizer-up—or whatever you call the chaps who are able to predict with fair accuracy a horse's chances of winning; a radio announcer; the aged owner of a horse he's playing to win and his charming daughter who loves a jockey; the jockey; Mrs. Chadman who owns a favorite; a big town detective who runs right into a nest of folks he's looking for, and Sam, the colored porter who has his own ideas as to how to make money out of a sweepstake.

"Nothing ever happens here!" says the radio announcer—who also writes songs—terrible ones, tap dances, and has ambitions to become a crooner.

He says it at both start and finish of the picture, not wotting, dumb cluck that he is, that he has been wading obliviously about in a perfect welter of untoward occurrences.

Mr. Oakie strives manfully to inject humor into what is just about the least humorless rôle to which he's ever fallen heir.

The players are all adept, with Adrienne Ames, Thomas Jackson and Sidney Blackmer pleasing me best. But the piece which is grandhotelic (right now I coin an adjective, because every picture built along episodic lines is invariably likened to "Grand Hotel"] is, unfortunately, neither particularly interesting as to incident nor directed with special astuteness. The dialogue is just dialogue.

See you tomorrow.

Movies for Children to Be Topic of Conference

Better motion pictures for children will be the topic for discussion tomorrow at the all day meeting of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers in the South ballroom of the Stevens hotel. There will be an address by Mrs. Chester Greene, state chairman of better films, at 10 o'clock, and a talk by Mrs. Richard McClure, motion picture chairman of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, in the afternoon.

Movie Closeup

Theater managers hope that moviegoers will remember that the state sales tax will NOT apply to theater tickets. Theaters were specifically exempted by the state legislature in the framing of the measure, coming under the classification of those agencies which render a special service to the public.

Talk Courage at Loop Rites to Mark Lent

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Bishop H. P. Almon Abbott of Lexington, Ky., yesterday told the largest noonday Lenten audience to assemble at the Grand Opera house this year that no one has the right to drag his miseries across the paths of others. The services at the Grand Opera house are held under the auspices of the Chicago Church club of the Episcopal church. There was also a large attendance in the Chicago temple, where the noonday Lenten services under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation opened yesterday.

While Bishop Abbott was explaining to his Grand Opera house listeners that there are no charmed lives and that those who seem to have easy times are only braver and more self-contained than others, Dr. Oscar T. Olson, the temple preacher, deplored the present prevalence of the doctrine of despair. Dr. Olson, who is the pastor of the Wilmette Methodist Episcopal church, cited the strength that comes to those who put religion at the center of their lives.

"There are those," said Dr. Olson, "who have discovered an abiding value in life. They find that a devotion to ideals and goodness and truth brings a glow and a color into human experience. 'This is life,' said Jesus and He shows us an eternal quality of living that ventures with a God of love and honor and truth who becomes ground and basis for our hope and faith in things unseen."

Bishop Abbott pictured the contrast between the people who "always fly their flag at half-mast" and those whose outlook on life enables them to overcome their handicaps and to live triumphant lives. He cited Mark Twain, Lord Byron, John Wesley, Julius Cæsar, and Paul, who became great in spite of physical handicaps. Bishop Abbott will speak each noon this week at the Grand Opera house.

Today's speaker at the Chicago temple will be the Rev. Dr. F. W. Otterbein, pastor of the North Austin Lutheran church.

Shops Display Bar Furniture for the Home

Handsome Model Fit for Living Room.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Judging by the array of glassware, mugs, schooners and beer garden equipment, every thirsty soul will be accommodated. . . . The oasis is at last in sight, or within sniffing distance. Various stores have perspicaciously arranged some pre-views of what you can use for the dry army that will crowd around your festive boards or bars in the next few hours.

One shop, with the last bit of dry wit, has unofficially christened such a spot as the "Bar X" (not a dude ranch), and there you will find enough glasses, bottles, and drinking gadgets to occupy the rather dazed shopper for the greater part of an afternoon.

The stores will show you a bar, a decorative affair that you could keep—even in the living room. It is a huge half-drum, with the good old brass rail encircling the lower edge. The outside is painted a good he-man red, with the cords of a drum crisscrossing all the scarlet splendor in snappy and proper formation. And the shops will supply the white jacket and the enveloping apron for the first attempts of the amateur bartender. A genial gent with magnificent mustachios has been embroidered on the bib, evidently to keep the cook from wearing the thing.

Behind this half-drum is stowed the beer cooler, a capacious wooden keg fitted with a removable tin receptacle for ice and the jumble of bottles. This jolly looking cooler stands stanchly on four peg legs, fully guaranteed to keep the proper balance in the midst of the most convivial celebrations. A much smaller cooler is also available, together with a dozen beer mugs of aluminum gathered around the edge of a huge circular tray which is fitted with a wooden center for a lusty hunk of cheese. And the aluminum cheese knife is included.

Flanking this tray and mugs are the pretzel sticks. . . . A husky fräulein holds aloft in her strong right arm a skyscraping pole upon which are hung pretzels and more pretzels, and lest this supply will not last the fräulein's boy friend also carries a pole full of the salty, crunchy double knots of goodness.

Huge schooners of transparent glass, Heidelberg steins, with nice noisy lead clampers and huge handles, colored glass steins, and all kinds of deep bowls, plates, and platters which are reminiscent of fabulous stories of free lunches, are a few of the many props for your party.

If you need capacity try the Gargantuan glass tankard with a flotilla of matching glass mugs. This set is striped in red at frequent intervals, and so are the glasses, probably for high beer mark records. All you need is a row of linden trees, the sentimental strains of a Viennese waltz, a waiter who can yodel, and the good old days are back.

Learn Marlene Dietrich Suffered Injury to Neck

Hollywood, Cal., April 3.—[Special.]—Surgeons today determined that Marlene Dietrich had suffered a dislocation of a neck vertebra in her fall from a horse while appearing in movie scenes last Wednesday. Dr. Leo Madsen is attending her. She tried to work before the camera last Saturday, but yesterday suffered a partial collapse. Her return to the cast has been deferred for several days or perhaps longer.

Bloused Waist, Plaited Skirt New Paris Fancy

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Curiouser and curiouser grow a lot of the dress styles that are being brought out in Paris. Weird and wonderful are the lines of many frocks shown here.

The dress with a plaited skirt and a softly bloused waist, which Bruyere is showing, is a style that looks good to women in general, and that is sure of success. It is young and easy to wear, and it forecasts a general return to real dress freedom, and a leaving off of pinching and complication in daytime clothes.

The material is brown and white checkered surah-like silk—the skirt is knife plaited from a narrow box plait at the center front to a wide box plait at the center back. The plaits are stitched down half-way to the knees, and loose below.

The blouse is bloused above the brown belt, and bloused intentionally. It buttons up the front on pearl buttons, and it has a narrow standing collar that ties boyishly on the throat in front above a V-shaped décolleté. The plain sleeves have narrow band cuffs.

Miss Hoffman Tells Hunt for World Types

Sculptor Shows Pictures Made on Tour.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS MALVINA HOFFMAN, with the aid of a charming, cultivated voice, a pleasant, informal manner, and dozens of still pictures and several reels of moving pictures, took her audience on a forty minute tour of the world yesterday afternoon, a delightful experience for those who were fortunate enough to be in her audience at the Arts club.

It wasn't scenery that she and her husband, Samuel B. Grimson, had photographed, either, or that she talked about, although, of course, bits of decorative background were in some of the pictures and Miss Hoffman couldn't refrain from mentioning some of the scenic beauties of the far away places they visited.

The couple had photographed people—people of various races and types, but all interesting and some even familiar looking, although they have never been here and most of us never have been where they live and they never were photographed before the Grimsons crossed their paths.

For instance, when a front and a side view of a Mongolian was thrown on the screen there was applause from Mussolini's admirers, for the picture looked so much like the Italian dictator. There were other strange resemblances, too, that Miss Hoffman said she couldn't account for, although perhaps an anthropologist could.

Find Types for Hall of Man.

The trip that the Grimsons made was for the purpose of finding the various types for the full length figures and heads that Miss Hoffman has made for the Hall of Man at the Field museum, most of them in bronze but some in stone and marble. The difficulties that they experienced in carrying with them the necessary tools and plaster for casting the molds were many, and in some cases they even encountered danger, but these things were made light of by the intrepid sculptor yesterday.

She told with a smile of the young husband on the Malay peninsula who sat with his twenty inch knife across his knees during the entire time that his wife was posing for Miss Hoffman. Also of the time that the jungle chief who was sitting for her left his pose long enough to kill a deadly snake which was crawling toward her and had almost reached her, and of how all during the time he was posing he had to frighten away the monkeys who started throwing bananas and

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS.

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters; Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, the father—have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior after losing their fortune in Chicago. Andrew went to pieces after the death of his wife. Great Aunt Letitia, formerly dean of a girls' school in Ohio, is the liaison between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Ned Bremner, hope to build up a great export business. Ned is in love with Meryl, but she dreams of a better future. A forest fire brings Blake Lawrence, injured and lost, to the Henderson cottage. There were two great names in nearby Agate Bay and its environs—Lawrence and Greer. Blake is in love with Greer's wife, Christine. Blake's broken ankle keeps him two weeks with the Hendersons. Meryl falls in love with Blake. Though still enamored of Christine, Blake becomes engaged to Meryl and sends for his sister, Theresa, to meet her. Meryl leaves for Agate Bay with Blake and Theresa, where the wedding takes place. Blake leaves immediately after the ceremony for one of his mines where a strike is on. Lucia, a snobbish cousin of the Lawrences, pays them a visit. She has some of her friends in for dinner. Lucia becomes jealous of the attentions one of her male guests forces on Meryl and in anger tells Meryl that Blake married her as an escape from Christine. Meryl packs to return home.

AN UNLOVED BRIDE.

"Let me tell you all there is to tell, Meryl, dear, before you protest," Theresa interrupted. "Christine is fascinating. Even I can't help admitting that. When she saw Blake for the first time this spring, she made a play for him. He should have had more sense. I know that. But there were other things that entered into the case. It happens that Blake owes his own fortune to Julius Greer. Julius and father were about the same age and they were very close friends before father died. Julius saved father from ruin at one time."

"How could Blake do such a thing to Julius Greer, then?" Meryl asked.

"Darling, we never know how such things happen. I believe it happened without Blake's really knowing it. When he realized that he was falling in love with Christine, he was conscience stricken. He told Christine that things couldn't go any further between them. But Christine declared she would be content to have him merely for a lover."

Theresa drew a deep breath and cast a shrewd glance at Meryl. The girl was listening to the story for the story's sake.

"Finally, when he could bear it no longer, he went away to our shooting lodge up on Blue lake. I am going to be honest with you, dear. He was running away from himself as much as he was from Christine. He set

"Why didn't he come back home with Doctor Trevor that night, then?" Meryl demanded.

"And be where Christine could see him every day and every night?"

"I see," Meryl said quickly. "And when he finally had to come back—he brought me along with him—as an easy way out of his mess!"

Her voice had risen passionately, but Theresa drew her arm firmly about her.

"Meryl," she said, with deep solemnity, "do you really love Blake?"

Meryl turned widely flaming eyes upon her. "Do you think I'm the sort of person who would marry a man because he had money?"

"Not for a moment, dear," Theresa replied. "If your love means anything, it ought to be strong enough to withstand at least one test."

"And it would," Meryl answered, "if I had his love in return."

"I am not sure that you haven't," Theresa ventured. "He is more than half in love with you already, or I'm feeble minded. But apart from all that, if you run off now and leave him, Blake will be ruined?"

"How?" Meryl asked dully.

"You can see how, if you give it a little thought. Go—and there will be no end of gossip. Trust Lucia for that. The bride of a Lawrence could not desert him two days after she married him, without plenty of talk. It would get to Julius Greer sooner or later. I'm not sure that he doesn't suspect enough already. Besides, Christine is likely to go off the deep end in one of her tantrums and admit everything, if for nothing more than her own selfish satisfaction. Julius Greer is ruthless. He has it in his power to ruin Blake financially if he set his mind to it—he might even do worse. The whole situation is in your hands, my dear."

"I didn't ask for it," Meryl replied stubbornly.

Theresa smiled. "I have spoken of only one side of it, dear," she went on. "You say you are really in love with Blake?"

"I—was." Meryl replied painfully.

"I was really in love—once," Theresa said. "In spite of what the clever ones say about it, my dear—it can happen only once—to some women. I am still in love—with a memory. And I'd give everything—"

"O—I know, I know!" Meryl exclaimed despairingly. "I'll go on loving Blake as long as I live."

"And you're going to go on for the rest of your life trying to kill your love for him? Is that your plan?"

"But you are asking me to go on living with a man whom I love—but who does not love me," Meryl cried.

"I'm asking you to stay by Blake for—let us say, for six months. Give him a chance. Give yourself a chance, dear. If, at the end of that time, you feel that you don't want to be a Lawrence any longer, all you will have to do is tell me so—and tell Blake."

Meryl's heart at that moment was beating so oppressively that she could not reply. She twined her fingers together and looked down at them helplessly. Blake's lean, brooding face came vividly into her mind. How, she wondered distractedly, could she live in the same house with him, seeing him every day, loving him every hour, and knowing that his heart was elsewhere?

"A changeling bride!" she said in a voice that was almost inaudible.

"Don't think of yourself that way." Theresa said lightly, sensing a change in Meryl's mood. "Play the part as much as you like—and I'll have no end of fun grooming you for it! I'm going to make a butterfly out of you—for the sake of appearances. But I'm going to do more—for the sake of your own peace of mind. I'm going to set you to work helping me on the job I've laid out for myself. I've talked to you about that. I'll teach you all you want to know about social service. It will give you something to put your mind on—something to do—and something you can take up if you decide, after all, that you can't go on with—us."

She paused and looked at Meryl, waiting for her to speak. Meryl felt unutterably callow. She knew she had been swayed by Theresa's appeal on Blake's behalf. He was ten years older than she, and yet he had been so simple as to get himself into a predicament where his whole future rested upon the decision of an unsophisticated little shore girl. The situation was almost ludicrous! But men were simple where affairs of the heart were concerned. She suddenly felt years older than the man she had married. If it were not for her own pride, she thought, the problem might solve itself easily and immediately.

And yet—

"It's certainly worth giving a night's thought to, anyhow," Theresa prompted. "Go to bed, dear, and dream about it. Blake will be back in the morning. And please remember, I'll understand—no matter what your decision may be."

They talked a little more, then Theresa helped Meryl undress and saw that she was tucked into bed before she kissed her good night.

"I feel like a brute," Theresa said to herself, as she switched off the lights and stole out of the room. "Damn the Lawrences, anyhow!"

BEAUTY ANSWERS

If there is any question pertaining to beauty and personal hygiene upon which you wish advice write to Antoinette Donnelly, The Chicago Tribune. Enclose stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply.

MITZI: GOLDEN BROWN HAIR cannot be made blond without bleaching it. The rinses on the market are not strong enough to bring it to that shade, and I do not recommend home bleaching.

HI, LORA, HOW ABOUT A LITTLE LIFT?
HEAR YOU'VE GOT A GOOD JOB, LORA.
GRAND, UNCLE AVERY, AND A WONDERFUL MAN TO WORK FOR—MR. MAYBEE. HE'S GOING TO MAKE THE FARMERS RICH AND YOU OUGHT TO SEE THE CUTE THINGS THEY'LL MAKE OUT OF CORNCOBS.
PIPE DREAMS! HE CAN'T MAKE MONEY OUT OF CORNCOBS.
YOU SHOULD HEAR HIS PLANS—HE HAS VISION. HE SAYS A HUNDRED DOLLAR SHARE WILL BE WORTH A THOUSAND. AND HE HAS A PLAN SO ALL THE EMPLOYEES CAN BUY STOCK
YEAH. I'VE BEEN LISTENIN' TO YOUR UNCLE JOHN. HE'S ALL HET UP ABOUT THIS CONTINENTAL CORNCOB CO.
YOU OUGHT TO COME UP TO OUR OFFICE AND SEE MR. MAYBEE. HE HAS WONDERFUL IDEAS AND LOVES TO EXPLAIN THEM.
I WOULDN'T WANT TO DO THAT, LORA. BUT IF YOU COULD SLIP ME SOME PRINTED MATTER—
CERTAINLY. AND I'D JUST LIKE TO HAVE YOU MEET HIM SOME TIME. HE'S REALLY A WIZARD.

Kindly Elders Stand By When Child Is Upset

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

There are so many things about bringing up children that never get into any book on the subject—either popular or technical—nor the magazines, either, for that matter.

Children of certain temperaments at some time in their lives—usually in the preadolescent or adolescent years—show an unevenness of disposition. This is, perhaps, the briefest and fairest way to put it. Long suffering parents or relatives will call it superficially crankiness, or disagreeableness, or irritability, or some such name which defines merely its effect on them, rather than the state of the child.

These states are difficult to handle even if one knows the cause, which is not always the case. The rather human response to them is apt to be:

Scolding or correction or criticism.

An impatience or irritability equal to the child's.

A request to "use a little self-control," or "remember that it's not very pleasant to listen to," or "what is the matter with you?"

Or the opposite—an attempt to coax, cajole, or comfort.

And none of these do much good.

Why not try treating the child with some of the same judgment and respect for his misery that you would show to a grown person you loved.

THE MURDER OF DENVER DAN.

"Odd how a murderer actually conspires with the fates to convict himself," mused Prof. Fordney as he paused at No. 762 in his casebook.

While on a hunting trip in 1931 with Col. Wise and a guide, one Sure Shot Joe, they had discovered Denver Dan, a recluse, dead from a bullet in his heart. Summoning the sheriff, the trio continued on their way, falling in the next evening with Sam Silt, a trapper and bitter enemy of Denver Dan.

As they sat around after a satisfying meal Sure Shot Joe taunted Sam with his superior ability as a marksman, finally offering to bet him $50 that he was a better shot at a moving target than Sam. Sam good naturedly accepted the offer and suggested they use a coyote, which he had trapped.

The next morning the test was held Sam was to shoot the running coyote through the heart, Joe through the eye, both firing simultaneously. As both rifles cracked the coyote dropped. Joe hit his mark all right, but as the professor probed the bullet from the coyote and slipped it into his pocket he pointed out to Sam that he missed the heart.

Before boarding the train for the east Fordney had a lengthy talk with Sheriff Waters. Two days after his return to New York he telegraphed Waters to hold Sam on suspicion of murdering Denver Dan.

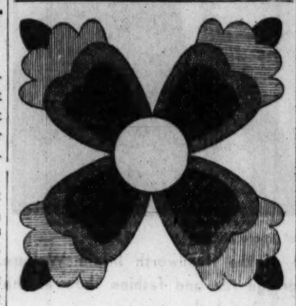
Attractive Design Is Official Quilt Pattern of Ohio



Ohio Rose.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Back in 1860 this "Ohio Rose" quilt pattern was designed and, logically enough, by a resident of Ohio. Since that time it has been accepted as the official quilt pattern of Ohio. Perhaps you have seen a pattern by this same name, but varied a little in form. It is true there are many variations, but always the original pattern is easily discernible. The proper colors for the block are the dainty shades and tints of the rose.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send five cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One S. Dearborn street.

HIGH SCHOOL PIMPLES DON'T BELONG

High school days—boys' and girls'—are days of social contacts. Pimples are embarrassing to both. They are unwelcome visitors, but they need not stay. Apply Poslam every night and tell them good-bye. Social popularity and clear complexions go hand in hand. Get Poslam at any drug store, 50c.

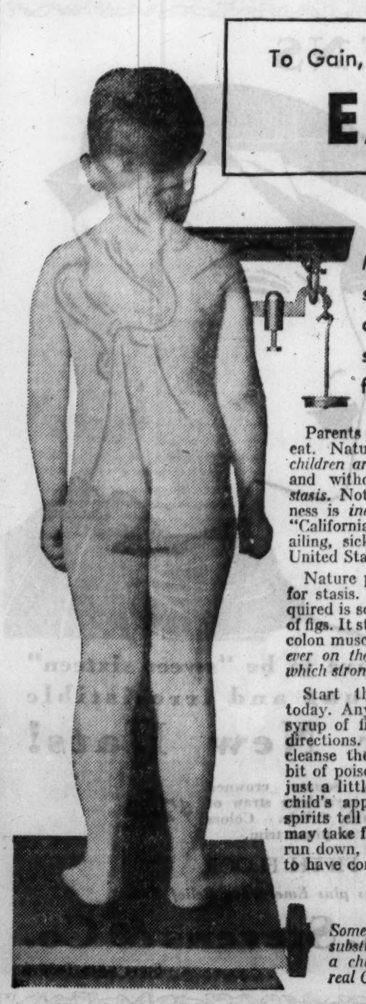
To Gain, a Child must EAT



Mothers, it is not the stomach, but a bowel condition that keeps so many children from eating.

Parents shouldn't coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Healthy children are hungry. If pale, listless, and without appetite, they have stasis. Not to correct this sluggishness is inexcusable. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for ailing, sickly children all over the United States!

Nature provides a simple remedy for stasis. The only "medicine" required is some pure California syrup of figs. It stimulates a sluggish child's colon muscles and has no effect whatever on the twenty feet of intestines which strong purgatives paralyze.

Start this wonderful treatment today. Any druggist has California syrup of figs, all bottled, with full directions. Use enough at first to cleanse the clogged colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. It may take four weeks if a child is all run down, but isn't it well worth it, to have constipation conquered?

CAUTION

Some stores will try to sell a substitute, even when it is for a child! Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs.

Correct Faults That Lead to Bulging Lines

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In cadet slang there is a word defined as "neat in personal appearance." The word is "spoony." I think we might adopt that word for use in our own circles, so long as we must have slang phrases to lighten this serious business of living.

"Spoon up" appears in the dictionary of cadet slang, too. It means "to put in order; to clean up."

If we're not spoony, then, it would follow that we must "spoon up." Applied to the sloppy waistline, the wobbly hip, the tummy, and diaphragm that won't stay put, any word that means "cleaning up" or "putting in order" is the right word to use.

So, let's "spoon up" with these abdominal and back exercises, another of which is given today. Be frank in an analysis of yourself. Some of you can see plainly enough and feel all the discomforts of the protruding abdomen, the thighs that bulge when you sit or stand, and all the other impedimenta of a silhouette that is not neat in appearance. Others may be shocked into a discovery of their lack of symmetry standing sidewise, undressed, before a long mirror.

We know there isn't a chance in the world of cutting a pretty figure if waist, hips, abdomen, and diaphragm aren't neat in appearance. To man, woman, girl, or boy the rule applies, regardless of age.

The back is discovered to be anything but straight, the stomach "after Kewpie," as they would say in an art catalog; a thick ridge running up or down between the center ribs to add disharmony to silhouette line; probably the lower rear part of the back projecting. All of which faults are correctible—and in the name of youth and beauty should be tended at once with exercise for the particular muscles that govern.

West Point Stretching Exercises No. 1, an illustrated booklet outlining the first six exercises published in this series, may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Antoinette Donnelly, The Chicago Tribune. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street.

Touch Your Toes, and Stretch

Lie on the back with arms fully extended to the rear of the head. a. Rise to a sitting position smartly. b. Touch hands to toes, STRETCH the back and shoulders. c. Return to the first position slowly, halting momentarily en route.

Miss Hoffman Tells Hunt for World Types

The last pictures were of Miss Hoffman and Stanley Field in the garden of her studio in Paris and of the foundry there where the bronzes were cast, the latter taken by Clarence B. Mitchell, clever amateur photographer who now has an exhibition of the remarkable photographs he has taken since he and his wife, the former Marjorie King, went abroad nearly a year ago, at the Galerie Ecalle in Paris. During her Chicago visit Miss Hoffman is the guest of Mrs. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King.

Pouring at the tea which preceded the talk were Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, and receiving with Miss Hoffman were Mrs. C. Barney Goodspeed and Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson. Taking tickets and ushering were Mrs. John Paul Welling, Mrs. Paul Shorey, Miss Lucy Driscoll, Miss Carolyn Erminger, Miss Eleanor Cushman, Miss Grace Dewes and the Misses Harriet and Beatrice Borland.

Miss Hoffman was introduced by Col. George T. Langhorne, president of the American Friends of China, who arranged yesterday's delightful affair. It was a large and fashionable audience that filled the large gallery at the club that listened to Miss Hoffman and enjoyed her pictures.

Mary Barry Is Engaged.

Of interest to old Chicago families will be the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Stewart Barry, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Fravel Barry of Evanston, to John Bland Townes of Evanston, for Miss Barry is a fourth generation Chicagoan, her father being the grandson of S. S. Barry and Thomas A. Stewart, one of the first editorial workers on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and her mother the granddaughter of Sampson Reed of Boston and Jonathan Young Scammon, one of Chicago's pioneers.

Mr. Scammon came to Chicago in 1835 when it was a prairie village, and in the years before he died in 1890 he founded or helped to found many of its institutions, including the Inter-Ocean, the Chicago Historical society, the Chicago Astronomical society, and the Dearborn observatory. He wrote and published the "Scammon's Reports," the first books ever published in Chicago; wrote the laws under which our public school system was organized, and wrote the law under which illegal banking was ended in Chicago in 1853.

Miss Barry is a graduate of Smith college and is active in north shore Smith alumnae activities. Mr. Townes attended Dartmouth. No date for the wedding has been set.

The announcement of their engagement was made yesterday at a bridge tea given by Miss Barry for her cousin, Mrs. Harper Soles, who recently has moved here from Summit, N. J. Miss Barry decided to have the engagement announced at this time while her sister, Florence Dearborn, is at home for her spring vacation from Smith, where she is a sophomore. There is a younger daughter in the family, Barbara Reed, who is in her senior year at Roycemore, and one son, Dr. Fravel Scammon Barry, who is interning at the Cleveland City hospital.

Miss Lockwood Engaged In West.

From El Rancho Coronado in Benson, Ariz., comes the news of the engagement of Miss Mary Margaret Lockwood, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank C. Lockwood of Tucson, Ariz., to William McIlwain Thompson Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. William McIlwain Thompson of Chicago and El Rancho Coronado, Ariz.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Wright Rule, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Rule of Wychwood, Westfield, N. J., to Lieut. Dwight B. Johnson, U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnson of Chicago. Mrs. Albert K. Stebbins Jr., whose husband, Lieut. Stebbins, is stationed at Fort Sheridan, is a sister of Miss Rule, who, with her mother, now is visiting Lieut. and Mrs. Stebbins.

Miss Rule, who attended the National Cathedral school in Washington, is a granddaughter of the late Col. Walter K. Wright, U. S. A., and a grandniece of Admiral Hugh Rodman, U. S. N., retired. Lieut. Johnson attended Northwestern university before entering the Military academy at West Point, from which he was graduated with the class of '32. He now is stationed at Fort Sheridan. The marriage will take place early in the summer before the date on which Lieut. Johnson is to sail for the Philippines, where he will be stationed with the coast artillery.

Bridal Dinner for Miss Higinbotham.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winston are giving the bridal dinner for their friend, Miss Florence Higinbotham, tonight at their residence in Joliet. Their little daughter, Margaret, is to be a flower girl at Miss Higinbotham's marriage to John Skelton Williams Jr. of Richmond, Va., tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Williams and his mother arrived yesterday and so did his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Williams of Detroit, who will be matron of honor and best man at tomorrow's ceremony. Little Jean Williams, their daughter, is to be a flower girl, too.

Only the relatives have been invited to attend the marriage of Miss Helen Tieken and Maurice Patrick Geraghty on the afternoon before Easter, but some of their friends are in receipt of a delightfully informal note from the bride's brothers, reading as follows: "We would like you to come to the wedding reception of our sister, Helen, and Maurice Patrick Geraghty on Saturday, April 15, between 5 and 7 o'clock at our home. Very sincerely, Robert and Theodore Tieken." The wedding is to take place at 4:30 o'clock at the Tieken residence, 223 East Delaware place.

Miss Nora MacCurdy will arrive on Thursday to spend her spring vacation from Bryn Mawr with her uncle and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Owen B. Jones, in Lake Forest. Miss MacCurdy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sterling Gladwin, who were married in Reno on March 24, will be here early next week to join the family house party.

Dr. Adler Will Lecture Today.

Carroll H. Sudler Jr. will introduce Dr. Mortimer J. Adler this morning when he talks about "The Contribution of Sigmund Freud" at 11 o'clock in the Diana Court salon, 540 North Michigan avenue. This is the first of three lectures the Lower North Community council has arranged as a spring benefit.

Mrs. Anthony French Merrill will give the last of three talks on "New Books and New Affairs" at the Woman's Athletic club this morning at 11 o'clock.

The Junior Friends of Art will meet this afternoon in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house with the German consul general, Dr. Hugo Smith, as a guest.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, April 3.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius N. Bliss will pass the spring at their country home at Wheatley, which they kept open through the winter. Last Wednesday the Museum of Modern Art placed on exhibition a selection of paintings from the collection bequeathed the museum by Mr. Bliss' sister, the late Miss Lizzie P. Bliss.

Canned Soups Are as Savory as Home Made

BY MARY MEADE.

Old fashioned "soup days" seem to have gone by the board. But happily on leaving they did not take with 'em the soup.

You remember the program. First a trip to the butcher shop for a beef bone or knuckle of veal. It was permissible to use the telephone, but one stood a good chance of getting done and mighty little else. Then if it were to be a vegetable soup, those ingredients had to be run down. If the hucksters didn't have the "soup bunch" already bunched, it took several dimes before the proper complication of vegetables had been accounted for and carted to the kitchen. Next came the cleaning and chopping and finally the long hours of lazy bubbling while the juices of all and sundry were teased out to provide a few bowls of undeniably delicious soup. All in all, soup making in the good old days was not an undertaking to be entered upon lightly.

And then the era of the can opener arrived. Canned soups became as good and savory as any that came out of the home soup kettle. And, in addition, they provided more variations. Today cream soups, chowders, bouillons of meat, or clam, or chicken, thick soups and clear soups have got themselves into cans and offer a tempting lineup on the grocer's shelves.

Now, a last minute yearning for tomato-beef bouillon floating with crunchy toast croutons takes five minutes to make a fact—with the help of a can opener and a good brisk fire. Or a soup-and-salad lunch or supper can now be whizzed onto the table in the time it takes to heat the can.

Sometimes, naturally, we'll still be making our own soups—the quick ones that call for simple cream sauces and added foods. But for most modern meal getters, a well stocked soup shelf has become as much of a boon and a necessity as her rows of canned vegetables, fish, and the rest.

But whether ours is to be a home made or store bought version, the best soup needs a foil—and finds it among the many crunchy cracker accompaniments either ready at the stores or home prepared.

Fat, puffy oyster crackers come in your choice of sizes and shapes, and are quite as proper as an aside with cream soups and chowders as with the orthodox oyster stew. Salted crackers come in squares, rounds, slim strips or how you will and appreciate a quick crisping in the oven before serving. Cheese crackers are favorites with creamed vegetable or egg soups. Graham crackers are my especial weakness when it comes to a bubbling oxtail soup.

Corn soups—the thin creamy kind or the sturdier chowders—are always exceedingly flattered to discover a few fluffy whole grains of buttered popped corn on top.

Or you may take your choice of one of these for the soup garnish: Small drop dumplings or forcemeat balls; noodles, different forms of macaroni or ravioli in a stock soup; big fat dumplings in chowder; hot toast fingers or cheese straws.

Then another topping. When soups lack nip and richness, or need a complement to set them off, pass grated cheese to be generously sprinkled. Parmesan cheese is my first choice, though grated American cheese has its rooters, too. In like manner we may choose to sprinkle minced parsley or watercress over red or yellow soups just before serving.

Or if you like to go delving for buried treasure, add cooked tapioca to each bowl of soup. Likewise, boiled rice, vermicelli, or bright colored vegetables cut in fancy shapes may be invited in as occasional soup accompaniments.

But those forcemeat balls we mentioned need a bit of explaining. Here is one good recipe:

LIVER FORCEMEAT BALLS.

1 egg, well beaten.
¼ cup bread crumbs.
1 teaspoon minced parsley.
¼ teaspoon onion juice.
Milk.

Blend all the ingredients with enough milk to form a firm, packable dough. Roll the mixture into balls one-half inch through and drop them into boiling soup stock to cook for ten minutes.

N. Y Doctors Oppose Medic Cost Project

New York, April 3.—(AP)—Warning that a "terrific burden of taxation" would be imposed by the medical insurance advocated by the recent report of the committee on costs of medical care was adopted tonight by the Medical Society of the State of New York.

Free medical care for the worthy poor, paid for by taxation.

Zoning of those persons entitled to free service in hospitals.

For those below the "comfort level" in incomes, payment of a "small annual fee" for hospital care up to 21 days annually. The family physician would grant these admissions to hospitals.

Opposition to "further extension of the federal government in hospitalization and medical service to nonwar incurred disabilities of veterans."

Stop treating workmen's compensation cases free in hospitals supported by public funds, but allow the hospitals or physicians to retain the state allowed compensation fees.

Continuation of the present method of New York state of treating tuberculosis, insanity, mental defectives and epilepsy.

Adoption of the "Detroit plan" whereby family physicians coöperate with health departments in preventive medicine, particularly by giving in their own offices prophylaxis against epidemic types of disease.

The report stated that medical service should be controlled by "organized medicine," but that the plans of the committee on costs of medical care would transfer this to "nonprofessional bodies."

The final report of the committee on costs of medical care was called "an extremely disappointing and empty document."

THE STAGE

A Passion Play is now being rehearsed in Chicago by Jay Wellington, stage director and pageant master from Hollywood, for production in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel during the week of April 24. A company of 350 has been recruited from the city's amateur organizations. The performances will include singing by a choral group of 100 voices under the direction of Dwight Cook. The ballroom of the Stevens will provide seating for an audience of 3,000.

"Professor Tim," a comedy by George Shiels, will be given its first acting on the American stage by the Abbey Theater company of Dublin in the Harris theater tomorrow night. Next Monday night, to begin the last week of the run, the Irish players will give W. B. Yeats' latest one-act play, "The Words Upon the Window Pane," its first performance in Chicago as curtain raiser to "The Playboy of the Western World." C. C.

Here's Hoping We'll Not Forget Lesson.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Out of the late crisis which we now believe we've turned the corner on, women have relearned a few things about themselves. They have learned that in a moment of deep depression theirs was the strong rôle to maintain. Or, as some one sagely put it, in times of prosperity it is a man's world. In times of depression, a woman's.

It was her job to turn cheer leader, efficiency expert, home economist and often be the wage earner, beside. But, curiously enough, the wage-earning phase of her many-sided helpfulness was the least lauded of her virtues. It was her resurrection of the home as a haven in the perilous storm that brought men to their knees before her, literally speaking, of course.

It was woman in her age-old woman rôle that brought a new light into men's eyes. Also, we believe this same courageously acted rôle had a great deal to do with the optimism responsible for the country's present recovery signs. Now, the question is if, with a return to prosperity, woman will forsake her most beloved rôle? If, again, she will be beset with the unrest, the foolish spending, the false standards of a former prosperous day? If home again will become a place for hanging the hat between pleasure excursions?

A good deal will depend upon the men, unquestionably! If they withhold the praise that, during the hard days, have lent women courage to act the efficient, brave domestic part, women will be up and on the warpath again, seeking outside the home what the home denies them.

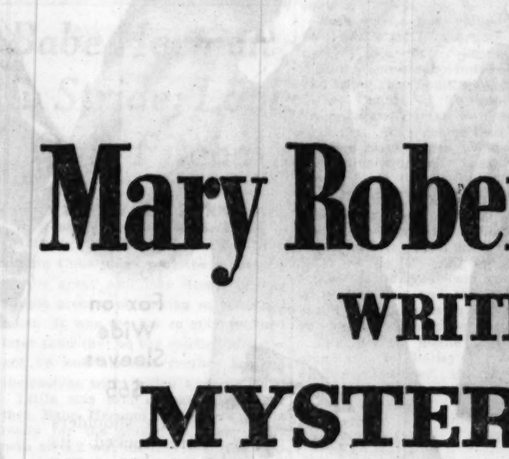
Mary Roberts Rinehart WRITES A NEW MYSTERY STORY OF HOARDED GOLD



There were more than 200 pounds of gold in a heavy chest underneath Mrs. Lancaster's bed. Everybody who lived on the Crescent knew about it from servants' gossip.

Who slipped into her room and killed her on that bright August afternoon?

How did the gold get out of the house?

The tight-lipped Crescent Place, with its Victorian respectability and pride, had its suspicions. Rarely have clues been so tangled.

More baffling than "The Bat," more exciting than "Miss Pinkerton," and more vivid than "The Door." No lover of mystery stories can afford to miss

EX-BANKER CRIES "LIAR" AT TRIAL; GETS REPRIMAND

City State Ex-Executive Tells of Fears.

Alexander Jarema, former vice president of the defunct City State bank, was removed from the courtroom in custody of a bailiff yesterday and later reprimanded by Judge Francis B. Allegretti for rising in court and shouting "liar" at a prosecution witness in the trial of himself and four other former officials or directors of the bank on charges of receiving deposits while insolvent.

The witness was Roscoe J. Todd, who was credit manager for the bank and a former investigator for the United States senate currency committee. The high point of his testimony came when he described a conference attended by Jarema and Morrison Castle, another of the defendants, at which Cornelius Miller, president of the bank, who died in 1930 after being informed that one of the bank's loans was improperly secured, explained:

"Gentlemen, we are faced with a serious condition. If there is a loss on this loan it will be the straw which breaks the camel's back. We might just as well put the key in the front door."

Loans Made for Speculation.

The conference took place about six months before the bank failed, in the fall of 1929. The loan, or rather a series of loans, was made to Joseph Doerslinger, who used the money to speculate in the hide and leather market. Doeslinger still owes the bank about $50,000 on the account, prosecutors said.

Doerslinger received his first loan in the fall of 1928, and gave as security warehouse receipts for the hides he purchased. Todd found that these receipts were not negotiable, making it impossible for the bank to sell the hides immediately if it desired, and reported to Jarema, he testified. Jarema replied, he said, "You know nothing of the hide business. Let me handle this."

Later, he said, he attempted to balance the hide receipts against the loans to Doerslinger, but found the account in so jumbled a state that it was impossible to do so. As a result, about May 1, 1929, he and Jarema went to the stockyards, where the hides were stored in a warehouse of Armour & Co.

Find Security Insufficient.

The warehouse officials, because the receipts which the bank held were not negotiable, first refused to let him and Jarema inspect the hides, but later admitted them to the warehouse. He and Jarema counted the bundles of hides, and found that they were not sufficient to secure the loans, Todd said. Then they went to an Evanston hospital where Doerslinger was then a patient, and asked him about it.

"Jarema said to me," testified Todd. "'Now, I have known Mr. Doerslinger for a long time. If you will leave the room for a few minutes, I think we can straighten this out'."

The courtroom was quiet as he spoke. Jarema arose beside the table at which he was seated. He appeared cool.

"That's a lie," he shouted, pounding the table.

Judge Allegretti glared at him and said, "Mr. Bailiff, take this man into custody."

Jarema was led out, and the jury was excused.

"A thing of this kind is done for only two reasons," said the judge to counsel in the case. "One cause is outraged, righteous indignation. The second is a deliberate attempt to influence the jury and intimidate the witness. This defendant has had experience in court. He struck me as being the coolest of all the defendants, a cooler man even than some of the defense attorneys. Here is a witness who is not interested in the outcome of the case, who is an experienced banker. His disinterest places more weight on his testimony. The only conclusion that I can come to is that Jarema probably was sunk by his testimony. By this action he has injured his own chances. The jurors are only human. They will make their own conclusions."

Told He Hurts Own Case.

Jarema was led back into the courtroom and Judge Allegretti said to him, before the jury returned:

"You have hurt your own chances and those of all the other defendants. If you were not a defendant, I certainly would punish you, but I won't do it now because of possible effect on the jury."

Todd left the room at Jarema's request, he said when he resumed his testimony. On their way back to the bank, he said, he asked Jarema what Doerslinger had to say, and Jarema replied, "There must be an error somewhere." The conference in Miller's office followed, at which in addition to the witness, Jarema and Miller there were present Frank D. Robinson, vice president, who has pleaded guilty in the present trial and was a prosecution witness; Frank A. Bergen vice president, who got a separate trial and also testified for the prosecution; Castle, and an assistant cashier of the bank.

Judge Allegretti overruled objections to Todd's testimony on behalf of Seymour Stedman, former Socialist candidate for mayor and a vice president of the bank; Edwin G. Rellihen and William C. Hartray, all of whom are on trial, made on the grounds that they were not present at the conference.

HOOVER IS ANGRY AS CAMERAMAN TAKES PICTURE

Reno, Nev., April 3.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover was back in California tonight after an outing in Nevada which was enlivened by a tiff with a cameraman at Virginia City.

Disregarding the wishes of the former President, the photographer snapped a picture of Mr. Hoover as he signed the visitors' register in the Historic Crystal bar, now a museum famous for relics of the days when Virginia City was a booming silver camp.

Mr. Hoover strode angrily from the room, but calmed down later to thoroughly enjoy a motor ride through the high Sierras to Lake Tahoe, where he once camped as a youth while working with a party surveying the California-Nevada boundary line.

Earlier, he had gone by train from Reno to the state capital at Carson City, riding all the way in a rickety old wooden coach that saw service in the days when the Virginia and Truckee railroad was one of the most valuable lines in the country. At Carson Mr. Hoover climbed into the cab of the locomotive and rode the remainder of the way to Virginia City beside the engineer.

The Hoover party included Mrs. Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, former Representative Ruth Pratt of New York, and officials of the Virginia and Truckee railroad, which is owned by the Mills estate and was built in 1868 by the late D. O. Mills, grandfather of the former secretary of the treasury.

Fox About the Shoulders, $65

Lots of character, despite its youth! Schiaparelli showed us the value of wide shoulders. The fox is placed to leave a saucy flounce of the crepy woolen edging the separate cape. Navy and dawn blues, gray, sizes 12-20.

Fox on Wide Sleeves $65

Its shoulders are tucked, its woolen very crepy. Wide revers — that's Schiaparelli again. Navy and dawn blues, gray, tan, sizes 12 to 20.

Satin Is the New Way on Unfurred Coats, $50

Strips of satin inset in the sleeve—it's a Vionnet idea to make the coat distinctive. And it is topped with a big satin bow. A pace-maker, we predict. Black. 36 to 44.

Separate Cape of Galyak on a New Coat at $65

Wear it now with the fur cape, and later without—it is as smart either way. Tucks give the sleeves a modified fullness. Black crepy woolen, in sizes 36 to 44.

WINN TICKET IS WINNER IN TURF GROUP ELECTION

Association Names 8 New Directors.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There wasn't even a ripple of excitement when the stockholders of the American Turf association gathered for their annual election of officers in the Congress Bank building yesterday.

Col. Matt J. Winn was reelected president, Stuyvesant Peabody, vice president, and Maurice Galvin secretary-treasurer. Johnson N. Camden of Versailles, Ky., was named chairman of the board of directors.

The entire Winn ticket won without opposition. There were 324,434 shares of stock of the corporation out of a total of 396,132 shares represented in person or by proxy. The fight against the Winn administration which threatened to cut off a few official heads two weeks ago did not find anybody even with his coat off ready to do any scrapping.

The 85,966 shares of stock purchased from the receiver for the National Bank of Kentucky a week ago, wasn't even voted. It goes into the treasury of the association, it was announced, "for the benefit of all the stockholders, and will reduce the capital stock to the amount of that many shares."

Eight New Directors.

The number of members of the board of directors to serve during the ensuing year was fixed at seventeen. This made it necessary to elect eight new members. The new directors selected were Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state of Illinois; Charles S. Ellis of Chicago, Charles W. Bidwill of Chicago, Bruce A. Campbell of East St. Louis, Walter H. Girdler, Henry O. Gray, Sam Stone, and Donald Mc Donald, all of Louisville.

The holdover directors are Col. Winn, Johnson N. Camden, Henning Chambers, Arthur B. Hancock, Lawrence Jones, Stuyvesant Peabody John T. Connery, C. Bruce Head and Maurice Galvin.

Disgruntled stockholders had threatened to overthrow the Winn management of the tracks owned by the American Turf association—Washington Park, Lincoln Fields, Churchill Downs, and Latonia—some time ago. They charged waste and extravagance to the association administration, but did not appear at the stockholders' meeting to offer proof of their allegations.

Reveals Loss of Business.

In a statement to the stockholders President Winn revealed how the general economic depression had made inroads into horse racing.

"The collapse of general business in the fall of 1929 and the continued decrease since that time has seriously affected this company," Winn said.

"The loss of business in 1931 and 1932 was much larger than in 1930 This falling off was met by a decrease in operating expenses for three years of approximately 31 per cent, making a total reduction in operating expenses for the years 1931 and 1932 compared with the year of 1930 of $1,297,738.

Asks New Economies.

"Salaries of all executive officers were reduced 40 per cent in 1932 and reductions of all other salaries and expenses were made in smaller percentages. For 1933 I recommend that reductions be made in all operating costs, the compensation of the executive officers reduced an additional 20 per cent, and all other officers and employés be reduced 15 per cent.

"Stakes and purses will be reduced to meet existing conditions."

Explaining the purchase of the stock bought from A. M. Anderson, receiver for the National Bank of Kentucky, Winn said, "The money was taken from the reserve set aside for depreciation. This reserve could not be used to pay dividends, but was available only for making investments, and the board of directors believed that the purchase of shares of the company was the best and safest investment that could be made."

Gives Financial Report.

Then the president of the big turf organization which annually stages the Kentucky Derby, the American Derby, and other famous races gave the stockholders a financial report.

"Before the purchase of the stock from the receiver for the National Bank of Kentucky on March 1, 1933, your company and its subsidiaries were entirely out of debt and on that day had in cash and government securities and other quick assets $617,263. In addition it has on deposit in suspended banks $58,380."

Then he listed other assets of the company which were as follows:

All of the capital stock of Churchill Downs, Inc., which owns Churchill Downs and Douglas Park race tracks, in Louisville;

All of the capital stock of Latonia Jockey club in Covington, Ky.;

1,000 shares of the total of 2,250 shares of the common capital stock of the Kentucky association in Lexington.

All of the capital stock of the Washington Park Jockey club in Chicago;

All of the capital stock of the Lincoln Fields Jockey club in Will county, Ill.;

Approximately one-fifth, or 18,833 1-3 shares, of no par capital stock of the Chicago Business Men's Racing association, known as Hawthorne, Chicago;

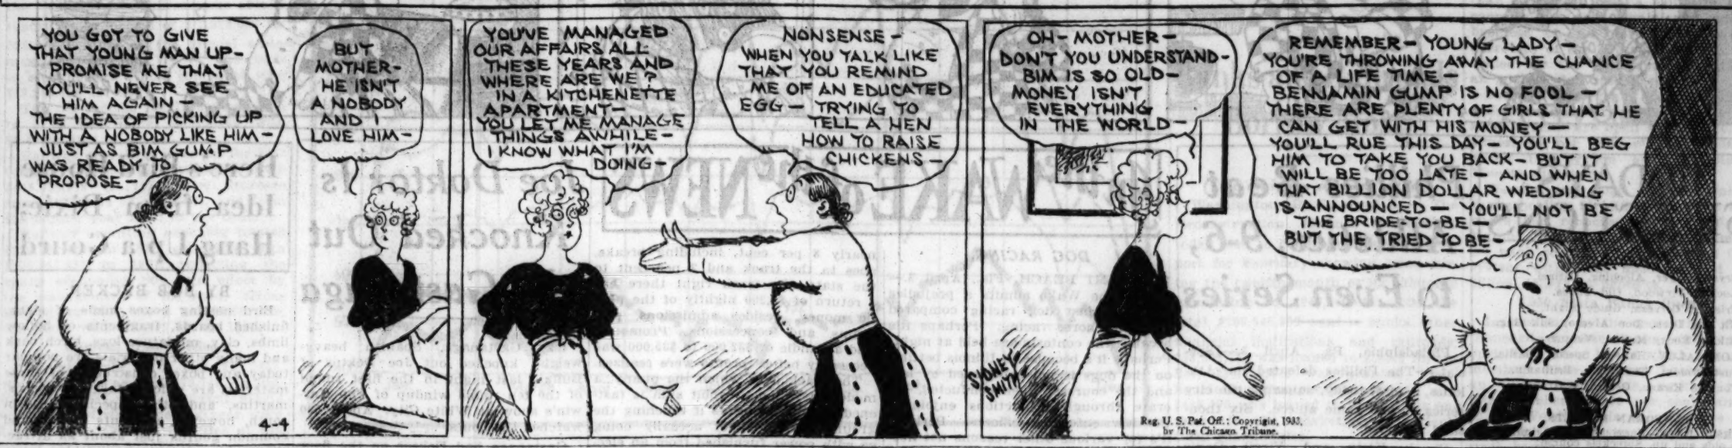
160 acres of land in East St. Louis.

Stocks and bonds in other corporations, the aggregate cost price of which was $48,800.

What will be the purse and stake values at Washington Park and Lincoln Fields? Winn was asked.

His reply was that it would all be determined within the next couple of days.

THE GUMPS—ALWAYS TAKE MOTHER'S ADVICE



YOU GOT TO GIVE THAT YOUNG MAN UP- PROMISE ME THAT YOU'LL NEVER SEE HIM AGAIN— THE IDEA OF PICKING UP WITH A NOBODY LIKE HIM— JUST AS BIM GUMP WAS READY TO PROPOSE—
BUT MOTHER— HE ISN'T A NOBODY AND I LOVE HIM—
YOU'VE MANAGED OUR AFFAIRS ALL THESE YEARS AND WHERE ARE WE? IN A KITCHENETTE APARTMENT— YOU LET ME MANAGE THINGS AWHILE— I KNOW WHAT I'M DOING—NONSENSE— WHEN YOU TALK LIKE THAT YOU REMIND ME OF AN EDUCATED EGG— TRYING TO TELL A HEN HOW TO RAISE CHICKENS—
OH— MOTHER— DON'T YOU UNDERSTAND— BIM IS SO OLD— MONEY ISN'T EVERYTHING IN THE WORLD—
REMEMBER— YOUNG LADY— YOU'RE THROWING AWAY THE CHANCE OF A LIFE TIME— BENJAMIN GUMP IS NO FOOL— THERE ARE PLENTY OF GIRLS THAT HE CAN GET WITH HIS MONEY— YOU'LL RUE THIS DAY— YOU'LL BEG HIM TO TAKE YOU BACK— BUT IT WILL BE TOO LATE— AND WHEN THAT BILLION DOLLAR WEDDING IS ANNOUNCED— YOU'LL NOT BE THE BRIDE-TO-BE— BUT THE TRIED TO BE—

Waitress Jilted by Carnera Awarded $21,000 Damages

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 3.—Letters of love that Primo Carnera sent to Emelia Tersini, 22 year old waitress, cost the giant Italian boxer $21,000 [at par] today in breach of promise damages.

There was no defense against the plaintiff's allegations that Primo promised the girl a home in Hollywood where she could meet all the movie stars, and a trip around the world as a honeymoon. Then, it was alleged, Carnera's affection cooled to such an extent that Miss Tersini, on following him to Berlin, was unable to get an interview. Justice Branson allowed the complaint and left the amount of damages to the jury.

Writes from United States.

Carnera and the girl became engaged in the fall of 1929, she said. Thereafter Carnera went to the United States for a year and sent her many letters promising marriage, according to the testimony.

"My Dearest Melia for Life:" began one letter read in court. "The day will come when we will no longer be separated. I don't think it's far distant. Have patience for another year and we'll be together for always."

In February, 1930, he wrote: "I won my second fight in America. You can live tranquilly because I will not have another girl but you. They are all aversion to me."

Still later he told her: "I am earning a lot of money and having tremendous success. One day I will be champion of the world. Have confidence in me for this cursed year will pass quickly."

Tells of Movie Dinners.

Carnera mentioned that he had bought land and 36 houses in Hollywood, adding: "All the great cinema stars have invited me to dinner. You will see my house which I am having made for us and then when we invited these artists I want them to say what a beautiful girl is Primo's wife."

When Carnera returned to Europe his mother objected to the girl and the engagement was broken, the testimony brought out.

His only representation at today's hearing was through a telegram sent to his solicitors from Italy after they had advised him of the suit: "Cannot be in London. Am recovering from an accident. Besides, I have not money enough. Let the case take its course. What can I do? Regards.

"PRIMO."

EXPERTS NAME YANKEES, PIRATES PENNANT WINNERS

New York, April 3.—(AP)—The seventh annual Associated Press "pennant poll," with an average of .500 to its credit since 1927, points today to the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates as the probable winners of the 1933 major league baseball races.

With the opening of the season barely a week off, four score experts vote the world champion Yankees a wide margin over all rivals, although noting especially the improvement of such clubs as the Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox. The same critics, however, figure the Pirates have added sufficient strength to overthrow the Chicago Cubs, particularly since the league champions lost Kiki Cuyler.

Sixty out of the seventy-nine American league ballots favor the Yankees to repeat and thereby claim their eighth pennant since 1921. A dozen name the Senators to spring an upset and at least take second place away from the Athletics.

Milwaukee Pair Bowls 1,415; New Record for A. B. C.

Columbus, O., April 3.—[Special.]—Gil Zunker and Frank Benkovic of Milwaukee, established an all time American Bowling congress doubles record today when they piled up 1,415 pins. Benkovic won the title last year, paired with Charley Dow, but was unable to roll with his old partner today, as an A. B. C. rule prohibits two men who are connected with bowling establishments from competing together

The former record was 1,380, rolled by Clarence and Harry Thoma at Chicago in 1924. Zunker had games of 258, 267, and 225 for 750, a new high three game total for the tourney. Benkovic backed him up with scores of 228, 234, and 203 to total 665. A 4-6 split in the tenth frame of the last game prevented the pair from soaring to a higher figure.

Benkovic counted 690 while he and Daw were winning the 1932 championship on games of 222, 243, and 225. Daw scored 214, 229, and 225 to total 668.

Zunker, veteran of seven A. B. C.'s, followed his 750 doubles score with a 712 singles count and set a new all time all events record. He scored 598 in the team event last night, giving him a nine game aggregate of 2,060.

The former all-event mark was 2,019, registered at the Milwaukee tourney in 1923 by Bill Knox of Philadelphia. Knox shot totals of 618, 686, and 715.

Babe Herman in Stride; Look Out, Pitchers

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Deming, N. M., April 3.—The high strung Cubs today beat the monotony of the great American desert by the simple process of staying in bed until noon. It was too hot to stay reclined later than that so the spirited athletes got up and ate and further soothed themselves with bridge and pinochle.

Little was said of baseball except that Babe Herman announced he is ready for the season to open. Herman struck out his first two times up in the final with the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, but he came back with a terrific homer in the eighth inning and a double in the ninth which was a big factor in the five run rally which tied the score.

Will Be Tough on Pitchers.

"My stride had been wrong for two weeks," said Mr. Herman in today's announcement. "I was not depressed, for I never have been in poor stride for more than two weeks, but just the same I was happy to see me become myself once more. I knew my stride had returned even when I struck out the second time. I will be very tough on pitchers from now on."

The Cubs will arrive at Kansas City early tomorrow night and on Wednesday will perform against Tris Speaker's Kansas City Blues in the first of a three game series. Burleigh Grimes has been designated as the starting pitcher. Pat Malone is scheduled to start in Thursday's game and Root in Friday's. This schedule indicates that Guy Bush will be the pitcher in the season's opener against the Cardinals at Wrigley field a week from tomorrow.

Cuyler Expert on Crutches.

Bush probably will pitch in the Cubs-White Sox game at Comiskey park Saturday, with Lon Warneke working the Sunday game between the same teams at Wrigley field.

The season opens on Wednesday this year, instead of Tuesday as per former custom, so Bush will have four days' rest before the first National league game.

Kiki Cuyler, injured outfield star, spent a cheerful day receiving callers in his stateroom. Ki was able to crutch it to the diner. Having had a broken foot last year, Ki is a slicker with a pair of crutches.

LEAFS CONQUER BRUINS, 1 TO 0, IN SIXTH OVERTIME

Doraty's Goal Breaks Up Record Battle.

TORONTO, Ont., April 4.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Boston Bruins, 1 to 0, in the sixth overtime period early today to win the National Hockey league championship and gain a place in the Stanley cup finals.

The game, breaking all records for endurance, was broken up by Ken Doraty's shot after the teams had battled through eight full 20 minute periods without a score.

At the end of the fifth overtime period they had played 160 minutes, as compared with the former record of 128 minutes 52 seconds, set by the Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers in the playoffs of 1930.

Take Brief Rest.

Real scoring opportunities were rare and when they came the rival goalies, Lorne Chabot of Toronto and Tiny Thompson of Boston, were equal to the occasion. Both turned in a number of brilliant saves just when it seemed the game-winning "break" had arrived.

Heximer Bids for Victory.

Heximer, used sparingly earlier in the game, started for Boston in the fifth overtime period and dashed speedily down the left wing for a shot, but Chabot saved. Jackson tore through with Conacher and the latter almost ended the game with a heavy backhander, but Thompson cleared nicely.

The Boston goalie made another great stop on Bailey's shot. Led by Shore and Oliver, the Bruins were dangerous for a while, but Chabot stopped all shots.

Lineups:

TORONTO [1].		BOSTON [0].
Chabot	G	Thompson
Day	R. D.	Smith
Clancy	L. D.	Shore
Bailey	C	Stewart
Cotton	R. W.	Ripley
Sands	L. W.	Lamb

DELAWARE GETS HORSE RACING; BETTING ILLEGAL

Dover, Del., April 3.—[Special.]—A bill to legalize and control horse racing in Delaware became a law automatically today after Gov. Buck had failed to sign or veto it.

The measure prohibits betting, which is a violation of the state constitution. However, a bill to amend the constitution so as to permit betting is pending.

The bill which became law today provides for the appointment of a commission of three members, which will have jurisdiction over all racing meets in the state. The members are to be appointed by the governor and they will receive remuneration of $1 a year.

IRISHMAN SPOTS A FELLOW CELT ON THE MIDWAY

Jimmy Twohig, 79 year old groundskeeper for the University of Chicago athletic department, yesterday took one look at the face of Clark Shaughnessy, new Maroon football coach, and observed trenchantly: "His name should have been O'Shaughnessy." Twohig went to work for the University of Chicago after his arrival from Ireland more than thirty years ago.

Lou Scozza Wins Decision Over Maxie Rosenbloom

Buffalo, N. Y., April 3.—(AP)—Maxie Rosenblom lost an unpopular decision to Lou Scozza, Buffalo light heavyweight, in ten rounds here tonight. Referee Goodrich and one judge voted for Scozza, the other judge for Rosenbloom. Rosenbloom's title was not in jeopardy, as he weighed 177½ and Scozza 174.

SPORT BALLYHOO TAKES ITS PLACE WITH LOST ARTS

Present Day Promoters Lack the Craft of Old Masters

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., April 3.—The art of ballyhoo, to which Tex Rickard made important contributions in his early days at Goldfield and in after years at Madison Square Garden, is in need of fresh genius as far as the prize fight racket is concerned. At this time there are only two heavyweight matches in sight, one of them a repetition of the Sharkey-Carnera duet, the other involving Max Schmeling and Max Baer.

In neither case, however, is the ballyhoo up to the old standard, consisting, as it does, almost entirely of long-range newspaper scowling and belittlement between the Garden corporation, which owns the one bout, and Jack Dempsey, who owns the other or purports to own it. Probably Dempsey does not actually own the Schmeling-Baer fight, as the promotion of a heavyweight spectacle of any dimensions usually involves the outlay of a considerable sum of cash money.

Mr. Dempsey's record indicates that he is very bashful with his cash money. He has often appeared in the rôle of promoter, but he has generally had some one to hold the bag for him, either openly or secretly. In the present case it appears that Mr. Tim Mara, the retired bookmaker who owns the New York football Giants, is either holding the bag or helping Dempsey to hold it, as they are talking of dropping the bout into one of the New York baseball parks. Mr. Mara owns the prize fight privileges for these premises.

At any rate, the ballyhoo for the two heavyweight prize fights has shown little imagination and the customers probably will derive no inspiration from a battle of rival promoters doing business through lawyers and politicians. If it were possible to arouse them by such means then the courts of law would be crowded every day with lawsuit fans cheering the Ajax Sash, Door and Frame associates, Inc., to the echo in their titanic encounter with counsel for the Eureka Nail, Shingle and Lath affiliates, Inc., over a matter of breach of contract, and vice versa.

It seems to me that the baseball industry has neglected the art of ballyhoo also, and relies too much on natural hereditary customer interest.

The players are forbidden to squabble or fight and moreover they do not wish to squabble or fight because they are not so much rivals as colleagues nowadays and see no sense in fighting for employers who may trade them away to the opposition tomorrow.

The Florida ballyhoo has been strangely improved this year and the season along the pleasure coast has defied the panic with another boom.

There was some slight prejudice against some of the Florida resorts to begin with this year, but for the first time since the old real estate boom began the business men were pursuaded to regard the customers as customers, not victims, and to keep this in mind throughout the season. The result was that more people went fishing in the Florida lakes and off shore waters, which are the most abundantly stocked fishing waters in the country, than ever tried this sport before, and there was also an astonishing rush of players to golf courses which had seemed doomed to weeds.

Moreover, the two race tracks defied the economic condition of the country and Miami made a substantial net profit on the industry of frivolity and play at a time when you might have thought that Americans would never again be in a mood for luxury and nonsense.

To have shaken the American customer loose from many millions of dollars of pleasure money this winter is one of the greatest feats of ballyhoo ever scored and I understand that one mimeograph machine was more responsible for it than any other single factor, but the prize fight racket missed the tide entirely, for with all this business waiting to be victimized over again by some pair of shy and diffident heavyweights, nobody had the enterprise to seize the opportunity.

Of course, this was a decided break for the customers. It undoubtedly contributed something to the good time which was had by all.

ONE BAD INNING WRECKS HOPES OF CHICAGOANS

Mule Haas Collects Four Hits.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tucson, Ariz., April 3.—The White Sox started off in a gay old way against the Pittsburgh Pirates today, but it was just a flash. The Chicagoans presented their star pitcher, Ted Lyons, with four runs in the first inning, and for a time the advantage seemed sufficient. But Lyons ran into a torrent of hits in the sixth and enough happened right there to assure the Pirates of a 9 to 6 victory before a surprising turnout of 5,000 sun-baked natives.

All that was wrong with Lyons was that he grew weary. For five innings he pitched so well that the National leaguers made only four hits. However, they made such good use of these few hits that three runs were produced. Some shaky fielding also helped. But no Sox errors were needed by the Pirates once they made up their minds to get going in the sixth. Passes started them, and a blast of one single and four successive two-baggers followed before Lyons could complete the inning as well as his labors for the day.

Appling Still Shaky.

The return of Luke Appling to shortstop after a short sentence to the Sox dugout on a charge of eccentric fielding didn't develop anything startling. The young man was charged with only one error, a bad throw which gave the Pirates a run in the first inning, but he encountered trouble on numerous other occasions.

The Sox lost no time in going after Steve Swetonic. Hayes opened the afternoon's work with an infield single and went to third on Haas' single to right. Hayes scored while Haas was being forced at second on Fonseca's tap to Traynor. Simmons hit a bounding triple through short to score Fonseca. After Appling had walked Kress singled to left, scoring Simmons and putting Appling on third. Appling came home on Dykes' fly to right. Grube then contributed a single, but the rally went no further.

A run for the Pirates in their opening half was due to the liberality of the Chicagoans. With one out Lindstrom beat out a hit to short and took second on Appling's hurried low throw. P. Waner did nothing, but Traynor singled to left to score Lindstrom. Fonseca permitted Suhr's grounder to drift through his hands, Traynor taking third, but Lyons put an end to the activity by getting Vaughan on a pop foul.

Pirates Get Two in Third.

The Pirates stepped on Lyons for a few base hits and two runs in the third. P. Waner walked. Traynor hammered a low liner into the right field corner and because of ground rules was restricted to two bases. P. Waner was forced to halt at third. Then Suhr singled to right, putting the two runners across the plate.

Wildness on Lyons' part started the rumpus that grew into six runs for the National leaguers in the sixth. Ted walked Traynor and Suhr, the first pair to face him. Vaughan tried to sacrifice, but Lyons picked up the ball and threw it to third to force Traynor. Piet's scratch single filled the bases. Grube sprinted to the stand to grab Grace's foul. All that Lyons had to do was to get Swetonic, but the Pirate pitcher doubled, driving in three runs. Two baggers by Jensen, Lindstrom, and P. Waner followed to score the three remaining runs.

Double Play Stops Rally.

The Sox made three hits off Larry French in the eighth, but scored only one run. Kress led off with a bounding single over the pitcher's head. Dykes scratched a hit through second, and Kress went to third. He scored on Grube's fly to center. Then Berry batted for Frasier and shot a single into left, but Hayes grounded to short for an easy double play. Another Sox run was scored in the ninth on Haas' double and a single by Simmons, but it didn't mean anything.

The big league tourists moved on tonight to El Paso, Tex., where they play tomorrow. Ed Durham will be the Sox's starting pitcher and the veteran Kramer will work for the Pirates if the weather is hot.

MAROONS LEARN SHAUGHNESSY IS MAN OF ACTION

Clark Shaughnessy, the man picked to lead the Maroons to bigger as well as better things, yesterday stepped quietly but firmly into A. A. Stagg's shoes as University of Chicago football coach.

Summoning 43 aspirants to next year's squad into an executive session in the Midway fieldhouse for the first day of spring practice, Shaughnessy proceeded with startling rapidity to lay out the lines along which future teams will be developed.

Invites Players' Confidence.

"This is a fairly large squad," he began, "but not large for a school as big as Chicago. The first thing I want to tell all of you is that I'm your friend. I've picked up quite a few things during 23 years of football. One of them is that football teams are made off the field as much as they are on it. I'm no person to be afraid of. Anything in the world I can do for any of you I'll do gladly. Come to me first with your problems. My address is room 404, Windermere hotel. I mean it."

After the squad had voted to practice five days a week, from 3:45 p. m. to 5:45, for the coming six weeks, Shaugnessy went on. "It's customary to talk about loyalty and all that. I'll do it simply by saying that anybody who isn't loyal isn't worth bothering with. I won't interfere with anybody who doesn't keep training. I won't drop anybody from the squad. But those who do not keep training are likely to be surprised to find themselves assigned to jobs they will do badly."

They're Out to Win.

"We're out here to win. I want you to get that in your heads and get it in to stay. We're going to take our licknings, but we won't admit them till after they're over. We're going to pick out a style of play that's flexible, that has variety, speed, and deception, and we're going to depend on it against superior bulk. We won't have a set system. Results will be the measure of the method.

"Let me give you a vital tip. If you can do one thing better than any one else on the squad you can't be kept off the team. My tendency is toward specialization. If every one does his specialty in the right way at the right time we won't need a brilliant all around team. We can always win. We're going to put great emphasis on kicking, for one thing, both offensively and defensively. It's 25 per cent of the game.

"And the poor devils who are quarter backs on my teams are in for a hard time. We're going to spend a lot of time on field generalship. I won't have a mechanical quarter back. I want a man who knows what to do at every time and every place. And he must be liked and respected by the whole team."

What's in a Name?

The conventional nomenclature for team positions will largely be dispensed with, Shaughnessy said, since the terms center, tackle, full back, etc., no longer are relevant to the duties of the men. The key man in the line, "a heavy fellow who knows how to drive," will be called the "pivot man," playing the equivalent of a tackle position. He will be flanked by a heavy guard. One of the guards will be chosen for his speed, and the other tackle must be both heavy and fast. The center will be called the "ball snapper," because he won't necessarily be in the center. One of the two ends "will actually be a fifth backfield man."

The backfield, ideally, will contain the field general, a half back who is a specialist in broken field running and passing, a plunger and a blocker. "Of course, these men will interchange duties to an extent," Shaughnessy said, "but I have yet to see a good plunger who was also a good broken field runner. The temperament is different."

HARRY J. HARRIS IS NEW GOLFING PRO AT ELMHURST

Harry J. Harris, a professional for several years at the Green Valley Country club near Wheaton, will become the pro at the Elmhurst club. At one time he was associated with the earl of Dudley, lord lieutenant of Ireland, as a golf professional. Previous to that he was a pro for the Willingdon club at East Brighton, England.

A survey of the new golf clubs, new balls, and gadgets to be displayed in the golf manufacturers' spring show, opening tomorrow in the Lytton building, 14 East Jackson street, reveals that the thirty makers exhibiting have been busy during the winter thinking up new ways to trim golf scores.

Golf balls this year guarantee all the advantages of the old liquid center sphere with none of its disadvantages. Rubber, the manufacturers declare, shrinks when frozen and a rubber composition, properly frozen and wound while concealed, produces a more tightly wound ball of the required weight. The more tightly wound ball is expected to add yards to drives.

Sutter Defeats Pease in Houston Tennis Tourney

Houston, Tex., April 3.—(AP)—Cliff Sutter of New Orleans downed Gordon Pease, University of Texas sophomore, in the feature first round match of the Houston tennis invitation meet at River Oak Country club today. The scores were 6-1, 4-6, 6-1. Other first round men's singles results:

Spectator Claims Injury; Asks $50,000 from Cubs

William Showers, 925 Montrose avenue, pugilist, yesterday filed the praecipe of a $50,000 damage suit against the Chicago National league Baseball club. The suit was filed in the Superior court. Attorneys representing Showers stated that he was injured on Aug. 30, 1932, when he was struck on the head by a baseball which had been fouled into the stands at Cubs' park.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—Jack Kearns, fight manager and proud father of an eight pound son, said today the boy would be named Jack Jr. The baby was born to the former Miss Lillian Kansler of Louisville, Ky., here Friday. Mrs. Kearns, who is 23, is the daughter of Mrs. Ruby Mullins of Springfield, Ill.

Phillies Beat Athletics, 9-6, to Even Series

Philadelphia, Pa., April 3.—[Special.]—The Phillies defeated the Athletics, 9 to 6, today, squaring the city series at one game apiece. Six thousand attended.

Chuck Klein and Virgil Davis knocked home runs off Leroy Mahaffey. Bartell, Whitney, and Dugas made two base hits. It was the Athletics' rookie outfielder, Bob Johnson, however, who cornered the day's batting honors with a home run, a double, and a single in three trips to the plate.

DODGERS RAINED OUT.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 3. —[Special.]—Rain today deprived the Dodgers of a chance for an even break on their scheduled exhibition series with the Browns. A dismal drizzle at 11 o'clock became a downpour before 1 o'clock and no attempt was made to hold the contest. Max Carey entrained his squad at 7:25 tonight for Richmond, Va., where it will arrive shortly before noon tomorrow for a single game with the Boston Braves.

GIANTS, 10; CHICKS, 2.

Memphis, Tenn., April 3.—(AP)—While Carl Hubbell and Bill Shores were spacing the Memphis Chicks' six hits over as many innings, the New York Giants pounded three pitchers for a 10 to 2 decision today. Bill Terry's home town friends, turning out to honor the Giants' manager, saw the major leaguers connect with seven doubles and nine singles. Score:

REDS BEAT ATLANTA, 6-3.

Atlanta, Ga., April 3.—(AP)—Cincinnati's Reds found Atlanta of the Southern association comparatively easy today and won, 6 to 3. Atlanta collected three runs off Bob Smith in the first three innings, but the new pitcher tightened from then on to the sixth, when Eppa Rixey went onto the mound to finish the game with shutout pitching. Score:

Cincinnati [N.] .....103 000 200—6 11 0
Atlanta [S. A.].....102 000 000—3 10 1

CARDINALS, 18; MERIDIANS, 3.

Columbus, Miss., April 3.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Meridian team, 18 to 3, in an exhibition game today. Pepper Martin, back at third base, for part of the game, collected a hit on each of his two trips to bat. Only one error, by Medwick, left fielder, was charged to the Cardinals.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

DOG RACING.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 3.—The Wake admits a prejudice against dog racing compared to horse racing. Perhaps it's because the contests are held at night. Perhaps it's because in Illinois betting on the dogs is not sanctioned by law and the courses, when conducted, operate through injunctions enjoining the law enforcing officers. Perhaps it's for various other reasons not necessary to name.

Yet, it always has been somewhat difficult for us to answer inquirers why betting on the dogs, in theory, was worse than betting on the horses. We can establish a differentiation in our own mind which is satisfactory, but to explain that differentiation to others is almost impossible on theory alone.

Of course, one purpose of the sport of kings is to improve the breed of thoroughbreds for cavalry remounts. If you don't think so, you may read it in preambles to the rules of nearly all incorporated racing associations. But the dog lover may inquire, "What is the objection to improving the breed of 'man's best friend'?" And as a matter of fact, what is the objection—unless all betting is objectionable.

With fixed convictions it is intriguing to hear the arguments of dog proponents here, where dog racing enjoys the same legal status as horse racing and the same rules for state tax or "take" from the mutuels and admissions.

These gentlemen tell you, whether they believe it or not, that dog racing is more honest than horse racing, that form is nearly as consistent, and that it's a great sport entitled to public support and respect.

Two dog tracks have been operating here this winter. Combined patronage has been nearly equal to that at Hialeah and Tropical Park. Admission charge is much lower, although the horse tracks, to stimulate trade, issued an unusually large per cent of Annie Oakleys this season. At one dog track the admission fee is only 20 cents, including tax, with two free ladies' nights a week. Obviously, the operating expenses and profits are derived from the pari-mutuel take.

At the track we investigated, we were told the average nightly handle for the season was nearly $40,000. That is materially less than the horse tracks but original construction, maintenance and daily expenses are only a fraction as much. Purses, for instance, for a card of 10 races nightly, average about $1,000. If we accept an average handle of $40,000, of which nearly 8 per cent, including breaks, goes to the track and 3 per cent to the state, the track right there has a return of $3,200 nightly of the public money, besides admissions, programs and concessions. Promoters said a handle of $32,000 to $35,000 was necessary before profits were realized.

The track over which the bunny, a model on which a rabbit skin is fastened, bounds along as if touching the ground although not actually doing so with power furnished from an electrically charged rail with arm which Bunny is attached extending over the track, is 5-16 mile in circumference. Races are at distances of ¼ to 5-16ths with an occasional 3 furlong route.

As the rabbit whizzes past the starting point, the greyhounds are released from their boxes and start in pursuit. After the finish they are stopped by a huge blanket across the track while the rabbit goes on to "safety." Although the greyhounds look to be traveling at incredibable speed, they really move about two seconds slower than a horse for the quarter mile distance.

Dogs in these races are muzzled. We're told it's to keep them from fighting during a race. One wore blinkers, the rogue's badge at the horse track. The paddock judge told us that was to prevent him from seeing dogs running at his side and trying to nip them, even with his muzzle on, thus destroying his own chances.

After the finish, there are no disqualifications for interference or bumping which are not infrequent as the dogs battle for positions on the turns.

What surprised us were tip sheets and a daily racing form just like for the horses. We studied the form sheet but couldn't arrive at any form. We noted, however, the track handicapper picked about as many winners as at the horses, although he often named a dog we didn't think had a chance on past performance. So probably there's more to this dog racing than a novice understands.

As a rule, odds against favorites are higher than against favorites at horse tracks, but seldom do long shots pay the price of long shots at the horse ovals. Perhaps that is because of more diversified betting, as the risk of interference with a favorite, or racing luck, is greater with the canines.

To those who inquire whether these are greyhounds or whippets, they are greyhounds, ranging in weight from 47 to 70 pounds. Whippets, we are told, seldom weigh more than 45 pounds.

WILSON GETS DECISION.

Maroon Poloists Face Riding Club Team Tomorrow

The University of Chicago polo trio, Big Ten champion, wound up preparations yesterday for its match tomorrow night with the class D team of the Chicago Riding club at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street.

These teams will meet in a semi-final round for the western indoor class D championship, the winner going to the finals with the 124th Field Artillery. With Edgar Friedheim at No. 1, Bruce Benson at No. 2, and Burton Doherty at No. 3, the Maroons will face the Riding club combination of Bill Collins at No. 1, George Bates at No. 2, and John Bowers at No. 3.

Tomorrow night's feature match will bring together the Chicago Riding club's first team, led by Capt. Maxwell M. Corpening, and the 124th Field Artillery captained by Maj. Richard G. Hunter. A shift in the Riding club lineup will bring into play Lieut. Larry Smith. Prentice Porter, former Yale star, will complete the team. This 17-goal combination will be Chicago's highest handicapped entry in the coming national championship meet here.

Loyaza Wins 10 Round Decision Over Shapiro

Joe Doktor Is Knocked Out by Gastanaga

Gastanaga had Doktor on the floor for a nine count before the round was a minute old. As he arose, Gastanaga sent him to the canvas again with a left to the body and Referee McNamara counted him out. Gastanaga weighed 195 pounds and Doktor five pounds less.

In the semi-windup, Kid Irish defeated Sammy Levine, former Golden Gloves boxer, in six rounds. They are featherweights. In the other six rounder, Bobby O'Hara of Georgia handed Micky O'Shea a good beating.

Lou Vines was given a five round verdict over Danny Neenan while Johnny Terry and Izzy Lubansky went four rounds to a draw. Laddie Tonelli knocked out Nate Hassen in the third round in the four round opening bout.

Barney Ross, local lightweight, is booked to make his next appearance at Davenport, Ia., April 20 . . . A bout between Dick Daniels and Patsy Perroni is being arranged at Cleveland, O., April 19. . . . Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, will be idle for two weeks more because of the rib injury he sustained during a workout three weeks ago. . . . Felix Kolk, Chicago boxing instructor, has been appointed manager of George Trafton's gymnasium at 180 West Randolph street.

The Medinah Michigan Avenue club and the 40 and 8 society of the American Legion will sponsor an amateur show at the Medinah club Friday night. Proceeds are to be used to maintain the 40 and 8 convalescent center at Orland. Among those who have been invited to attend are: Joe Triner, Illinois athletic commission chairman; Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Charles S. Dewey, Cyrus McCormick, Col A. A. Sprague, Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman, George W. Rosseter, Frank B. Flannery and William A. Schlupp.

Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, is to return to Chicago from an invasion of the Pacific coast the latter part of this month. After his contest with Cecil Payne, Louisville lightweight, at Los Angeles tonight, Miller is scheduled to box at Portland, Ore., next Tuesday and at Seattle, Wash., April 18.

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday approved Joe Coffey's application for permission to present wrestling shows at the Rainbo Fronton on April 17 and May 19. Doc Krone is to offer wrestling cards at the Broadway armory on April 20 and 27. Dr. Thomas Dwyer, chief physician of the Chicago Tribune Athletic association, was granted a physician's license by the commission. Frankie Sykora, former boxer, was given a referee's license. Dave Miller's application for a referee's license was held in abeyance until next week.

Loyaza Wins 10 Round Decision Over Shapiro

Here's Bird House Idea from Dixie; Hang Up a Gourd

BY BOB BECKER.

Bird nesting boxes made of slabs, finished boards, fragments of hollow limbs, clay, miniature logs, birch bark and many other materials are popular today and boxes constructed of these materials are quickly taken by wrens, martins, and other species. Down south, however, residents have found common gourds just about as attractive and serviceable as anything when it comes to providing free apartments for bird neighbors.

When we were on a hunting trip near Radium Springs, Ga., a few months ago we saw hundreds of gourds being used for bird houses. Driving across country past the peanut and cotton plantations you soon became conscious of the way the Georgia colored people have gone in for gourd bird houses because nearly every little unpainted cabin had one or more unpainted gourds fastened to a "T" shaped structure in the back yard.

We bought a couple of these gourds from our colored mule driver who piloted us over the Donaldson plantation. Within a few days we are going to put them out to see if the north shore wrens (due around the first of May) will not accept a rent free lease on them. Unfortunately, the two which we brought back from Georgia have entrance holes large enough for martins and bluebirds. Therefore, we will have to watch them closely to see that the pesky English sparrows do not take them over.

Down south they put out 6 to 12 of these gourds for a colony of martins. However, in the middle west we haven't seen a single gourd used for a nesting box, although some bird fans insist that the nearest thing to a sure fire martin house is just an ordinary, round, short necked gourd with an entrance hole in it.

T. S., a Chicago bird fan, insists that the purple martin goes for a gourd house because the bird prefers a round or globular nesting unit to a square one. Most of the compartments in martin houses erected today are square because the square or oblong house containing many rooms is extremely popular.

In case it is possible to secure some large gourds for martin houses, bird fans should make the entrance holes 2½ inches in diameter and 1 or 2 inches above the base of the cavity.

Arizmendi Denies Girl's Charges in $50,000 Suit

Los Angeles, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—Alberto [Baby] Arizmendi, Mexican bantamweight boxer, denied on the witness stand today he ever had made love to Miss Frances Armenta, 17, who is suing him for $50,000. She alleges he betrayed her on a promise of marriage and is the father of her 6 week old baby. The boxer testified he knew the girl and had visited her in her home, but always in the presence of others. He said he never went out with her alone.

Chile Eliminates Uruguay in Davis Cup Play, 3-0

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, April 3. —Chile eliminated Uruguay from further South American zone Davis cup tennis competition yesterday, three victories to none. The Chilean team of Schonherr and Deik defeated Stanhan and Dasilva in doubles, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4. Chile also won the first two singles matches yesterday.

STANDARD OIL, INDIANA, SHOWS PROFITS STEADY

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana earned net profit of 16½ million dollars last year, only one million less than in 1931, according to a preliminary report made yesterday by Edward G. Seubert. Profit in 1931 was $17,596,000.

E. G. SEUBERT. [Blank & Stoller Photo.]

The 1932 profit is equivalent to $1.03 against $1.04 a share in 1931. There were 15,941,894 shares out on Dec. 31 as compared with 16,908,543 a year earlier.

Dividends of $1 a share were paid by the company in 1932. Total dividends of $16,689,277 were paid by the company and its subsidiaries.

Explains Earnings.

Mr. Seubert said that the 1932 earnings showing was achieved largely from basic operations, from investments and through economy. Gasoline marketing conditions, he added, were generally adverse.

Final earnings figures and the Dec. 31 balance sheet will be made public at the annual stockholders' meeting May 4.

"The profit estimated for 1932," Mr. Seubert's statement said, "is after consolidation of Standard of Indiana's share of the earnings of subsidiary and associated companies with those of the parent company. The principal subsidiaries are the Pan American Petroleum and Transport company, Stanolind Oil and Gas company, Stanolind Pipe Line company, and Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company.

Sell Foreign Properties.

"The status of Pan American was materially changed in May, 1931, through the sale of its foreign properties. Midwest Refining company, formerly an important subsidiary, was practically consolidated through the sale of its assets to the parent company and other subsidiaries.

"The profit figures for 1932 are also after depreciation, depletion, amortization, inventory adjustment, and federal income and foreign taxes."

DEPOSITORS ASK OUSTER OF OHIO BANK OFFICIALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 3.—Immediate removal of Ira J. Fulton, state superintendent of banking, and his superior officer, Theodore H. Tangeman, state director of commerce, was demanded by the depositors' association here today as the Guardian Trust company prepared to submit reorganization plans to the Reconstruction Finance corporation in Washington tomorrow.

A fact finding committee of the association declared that a complete and detailed investigation of the banking department was necessary because of "its failure to disclose and report the condition of the banks as we now find them."

Harold H. Burton, president of the Guardian, said his bank would ask the R. F. C. to match dollars in providing capital for the new national bank and to grant an additional loan.

NATIONAL GRAIN PLANS PLANT ON NEW WATERWAY

A truck-to-barge grain handling plant is to be opened on the Illinois river at Peoria by the Farmers' National Grain corporation, subsidiary of the federal farm board, according to an announcement yesterday by C. E. Huff, president of the corporation. Its purpose is to utilize the newly completed Illinois waterway. The first unit of the Peoria plant is to cost about $50,000 and will have a daily capacity of 100,000 bushels.

Pennsylvania Reports Net of 13 Millions

Although its income has fallen off sharply along with other railways, the Pennsylvania railroad was able to report a net income of $13,573,536 for 1932, according to the annual statement of President W. W. Atterbury to stockholders. This compared with $19,545,194 for 1931.

The net income for 1932 was equal to $1.03 per share, compared with $1.49 in 1931.

Railway operating revenues for 1932 totaled $331,393,457, compared with $448,090,279 in 1931. The decrease from 1931 was 26 per cent, and from the banner year 1929, 52 per cent.

Railway operating expenses totaled $282,261,419 for 1932, compared with $352,865,931 in 1931, reflecting the sharp economies put into effect by the management of the road. Gross income for 1932 stood at $95,731,429, compared with $99,092,142 in 1931.

Current Assets Rise.

Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1932, were reported as $105,379,747, including $31,140,798 cash. Current assets at the end of the preceding year were $100,649,614. Current liabilities at the end of 1932 were $52,775,731, compared with $55,246,316 at the end of 1931.

Out of its 1932 net income the Pennsylvania paid a dividend on March 15 of this year, making the 199th consecutive dividend paid by the road.

"The results of the company, while not satisfactory, continue to compare favorably with those attained by other roads," Gen. Atterbury stated.

The report discussed the efforts of the road to coördinate rail and motor transportation to meet competition from motor trucks. During the year store door collection and delivery of less than carload freight was established experimentally at a number of points and will be extended as conditions warrant.

Electrify Road in East.

Work was continued during the year upon the extensive program of improvements of the road, but on a reduced scale. Electrification was completed between New York and Philadelphia which, with work previously finished, enable the electric operation of trains between New York and Wilmington, Del. The road now has 392 miles of line and 1,287 miles of track electrified.

During the year fifty-two electric passenger locomotives and two electric freight locomotives were placed in service. They will form a part of the equipment to be used when the New York-Washington electrification is completed.

The road obtained a loan of $27,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to assist in carrying on the improvements. Arrangements have been made for an additional loan of $2,000,000 for the construction of 1,285 improved type steel box cars which are now being built.

What It Did in Chicago.

In its summary of improvements by districts, the statement includes the following report on Chicago:

"Track elevation work was continued during the year, and all grade crossings on the line of the Englewood Connecting railroad have now been completed with the exception of Hoyne avenue. The new United States postoffice, over the tracks of the Chicago Union station, has been completed and is now in use by the postoffice department, and the government is removing the old parcel post building, which will be reconstructed."

SMALLEST WHEAT CROP SINCE 1904 PREDICTED BY GRAIN EXPERTS

A winter wheat crop of 371,000,000 bushels, the smallest since 1904 when the harvest was only 325,000,000 bushels, as indicated by the average of the private estimates issued yesterday. Condition averages 61.1, the lowest on record, while 24 per cent of the winter wheat acreage seeded last fall was estimated as having been abandoned, leaving 30,300,000 acres for harvest.

Condition of winter wheat in the states of largest production is extremely low. B. W. Snow made the aggregate condition in Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Colorado, Washington, and Oregon only 45. N. C. Murray placed the aggregate yield in the 5 southwestern states at 153,000,000 bushels, against 209,000,000 bushels in 1932.

R. O. Cromwell estimated abandoned acreage in Kansas at 40 per cent; Nebraska, 23 per cent; Oklahoma and Texas at 22 per cent, and Colorado at 65 per cent. Snow said the crop for the country was below 400,000,000 bushels, but made no estimate on abandoned acreage. Details follow:

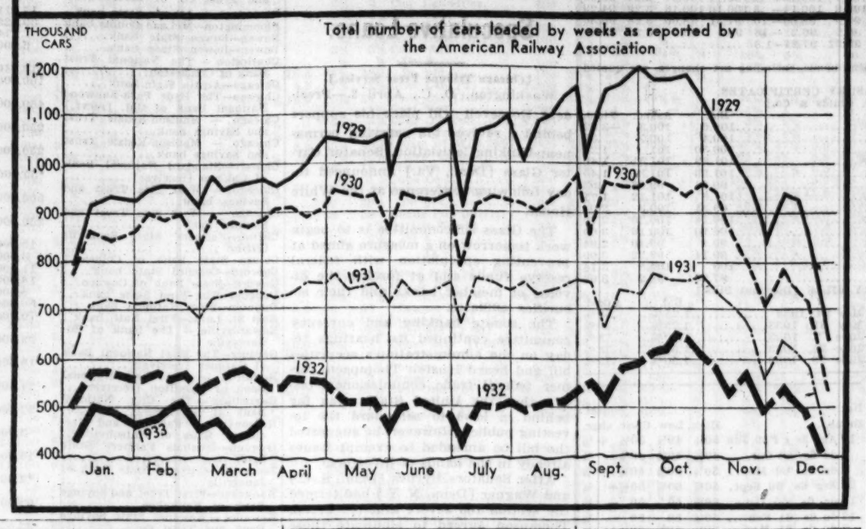
FREIGHT CAR LOADINGS FOR 5 YEARS COMPARED



Income Tax Under 1932 at Deadline

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—With the last minute rush of income tax payments still unrecorded, the treasury admitted today that through March 31 collections under the new high tax rates had brought in less than collections last year under the old rates.

Experts expect, however, that when the collections which swamped internal revenue collectors on the last days are recorded, the yield for this year will be higher than that of last year. Actual collections are not recorded on the treasury's statement until they are deposited in the bank and the checks cashed.

Last Day Deposits Small.

This year's recorded collections on March 31, the last day on which the taxpayer could file his return, were still more than 14 million dollars behind those of last year. Total deposited collections were nearly 181 million dollars, compared with more than 195 million dollars on the same date a year ago.

On the last day for filing returns internal revenue collectors throughout the country deposited $911,833 of income tax funds in banks to Uncle Sam's credit. Experts here said that this sum was only a very small part of the money which flooded into collectors' offices on the last day. The rest will show up in the treasury's accounts as it is deposited and cashed.

Deficit Over 1 1-3 Billions.

The March 31 statement of the treasury showed that the first nine months of the 1933 fiscal year produced a deficit of $1,361,613,789. Receipts were $1,522,239,493 and expenditures were $2,883,853,282. A decline of nearly 200 million dollars in income tax collections in the last nine months was one of the causes of the deficit. In that time the tax has amounted to 564 million dollars compared with 853 millions last year.

The gross debt of the United States now stands at 21 billion 362 million dollars, compared with 20 billion 934 millions at the end of February and 18 billion 506 millions on March 31, last year.

U. S. SELLS ISSUE FOR 100 MILLIONS ON 1.35% BASIS

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—Subscriptions totaling $383,656,000 have been received for the $100,000,000 of 91 day treasury bills which were offered last Thursday. The bills are dated April 5 and will mature July 5.

Secretary Woodin announced tonight that the average price for the bills was 99.659, equivalent to a bank discount basis of about 1.35 per cent. He said the total amount of bids accepted was $100,096,000.

The highest bid was 99.759, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.99 per cent on an annual basis, while the lowest bid accepted was 99.630, equivalent to an interest rate of about 1.46 per cent.

National Carloading Corp. Bought by Van Sweringens

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—Negotiations by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, who already control the United States Trucking corporation, to acquire the National Carloading corporation, a freight forwarding agency, from an affiliate of the Pennsylvania railroad were disclosed today in the announcement that W. G. Bernet, chairman of the trucking company, had been elected president of the forwarding company.

CHICAGO LOANS AID TO N. Y. BANKS BEFORE HOLIDAY

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Echoes of the dramatic events of the night of March 3 when New York and Chicago crawled under the moratorium blanket were seen yesterday in the report of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

This report emphasizes the withdrawal from New York of out of town bank balances. Out of town banks, it states, withdrew nearly 800 million dollars from New York banks just before the holiday.

Chicago bankers, although readily admitting that the pulling down of New York balances by banks throughout the country added greatly to the strain in the nation's biggest money center, are by no means willing to agree to the interpretation that New York was bailing out the rest of the country, particularly Chicago.

Quite the opposite is true, they say. The money taken out of New York by out of town banks, they point out, belonged to the banks that were taking it out. They had put it in New York largely to meet just such an emergency.

Chicago Takes Rescuer Rôle.

The actual bailing out, they assert, was done for New York—not by New York—and Chicago did most of the rescuing.

In the last few days before the banking holiday Chicago bankers became convinced that their New York contemporaries were simply trying to outlast Chicago, in order to instill in the public mind an indelible impression of New York as the one and only important financial center in the United States.

Three days before the moratorium, insiders recalled yesterday, New York asked Chicago for a loan of 175 million dollars, which was granted. The following day a second loan of 75 million dollars was reported to have been rushed to New York by Chicago.

The third day, according to Chicago bankers, came a request from New York for 200 million dollars more.

By that time Chicagoans were less inclined to continue the task of bailing out New York. The word had come back to Chicago that a New York bank had earmarked 40 million dollars of gold for the account of its Paris office. Sufficient credence was placed in this story at least to cause Chicago bankers to refuse to send more gold to New York, despite the receipt of information that the reserve ratio of the New York reserve bank had dropped to about 22 per cent.

Call a Halt on Borrowing.

The Chicagoans had arrived at the conclusion that New Yorkers were trying to siphon funds out of Chicago so that New York banks might remain open longer than Chicago banks and thereby acquire added prestige throughout the nation.

With the stream from here shut off the New Yorkers went into a huddle on Friday night, March 3, and asked for a state moratorium.

Part of this story was later revealed by the federal reserve figures which showed pre-moratorium borrowings of 210 million dollars by the New York Federal Reserve bank, 150 million dollars of which were supplied by Chicago.

Another side light was afforded by the reserve figures on March 8, five days after the beginning of the moratorium, when the reserve ratio of the New York reserve bank was listed at 41.4—barely above the required limit.

On March 29 the New York reserve ratio had risen to 52.2 per cent. The Chicago ratio had risen to 71.4 per cent, the highest figure shown by any of the twelve federal reserve banks. This figure represents the ratio of total reserves to deposit and federal reserve note liabilities combined.

Banks in N. Y. Bare Effect of Moratorium

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—Some of the local banks today issued and circulated reports of their condition as of March 31, despite the fact that no statements have yet been called for by either federal or state authorities and probably will not be required for some weeks yet. The reports showed considerable shrinkage of deposits due to deposit withdrawals during the bank moratoria in many states before the general holiday became effective.

The statement of the National City bank showed net profits for the first quarter of $6,079,000 after charges, or 98 cents a share, which was almost twice the rate of the dividend previously paid on the bank's stock, which was 50 cents a share. That dividend was cut to 25 cents quarterly on March 7. Deposits of the institution decreased from 1 billion 299 million 23 millions on March 31.

Cash and Bonds Lower.

Cash on hand and due banks and bankers, as reported by the National City on March 31, totaled $265,365,823, compared with $300,619,210 on Dec. 31. The bank reported a large shrinkage in its holdings of government bonds, which were sold to provide additional cash during the deposit withdrawal period, such holdings being $240,259,346 on March 31, compared with $364,536,676 on Dec. 31.

The Irving Trust company showed an increase in surplus and undivided profits on March 31, after payment of $1,250,000 in dividends in the first quarter. Surplus and undivided profits stand now at $62,764,863, compared with $62,412,122 on Dec. 31. Deposits amount to $390,832,015, compared with $418,518,780 on Dec. 31.

Bank of Manhattan Reports.

The bank of the Manhattan company shows a gain in undivided profits from $6,889,182 on Dec. 31 to $6,931,681 on March 31, indicating that the dividend of $1,000,000 paid in the period was covered by a good margin.

LOANS BY R. F. C. 240 MILLIONS IN FEBRUARY

Banks and Railroads Borrow Most.

Washington, D. C., April 3. — The Reconstruction Finance corporation today sent to congress its monthly report for February showing loans during the twelfth month of its existence amounting to $240,146,044. Of the total, $166,645,902 went to banks, other financial institutions and railroads; $48,202,771 was loaned to states for relief; $24,859,372 was granted "self-liquidating construction projects, and $438,000 was loaned to institutions engaged in the marketing of agricultural commodities.

Forty-six Million Canceled.

During the period from Feb. 1 to March 28, the report disclosed borrowers cancelled loans already authorized amounting to $46,280,178. Repayments received during the month totaled $32,003,788.

A sharp increase in bank borrowing from the corporation in the 30 days preceding the declaration of the national banking holiday was reflected in the report. Loans to banks and financial institutions in the month, it was shown, were more than twice as much as in the preceding month when they totaled only $74,554,064.

Gardner Cowles Resigns.

Coincident with the loan announcement the corporation announced the resignation, effective April 8 of Gardner Cowles of Iowa as a member of its board of directors. A Republican, Mr. Cowles was appointed to the original R. F. C. board a year ago. He said in making known his retirement today that he had intended to remain on the board for only six months and that he now desired to return to his home for personal reasons. He is publisher of the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

NEW YORK EASES RESTRICTIONS ON POLICY LOANS

New York, April 3.—(AP)—Restrictions on the payment of insurance policy loans and surrender values were modified further today by George S. Van Schaick, state superintendent of insurance.

The restrictions were lifted in the following cases when the companies are satisfied "the applicant has no other reasonable means of meeting the necessity."

"For the purpose of paying taxes, interest, rent, hospital and medical expenses and the purchase of food for the assured or his dependents;

"For educational purposes;

"To farmers for agricultural purposes;

OFFICERS OF NEW DETROIT BANK TO BE CHOSEN TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 3.—Two experienced bankers will be chosen tomorrow by the directors as president and vice president of the newly organized National Bank of Detroit. Then a contract will be drawn for the purchase by the new bank of the assets of the old First National bank, Detroit, and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce. The list of assets to be purchased is nearing completion and will be presented in the federal court with the contract between the new bank and the old ones.

Former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck assumed active charge as receiver of the Guardian Detroit Union group today.

National Bank Deposits 90% Freed: Woodin

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—More than two-thirds of the banks in the country are open again and doing business on an unrestricted basis, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin revealed for the first time tonight in an address delivered here.

Seventy per cent of the banks which are members of the federal reserve system are open again, freeing almost 90 per cent of the deposits which the system held, Secretary Woodin disclosed.

Woodin said that 5,387 member banks holding 26 billion dollars in deposits had reopened by the end of March. The last consolidated member bank condition report showed the system with 6,818 members and 29 billion dollars in deposits.

7,350 State Banks Open.

In addition to the more than five thousand member banks which are open 7,350 state banks which are not members have resumed business on an unrestricted basis, making the total number of 100 per cent banks 12,737, Woodin declared. He gave no figure for the deposits in the reopened state banks.

More than two-thirds of the banks of the country are again doing normal business, according to the secretary's figures. Reopening of the member banks alone has freed 63 per cent of the deposits held by all banks, and the reopening of the additional state banks has added other unestimated millions.

Praising the support which the country has given the banking program, Woodin said that 289 national banks holding 435 millions in deposits had been enabled to open and pay out their deposits largely through the subscription of new capital by the stockholders of the banks. About 30 millions of new capital was necessary to reopen these banks, and all except $550,000 of it came from the stockholders.

Guard Assets in Closed Banks.

Assets of those banks which will not be allowed to reopen will be carefully guarded for the depositors, Woodin affirmed. They will not be liquidated ruthlessly, he promised.

Although he said 600 million dollars in gold and 1 billion 160 millions of all moneys have come back to banks and the treasury during March, Woodin addressed a new plea to hoarders.

"If the amount of money still hoarded can be returned promptly into active use it will give a marked stimulus toward business recovery."

N. Y. BOARD FINDS UTILITY CONCERN INFLATED ASSETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—The New York public service commission, after an investigation, has made a report stating that properties that did not cost the Associated Gas and Electric system more than $2,275,000 when bought from outsiders were placed on the books of the New York State Electric and Gas corporation at $6,500,000. The commission has directed the latter company to correct its accounts and records, specifying the journal entries to be made.

At eight hearings, the commission reports, it developed that the $6,500,000 was to cover a purported sale to the New York State Electric and Gas corporation of certain parcels of land and water rights consisting of hydro-electric plants and undeveloped river sites.

1,500 BUYERS HERE FOR MERCHANDISE MART BIRTHDAY

Approximately 1,500 buyers were reported yesterday as having registered in connection with the third anniversary celebration of the Merchandise Mart. The 800 companies in the huge building are offering special sales to buyers from all over the country. The event is to last through tomorrow.

Buyers yesterday reported that business has been considerably better, with the public more interested in quality than it has been in some time.

NEW NATIONAL BANK TO TAKE OVER MID-CITY

Others Work on Plan to Reopen.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Issuance of a charter to the Mid-City National bank, a new institution which will assume the deposit liability of the Mid-City Trust and Savings bank, was approved yesterday by the controller of currency.

The new bank will reopen for unrestricted business as soon as the necessary legal details are cleared up, D. B. Kennedy, vice president of the old bank, said yesterday. It is expected that the new bank will be open for business in about a week. Ben Mills, president of the Mid-City Trust, will return to Chicago this morning from Washington.

Frees $2,800,000.

Opening of the new national bank will free $2,800,000 of deposits of the Mid-City Trust. The bank has paid off approximately 83 per cent of its deposits in the last three years. This liquidation has been accomplished without resort to borrowing and at the present time the bank has no bills payable. Three years ago its deposits were $14,900,000.

The new bank will be capitalized at $400,000 with surplus of $50,000 and reserves of $50,000. The old bank is capitalized at $1,000,000 and has surplus and undivided profits of $263,000. When the banking holiday went into effect March 4 the assets of the Mid-City were unencumbered. No money was owed and no assets pledged.

Ten more downstate banks were given permits to reopen this morning by State Auditor Barrett last night. They are:

CYPRESS—Farmers' and Merchants' State Bank of Cypress.
LOUISVILLE—Clay County State bank.
ALBERS—People's Bank of Albers.
HUNTLEY—State Bank of Huntley.
SPARLAND—Sparland State bank.
SAINTE MARIE—Sainte Marie State bank.
SHUMWAY—Citizens' State Bank of Shumway.
MARSHALL—The Marshall State bank.

Plans of Other Banks.

Plans for the reopening of other Chicago banks have been impeded by the difficulty in raising new money to meet the requirements of the state and national authorities.

The application of the Stock Yards Bank and Trust company for a national charter is still pending. The bank is largest outside the loop. Before making application for a national charter officials were understood to have obtained waivers on approximately 4½ millions of its deposits, which on Jan. 12 were nearly 15 millions. It was reported yesterday that national authorities have asked that new money be raised in addition to the subordination of the 4½ millions of deposits.

Other banks reported that they are proceeding with their plans for raising new capital with varying success. Officials of the South Chicago Savings bank reported no new developments. The bank is trying to raise about $750,000 of new money.

Work to Raise Capital.

Austin State bank officers conferred again with State Auditor Edward J. Barrett but no plans for reopening the bank were made public. The Oak Park Trust and Savings bank, a reserve system member, was said to have no immediate plans.

Officials of the Aetna State reported that they are continuing their efforts to get $200,000 of new capital.

MARSHALL FIELD SPENDS $500,000 IMPROVING STORE

Modernization Program Gives Work to 400.

BY AL CHASE.

With the opening of Chicago's A Century of Progress exposition Marshall Field & Co. will round out the completion of a modernization and rebuilding program in its State street store involving a total expenditure of half a million dollars and giving steady employment to 400 men, it was announced yesterday by President John McKinlay. Field's spent a quarter of a million dollars in improvements during '32, and this year's program, to be completed by June 1, will represent the same amount, it was stated.

JOHN McKINLAY.

In the recent annual statement of Marshall Field & Co. President McKinlay said: "We are advising our various managers not to stint in expenditures to maintain our physical properties in first class condition. During 1932 we spent $437,762 for additions and $558,157 for repairs. We all continue this policy in 1933." These figures, of course, refer to all the Marshall Field & Co. stores, facilities, etc.

A trip through the store yesterday with G. R. Schaeffer revealed much change, with more under way or contemplated, and intense interest on the part of the public in the sound of actual construction.

"We've discovered that whenever we started work in a department business at once picked up in that particular location," said Mr. Schaeffer. "The psychology of it must be more than curiosity. I believe the public is attracted by the sight and sound of actual construction—something going ahead, something really being done instead of just talked about."

Mr. Schaeffer's views were confirmed in the store tour. Wherever hammers were pounding and saws buzzing there was a crowd of shoppers.

RISK RUBBER CO. BID IN BY GROUP TO REORGANIZE

Chicopee Falls, Mass., April 3.—(AP) Real estate, buildings and other property of the Fisk Rubber company, receivership since 1929, were sold at auction here this afternoon to Orrin Wood of Boston, representing the so-called Fisk reorganization committee, for $3,030,000. The only other bidder was the General Tire and Rubber company of Akron, O.

Sale of the property to the Wood committee was regarded as virtually insuring continuance of the Fisk company as a going concern and means continued employment to more than 700 Chicopee workmen. The property had a book value of $23,000,000. Cash amounting to about $7,000,000 is not included in the transaction.

German Reichsbank Votes Dividend of 12% for 1932

BERLIN, April 3.—(AP)—The German reichsbank, in its 1932 report made public tonight, declared a 12 per cent dividend, the same as in 1931. The net profit of 40,000,000 marks [currently about $9,600,000] for 1932 was sorted. Of this sum 4,000,000 marks will go into the reserve fund, 18,000,000 marks will be devoted to dividend payments, and the remainder will be turned over to the reich's government.

STOCK MARKET STILL SEESAWS; TRADE IS DULL

Prices Rally with Wheat After Decline.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3.—Reopening of the new week found the stock market still inclined to mark time. Prices of leading shares were for the most part heavy until the last hour, when an advance in the wheat market encouraged traders into a moderate excursion on the buying side.

The close left the list in a spotty condition. Although net gains outnumbered losses, the improvements were of such small proportions and the rise so sluggish in getting under way that there was not much justification for enthusing on the market's performance. Volume clung around the half million mark.

Trading was slow in the extreme, with ample evidence that Wall street has yet to get out from under the Washington complex and is much in need of encouragement from general business itself.

There was little or no reflection in stock prices of President Roosevelt's message to congress asking for a cut in interest rates on farm mortgages.

Tobacco Stocks Strong.

Outstanding for consistent strength were the tobacco shares, which maintained themselves from fractions to about 2 points above the previous close in the face of heaviness elsewhere in the list. American Tobacco was the leader. The showing of this group was indicative of a marked change of sentiment toward the big cigaret making companies.

The tobacco shares were helped not only by expectations of better March production figures but by current reports that an early increase in prices for leading cigaret brands is in prospect.

Railroads came in for renewed pressure, especially Delaware and Hudson and New York Central. New found pessimism over the outcome of the Washington railroad conference was the reason for the selling.

Indicative of the market's dull state was the absence of any concerted response by the so-called farm shares to a rise of more than a cent in wheat. Montgomery Ward managed a fractional net gain, but J. I. Case was off at the close.

Public Utilities Weak.

Growing prospects of widespread reduction of rates had the natural result of bringing out more selling of public utility shares. Detroit Edison sagged 5 points to the lowest quotation on record. Others of this group to feel pressure were North American and Consolidated Gas, both of which got down to new bottoms for the year. American Telephone gave an erratic performance, but finished with a small gain on the day.

Little could be said for so-called pivotal industrials. American Can finished up fractionally, as did Du Pont and General Electric, while United States Steel and General Motors were unchanged.

PRICES OF HOGS HOLD FIRM ON MEAGER SUPPLY

Average for Last 10 Days Is $3.85 to $3.90.

Good action developed in hogs on light supplies after a top-heavy opening yesterday. The general market maintained a fairly even keel, with meager receipts about equal to the limited requirements of the trade. Top sales at $4.05 were 5 cents higher than Saturday, but showed 5 cents loss compared with last Friday. The general average again figured $3.90, the same as the average on Friday and Saturday.

In the last 10 days prices have not changed more than 5 or 10 cents. During this period daily top prices have held within a range of $4 to $4.10. Daily averages since March 25 have been either $3.85 or $3.90. The spread is close to the narrowest on record.

Cattle Prices Irregular.

There was some unevenness in cattle yesterday. Light plain quality steers held up well under some pressure and in places showed a little strength. The trend in the rank and file of offerings ruled weak to lower, with closing sales showing 10 to 25 cents loss compared with the close of last week.

No steers in yesterday's run were good enough to bring more than $6.50. There were several lots averaging 1,058 to 1,069 pounds at this figure. The bulk of steers cashed within a range of $4.50 to $6. Cows were weak to 25 cents lower. Calves held firm and bulls sold steady to 15 cents higher than at the close of last week.

Colorado Lambs at $7.60.

The first Colorado spring lambs of the season were on the market yesterday and sold to Wilson at $7.60. Demand for these "new crop" lambs is good. They are used mostly for fancy Easter trade. Many go for religious festivities.

Outlet for last year's crop of "fed" lambs narrowed and prices weakened 15 to 25 cents before sellers managed to dispose of the bulk of offerings. City butchers paid a $5.60 top. Packers bought the bulk at $5.40 and below, getting prime 95 pound shorn stock at $5.15.

Add Four Men for Trustees Under Rail Bankruptcy Act

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today added four names to the standing panel of trustees from which federal courts throughout the country may select trustees to operate railroads which take advantage of the new federal bankruptcy law. W. C. Frankhauser, Allan P. Matthew, and Max Thelen, all of San Francisco, and George R. Sykes of Pinedale, Cal., were added to the list.

Coal Output of Illinois Is 589,000 Tons in Week

Washington, D. C., April 3.—(AP)—Coal production for Illinois in the week ended March 18 was reported by the bureau of mines today at 589,000 tons, against 732,000 tons for the preceding week. Production for the corresponding week in 1932 was 1,452,000 and in 1931 it was 920,000 tons.

COTTON TRADING MIXED; CHICAGO UP SLIGHTLY

Leaders in the cotton trade are expressing divergent opinions as to the affect of the passage of the farm relief bill, as well as the extent of the acreage to be put in this season. Trading is not heavy and the range of prices narrow.

At the close futures in Chicago were 3 to 4 points net higher, although the opening was unchanged to 1 point lower. Liverpool closed 7 to 8 points net higher. Spot markets were irregular; New York unchanged at 6.40 cents; New Orleans, 5 points lower at 6.25 cents; Galveston at 6.25 cents, and Houston, 6.20 cents.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—Raw sugar was firm today but as no sales were reported prices were unchanged at 2.95c for spots. Holders were asking 2.98c for some nearby Porto Rican, but later shipments were held at 3.00c to 3.03c, with no interest from refiners above 2.95c. Futures were easier early, influenced by the inactivity in the spot market, but after declining 2 to 3 points the market rallied on renewed covering and the decline was recovered with the market closing net unchanged to 3 points higher. May contracts sold from 1.04c to 1.08c and December from 1.14c to 1.19c with final prices at the best. Approximate sales, 12,950 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
July	1.10	1.11	1.08	1.11	1.10
Sept.	1.13	1.16	1.11	1.16	1.14
Dec.	1.16	1.19	1.14	1.19	1.17
Jan.	1.16	1.19	1.15	1.19	1.18

The refined market was unchanged with fine granulated at 4.20c. Withdrawals against old contracts were moderate with no new business reported.

TRADE SCHOOLS.

If You Want the Best Training

There are so many schools advertising courses in beauty culture that all of them can't be best. Which one will you select? It's a very important decision and care should be taken in the selection of the proper school. Your success depends to a large extent upon your decision.

Visit any high class beauty salon. Ask them what they think of the Marinello System. Then talk to our Representative. Day or evening classes now forming. Easy tuition payments. Free International Employment Service—or we will help you establish your own business. Your success depends on selecting the right school, the right system, the right teachers.

SOLUTION TO THE MURDER OF DENVER DAN

Knowing Sam to have been a bitter enemy of Denver Dan, Fordney secured the bullet from the coyote and the one removed from Dan's body. In his laboratory he quickly proved that both bullets had been fired from the same gun!

HOUSEHOLD'S
LOW RATE?

Cash loans $300 or less to husbands and wives at reasonable rates. On loans above $100 charge is less than the usual small loan rates; no lower rate in Chicago.

If you are keeping house and can make regular monthly payments you have all the security needed. Quick service. Strictly confidential. Husband and wife only need sign. No endorsers. 20 months to pay.

U. S. Navy Dirigible Akron Falls into Sea Off New Jersey—British Airmen Make First Flight Over Mt. Everest

THE UNITED STATES NAVY DIRIGIBLE AKRON DOWN AT SEA. The giant airship early this morning went down off the coast of New Jersey. Four of the crew were rescued. The ship is the largest in the world and last night carried 77 men.

A CLOSE UP VIEW OF THE DIRIGIBLE AKRON, THE LARGEST AIRSHIP IN THE WORLD, WHICH FELL INTO SEA. The gondola is shown in which officers were riding when the craft went down off the coast of New Jersey. This picture was taken in San Diego, Cal., in May, 1932, when two sailors were killed while attempting to moor the craft. The ship cost $6,000,000. The extent of damage to the great air liner was not immediately determined.

MOVIE STAR AND FILM DIRECTOR WED SECRETLY IN NEVADA MINE TOWN. Alice Joyce and her new husband, Clarence Brown, who eluded friends in Hollywood and stole away to Virginia City, Nev., to be married. It is the third marriage for each of them.

AKRON COMMANDER. F. C. McCord, who was on the giant air liner when she went down off Jersey coast.
